Exit Democracy

ROME.—Ninety per cent of the Italian electorate yesterday approved the Mussolini-picked slate for the 400 members of the last chamber of deputies. The body is scheduled to meet next month to vote its own dissolution and end the last vestige of Italian democracy. Details on page 8.

VIENNA, March 25.—(AP)—The broad outline of Austria's new "corporative" constitution was published in the official government gazette today. At the same time the government paraded its army through the streets of Vienna in the greatest show of military force since parliament was shelved a year ago.

The most striking provision of the new constitution gives the president powers similar to those possessed by the late Emperor Franz Josef when he ascended the throne after crushing a republican revolution in 1848.

President Will Rule.

The president will rule through the constitution, but may change it whenever he thinks an emergency demands. The constitution will be based on the principle that all power emanates from God—in contrast to the present one, which says all power emanates from the people.

(A Vienna dispatch to the New York Times declared Austria will become a clerical-Fascist state with the Roman Catholic church being made a privileged and established church and a new concordat with the Vatican governing the religious and educational paragraphs of the constitution. The state council of culture provided for will consist chiefly of priests and representatives of the Catholic church.)

But the people, nevertheless, will be given an opportunity to express their opinion at the polls whenever the government thinks this advisable. Popular initiative, however, is barred and the people will not have constitutional rights to elect their own government. All legislation must be initiated by the government, which will be advised but not controled by four consultative bodies.

Drop Word Republic.

These will be the state council of 40 to 50 members appointed by the president; the federal cultural council, consisting of representatives of churches, religious societies and schools; the federal economic council, chosen from business, industrial, agricultural and financial circles, and the provincial council, consisting of governors and finance ministers of the various provinces.

To forestall any revival of "demagoche," the public will be excluded from sessions of these advisory bodies. The words "republic" and "democracy" will be omitted from the new constitution and the government will be given the strictest censorship powers over the press, theater, radio, and films. All universities, teachers, and colleges will be under the exclusive control of the federal government.

Who, After Miklas?

The president alone is empowered to appoint a government or demand its resignation. The consultative councils, which will take the place of the old parliament, cannot topple the government by voting "no confidence."

It is still not clear who succeeds the president in the event of his sudden death and also as to who will be president when the new constitution goes into effect. Wilhelm Miklas, elected president under the Republican constitution, presumably will be released from his oath when that constitution is officially replaced by the new one.

The semi-official newspaper, Reichpost, estimated that the government will be ready to proclaim its new charter shortly after Easter.

The newspaper Tageblatt, which continues to describe itself as a "democratic organ," as it did in prewar imperial days, printed an editorial entitled "Cinderella," and likening democracy to Cinderella "standing in a corner forsaken, snubbed, and despised, defenseless against a slap in the face from whoever feels that way."

The Tageblatt consoles its readers with the philosophy that real democracy is not dependent on political phrases, forms, and even the new constitution will give every opportunity to exercise an advisory function in the state.

"In any case the democractic mind, ed have no reason to hang their heads in shame," the newspaper asserted.

It recalled that Cinderella finally married the king's son.

Sees U. S. Congress Shorn of Powers.

Inquiry Demanded

Congressional leaders continue demand for investigation of charges by William A. Wirt that certain unnamed members of brain trust plan overthrow of American form of government. Details on page 4.

While members of congress in Washington were considering what action to take on the statement by Dr. William A. Wirt, of Gary, that the Roosevelt "brain trust" without the President's knowledge is plotting an American revolution, Dr. Wirt made public new charges last night.

DR. W. A. WIRT. (Acme Photo.)

In his new statement the noted educator, who is head of the Gary school system, warns that if certain pending new deal legislation is adopted the next congress will be, in effect, little more than a figurehead.

Willing to Face Congress.

Dr. Wirt said he would gladly appear before a congressional committee and tell what he knows of the alleged "plotted revolution." Washington reports last night indicated he would be called.

"I believe," said Dr. Wirt last night, "that the country ought to be made aware that if present legislation in congress is enacted, if measures we have been led to believe were temporary become permanent, we will have lost much of our American liberty.

"Recently at the code hearings in Washington the administration unmistakably indicated that it is not a theoretical danger. During the next two months legislation will probably be passed which will make all elections to congress unimportant. It will not matter whom the people elect. Our next congress will not be able to do much.

Codes Take Away Liberties.

"Most NRA codes now take away our two fundamental liberties, namely: a hearing is not necessary for a conviction because the government can be judge, jury, and prosecutor; and a man making an agreement with the government can be ordered under threat of punishment to agree in advance that he will give his consent to any regulation or decree which the government decides is good for him.

"Beginning with the Tugwell bill, nearly every piece of New Deal reform legislation provides that an executive department, or commission, or administrator shall have full power to say with finality what the facts are and that no court of review can go into the evidence. I believe the Wagner bill, which purports to be a gift to labor, is a noose for labor.

Radicals Threaten to Quit.

"Last December about 100 intellectual radicals publicly threatened President Roosevelt with their group resignation unless he accepted as his their viewpoints.

"Practically everything indicated in my first statement, which was read at a congressional hearing last week by James H. Rand Jr. as being planned by the intellectual radicals, has already been realized; has either been enacted into laws or is in the process of being enacted.

"In my opinion it is most important that congress investigate this very critical situation. That we are actually in the process of a deliberately planned American revolution has been announced by the revolutionists over and over again. But the American people think that such a thing is preposterous and therefore have not been inclined to even notice the tremendous changes in our government.

"The demand to know the names of my informants is, in my estimation, the usual move to distract attention from the real issue. I cannot, willingly, permit a smoke screen to be drawn over the activities of the radical group while the people are led to concentrate on the crucifixion of two or three culprits. When, in my estimation, the welfare of the country demands that the names be made public, I shall declare them."

FIND ANOTHER REASON WHY GIRLS WANT TO MARRY HARVARD MEN

Cambridge, Mass., March 25.—[Special.]—Harvard students are offering their services as part time nursemaids and cooks to the busy housewives of Cambridge and Boston to help earn their college expenses.

A woman who wants to leave her baby at home while she goes shopping or who wishes to be relieved of the burden of preparing the evening meal may call in a Harvard boy at any time, and the charge for the service is small. And they will not only watch baby but wheel its carriage through the neighborhood for an airing for a small fee.

Harvard undergraduates by the hundreds also are ready to dash off and wash windows, dig gardens, run errands, read aloud, take dogs for an airing, play music, sing, or do almost any job.

It is estimated that about 40 per cent of the undergraduate body are seeking part time employment.

HELD UP IN FRONT OF CHURCH; AUTO AND $19 STOLEN

Held up in front of St. Thomas' Catholic church at 55th street and Kimbark avenue, Edward J. McEvoy, 7529 Cregier avenue, an assistant to the chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, was robbed of $19 and his automobile by three bandits last night.

McEvoy was sitting in his car waiting for his family to come out of the church when the trio approached on foot. Two of the men clambered in the front seat, and, with an armed robber riding in the rear seat, they drove to Washington park. Halting on a secluded drive, the bandits ordered McEvoy out and drove away.

DEFLATE TIRES OF FIFTY AUTOS IN EVANSTON

Vandals last night deflated the tires of more than 50 automobiles in the south section of Evanston. They punctured the tires in some cases while in others they merely removed the plungers from tire valves. Among the victims were Alderman Fred Wahl [8th], who lives at 829 Case street, and Policeman Elmer Higley, 826 Milford street. Fourteen cars of persons attending a dinner party at 825 Elmwood avenue were on the list.

Cast Giant Eye for Telescope; Damage Mold

Corning, N. Y., March 25.—[Special.]—Mishap today befell the most ambitious scheme yet launched by man for prying further into the secrets of the universe when portions of the mold in which the world's largest telescope mirror was being cast at the Corning Glass works here collapsed under the terrific heat. The ten hour job of pouring almost forty tons of molten glass went on without interruption, however, workmen merely fishing the floating pieces of broken forms out of the white hot "soup" before completing the 200 inch disc's surface.

Many Witness Spectacle.

Both officials of the glass company and scientists assembled from many parts of the country to witness a spectacle that may never be repeated in the history of the world were inclined to hide whatever chagrin they felt over an incident that marred an otherwise perfect day and to insist that, if everything else goes well, it will have no serious effect on the project in hand. But they did not attempt to deny that the partial failure would make the job ahead of them more complicated.

The mirror is to take its place in the world's largest telescope being designed for the Carnegie institute of Washington and the California Institute of Technology. It will be set up on an as yet unnamed mountain site in California. The present largest telescope is on Mount Wilson.

Pylons Break Loose.

Dr. Walter S. Adams, director of the Mount Wilson observatory, who told reporters the new mirror would enable astronomers to explore twenty-seven times as much of the space surrounding our own solar system as that with which they are now telescopically familiar, said two or three of the torret-like pylons had broken loose and floated to the top of the molten glass. He attributed this to the melting of iron bolts which were supposed to hold the pylons in place.

"Since the mold is constructed of ceramic materials," he said, "and the specific gravity of these is less than that of the borosilicate glass used in the casting process, these loosened pylons immediately floated to the top, where they could be fished out. All the mishap means is that the glass will be filled in solidly where there should have been a 'valley' on the back of the finished casting, and this will have to be drilled out with sandblasting apparatus or other equipment."

FLOATING OVER OCEAN IN ONE YEAR, LETTER ROAMS MAILS 13 YEARS

FILMORE, Irish Free State, March 25.—(AP) Thirteen years ago Patrick Boyle found a letter in a bottle cast up by the sea. It was addressed to Mrs. R. H. Walker of Montreal, and when Patrick stamped it and mailed it neighbors laughed at him, for the origin of the letter was plainly written on it—Port Burwell, Ungava bay.

Good Irish folk knew it was impossible for a bottle with a letter in it to drift across the Atlantic. Port Burwell is off the north shore of Quebec, near Baffin land. But the letter followed Mrs. Walker from Canada to Russia, Germany, Belgium, Montreal, Winnipeg, and back to London before it reached her. Meantime she had become Mrs. L. M. Hope, now of Vancouver.

She finally got it, and wrote to Patrick apologizing for delayed acknowledgment, revealing that the missive was consigned to the Atlantic July 20, 1920, from a vessel caught in the ice off Port Burwell. Patrick is showing her letter to neighbors.

RIVAL WATCHMEN DUEL WITH GUNS AND BOTH MAY DIE

Philip Hume, 49 years old, 4635 Malden street, and Mat Kofler, 51, of 3043 Eastwood avenue settled their business rivalry with guns last night. They are private watchmen, each working for himself and each his own boss. Nightly the two traveled their beats, in the neighborhood of Lawrence avenue and Pulaski road.

The trouble was that their beats were practically the same and competition between them to get new clients to protect was bitter. Whenever one posted cards advertising his service the other, it was said, would tear them down. Furthermore, police said, there were several window breakings in stores protected by the men and both always accused each other of the vandalism.

Last night the watchmen met in front of 3901 Lawrence avenue. Both drew guns and fired. Hume fell, shot in both legs below the knees, and also in the thigh. A leg artery was severed. Then, as Kofler leaped upon him and started to beat him over the head, Hume fired and struck Kofler in the lower part of the abdomen. They were taken to the Belmont hospital. Physicians said that both may die from their wounds.

MAKERS AND WORKERS TO SET UP RULE BOARD

HERE'S TEXT OF PEACE PACT IN MOTOR BATTLE

WASHINGTON, March 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt tonight issued this statement detailing settlement of the automobile dispute:

"After many days of conferring in regard to the principles of employment in the automobile industry, the following statement covers the fundamentals: 1. Reduced to plain language, section 7A of N. I. R. A. means—

"[a] Employes have the right to organize into group or groups.

"[b] When such group or groups are organized they can choose representatives by free choice and such representatives must be received collectively and thereby seek to straighten out disputes and improve conditions of employment.

"[c] Discrimination against employes because of their labor affiliations, or for any other unfair or unjust reason, is barred.

"A settlement and statement of procedure and principles is appended hereto.

Lives Up to Principles.

"It has been offered by me to, and has been accepted by, the representatives of the employes and the employers. It lives up to the principles of collective bargaining. I hope and believe that it opens up a chance for a square deal and fair treatment. It gives promise of sound industrial relations. It provides further for a board of three of which the chairman, as a neutral, will represent the government.

"In actual practice details and machinery of course will have to be worked out on the basis of common sense and justice, but the big point is that this broad purpose can develop with a tribunal which can handle practically every problem in an equitable way.

PRINCIPLES OF SETTLEMENT.

"Settlement of the threatened automobile strike is based on the following principles:

"1. The employers agree to bargain collectively with the freely chosen representatives of groups and not to discriminate in any way against any employe on the ground of his union labor affiliations.

"2. If there be more than one group, each bargaining committee shall have total membership pro rata to the number of men each member represents.

"3. NRA to set up within twenty four hours a board, responsible to the President of the United States, to sit in Detroit to pass on all questions of representation, discharge and discrimination. Decision of the board shall be final and binding on employer and employes.

"Such a board to have access to all pay rolls and to all lists of claimed employé representation, and such board will be composed of [a] a labor representative, [b] an industry representative, and [c] a neutral.

"In cases where no lists of employes claiming to be represented have been disclosed to the employer, there shall be no basis for a claim of discrimination. No such disclosure in a

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Settlement of the threatened strike in the automobile industry, affecting 250,000 workers, was announced tonight by President Roosevelt.

The accord was reached almost at an eleventh hour, after a seeming deadlock had imperiled success of the negotiations and while employes and their leaders were muttering renewed strike threats. One union in Flint, impatient of the delays, had issued a strike order tonight, effective tomorrow morning, and it was necessary for officials here to telephone instructions to countermand the instructions.

The President and his aids showed their gratification at having averted a bitter industrial dispute in the nation's most thriving industry, a dispute which might well have engulfed other industries in a long and ruinous warfare to spell the doom of the recovery program.

Intervenes Three Times.

Not until the President had intervened a third time in the negotiations was the agreement reached, and until that time all hands in the controversy had shown extreme pessimism.

The settlement as disclosed by Mr. Roosevelt in a lengthy statement is marked by a compromise on the main point at issue, and while the manufacturers in a statement claimed a victory for themselves, the labor representatives refused to concede any degree of defeat. The President likewise found neither side to be conqueror in the dispute.

The pact contains one unique feature hailed by Mr. Roosevelt as of high economic significance. For the first time, as the President pointed out, definite rules were applied in an industry for the laying off of certain classes of individuals ahead of others in slack periods. Men with families are to be given preferred consideration.

Points Out New Road.

As a second major accomplishment set out in the pact, the President pointed to provisions for establishing relations between employers and employés which, for the first time in any large industry, would provide the basis on which "a more comprehensive, a more adequate, and a more equitable system of industrial relations may be built than ever before."

There were five major points to the agreement.

1. The employers' promise to bargain collectively with the "freely chosen representatives" of groups and not to discriminate against any employé because of union labor affiliations.

2. Bargaining committees shall be set up on which the various groups of employés may be represented, according to their proportionate strength in the plant or industry.

3. The provision was that the NRA should within 24 hours set up a board, responsible to the President, to sit in Detroit and pass upon all questions of representation, discharge, and discrimination. Decision of the board is to be final upon all concerned. Three men will serve on the board, one representing labor, one industry, the third being neutral.

Major Fight Over Third.

The third principle was the one over which the major controversy was staged, a controversy which up until the President intervened this afternoon seemed likely to prevent any settlement being reached.

There was no dispute on the question of establishing the board, but there was plenty on whether the unions should be required to submit lists of the names of their members to the employers. The employers insisted on having the names. The unions refused to surrender them.

It was finally worked out, on a compromise basis, so that the special board would have access to all lists of pay rolls and union members. However, it was stipulated that no lists of union members should be shown to any employers except by specific direction of the President. On the other hand, it was provided that no union member could complain of discrimination by an employer unless that employer had a full list of the union membership in his employ.

Thus it appeared to be a compromise on both sides.

4. The government made clear that it does not favor one form of employé representation above another, and does not favor a "company union" nor an "outside" or independent union.

5. In the reduction of forces "such human relationships as married men with families come first and then seniority, individual skill and efficiency."

service." After these factors have been considered, the agreement states, "no greater proportion of outside union employés similarly situated shall be laid off than of other employés." In case of dispute on the manner of lay-offs, the decision shall rest with the special board of three.

Mr. Roosevelt in his statement paid tribute to the "earnest and patriotic devotion" displayed by both employers and employés representatives during the negotiations. He referrred to the pact as charting out "a new course in social engineering."

The administration entered actively into the automobile dispute a week ago. Gen. Johnson attended meetings of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce without succeeding in reaching a basis for settlement. Wednesday President Roosevelt called for a truce on the eve of the day set for the strike, and the negotiations which ended tonight began.

Pessimistic to Last Hour.

Reaching of an accord in the controversy, despite the glowing words of the President, was unexpected as late as four o'clock this afternoon when the labor leaders, with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, went to the White House.

At that time Gen. Johnson declared somewhat impatiently that "this is the worst situation I have ever encountered."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who with his chief organizer, William Collins, has directed the effort to unionize the automobile industry, asserted somewhat grimly at the same moment that "We will end this tonight, one way or the other."

The NRA boss had spent most of Sunday in fruitless arguments with representatives of both the employers and the unions. This morning he had met with the manufacturers and found them still unyielding. At 1 o'clock he called in the labor men, and he harangued with them until it was decided that the labor committe should go to see the President.

Before going to the White House Gen. Johnson said that "the trouble with these people is that they don't seem to accept any responsibility as negotiators. They keep saying: 'I have to consult with my principals.'"

Mr. Green went so far as to say that there was no use in continuing negotiations in Washington any further beyond tonight, and he indicated that the scene of action must shift, in the event of failure, to the factories and to labor's chief weapon, the strike.

Unions Become Restive.

The union men already had received a demand from some of their members in Flint, Mich., that a deadline should be fixed for 8 o'clock tonight, and if the manufacturers failed to come to terms by that hour, that a strike order be issued calling all union automobile workers out at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

These same members, getting no word by eight o'clock tonight, issued a strike order. President Green telephoned the local leaders, notifying them of the agreement, and directing that the strike order be canceled.

It was in this dubious condition that the matter lay when President Roosevelt took his final hand. After two and a half hours of discussion with the labor leaders, the meeting broke up, and immediately Gen. Johnson gave indication that a settlement had been reached.

"Is the strike settled?" he was aked on the White House portico.

"Except for one word about this long," he replied, and he held his thumb and forefinger about a quarter of an inch apart. "I'll have to get the manufacturers' agreement to that word."

Green Announces Progress.

Mr. Green came out a few minutes later and verified that "very decided progress has been made this afternoon."

Within an hour Gen. Johnson had conferred with the automobile manufacturers by telephone, and he then notified the President that the agreement had been approved.

A delay in making known the details of the agreement was caused because the suddenness of it had caught the White House clerical staf unprepared.

It was necessary for Secretary Early to summon typists and a mimeograph operator from their homes so that the full text of the settlement might be published.

Mr. Green said that the name of Richard Byrd, representative of the General Motors truck workers at the Pontiac, Mich., plant, would be recommended to the President as labor's choice for the labor member of the special board of three.

Rail Report Depressing.

Earlier in the afternoon the President had received another somewhat discouraging report on the situation in the railway wage controversy. This was from Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, placed by the President in charge of efforts to compose the differences between the rail managements and the brotherhoods.

Mr. Eastman reported, it was learned, that the union representatives had declined to accept the compromise he suggested, which followed the lines proposed by Mr. Roosevelt himself. He expressed hope, however, that the labor men would soon fall in line.

Mr. Eastman had held a two hour session with the railway conference committee of managers this morning. He said that the negotiations could not be said to have reached a deadlock, and that both groups were in conciliatory and friendly moods.

The coördinator's job of seeking an agreement satisfactory is made difficult because of the fact that the labor men, having already accepted one extension of the 10 per cent wage cut, are afraid to take another extension on the ground that it may be considered permanent.

In the end it is believed the brotherhoods will accept the President's request that they agree to a six months' extension of the present agreement, with the proviso that certain of the lowest paid workers on the roads be given wage increases at this time.

Both Sides Pleased with Peace

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"The terms of the settlement of the threatened automobile strike recommended by the President and accepted by the automobile manufacturers and the workers guarantees the workers the right to organize, to bargain collectively and to be represented by men of their own choosing.

"This means that while the workers gained the principal point for which they were contending—strict observance of section 7A of the National Recovery act, the automobile manufacturers have simply given assurance of their full compliance with the labor section of their own industrial code of fair practice, their willingness to obey the law.

From Strike to Council.

"Under the stipulations provided for in the settlement, the automobile manufacturers and their workers may proceed to adjust and settle their differences in an orderly and business-like way. The scene of the conflict has been transferred from the strike field to the council room. If fair and just dealing is practiced by both sides and good faith is shown by the representatives of the automobile manufacturers and their workers, a fair and just settlement of all grievances which have arisen between the two contending forces will be brought about.

"The machinery for collective bargaining has now been set up. It depends on those who will operate the machinery as to whether it will operate successfully or fail utterly. The public interest calls for the utilization of this machinery to the fullest extent, the settlement of disputes which threaten the peace of the industry and the well being of those associated with it, and for the settlement of just grievances presented by the employés in a prompt and equitable way.

Victory for Both.

There is no basis for a claim on the part of either side of the controversy, employers or employés, that either has gained a victory over the other.

"The settlement represents the application of common sense principles which should apply in human relations in industry. All decent, fair minded citizens who are interested in seeing justice done to all connected with industry, will join in an expression of approval and of appreciation of the service rendered by the President, Gen. Johnson, and those associated with them in working out the formula to be applied in the settlement of disputes which arose in the automobile industry, and in the establishment of coöperative industrial relationship.

Sees Peace in Industry.

"The terms of the settlement of the dispute which arose between automobile manufacturers and their employés proposed by the President means that instead of strike there will be peace in the automobile industry. Let us hope that this means continued peace, the establishment of a better relationship between employers and employés, and the recognition on the part of the automobile manufacturers that the old order is passing and a New Deal, which provides for the proper recognition of the rights of labor, is here and fully recognized."

Alvan Macauley, president of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, as well as president of the Packard Motor company, had one sentence of comment to make on behalf of the manufacturers:

"We are very grateful to the President and to Gen. Johnson that they have been able to find a settlement in accord with the principles in which we believe."

COUGHLIN DECLARES A. F. OF L. FALLS SHORT IN ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Detroit, Mich., March 25.—(AP)—"Swift, just, and sane" governmental action to settle the labor disputes in the automobile industry was predicted by the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin in a speech which he delivered today, a few hours before the White House announced that the threatened strike in the industry had been settled.

Father Coughlin defended the principle on which labor unions are based, but criticized the American Federation of Labor for failing to live up to what he said were its "immense resources."

The priest said the income of the American Federation of Labor amounts to approximately $30,000,000. "With that income the federation should have accomplished thirty times as much each year," he said.

Father Coughlin said the automobile workers "must organize and, thanks to the attitude of the automobile manufacturers, which for thirty years have opposed every attempt of its workers to do so, there is only one organization to which the workers can turn, the American Federation of Labor. That organization, none will deny, has accomplished much good, but not so much as its financial support warrants. Also, the federation has suffered much in the public mind from a belief that it has been run for profit."

IRISH FOES SHOUT "DICTATORSHIP" AT EACH OTHER

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 25.—(AP)—The most used word in Irish politics today is "dictatorship." President Eamon De Valera is charging his blueshirt opponents with an attempt to establish an Irish dictatorship while his foes, seizing on his move to abolish the senate, are flinging back the same charge at the president.

Gen. Owen O'Duffy, United Ireland party [opposition] leader, speaking at Ennis today said:

"Let there be no mistake in the minds of the people that President De Valera is heading for a dictatorship. With the senate removed the independence of the judiciary can be attacked."

De Valera, meanwhile, at Mullingar said: "The senate as presently constituted will definitly be abolished. Perhaps there will be nothing in its place."

150 African Chiefs Welcome Prince George at Ceremony

SALISBURY, South Rhodesia, March 25.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty African chiefs representing 500,000 natives gave Prince George of England a spectacular welcome Saturday as he arrived on his tour of British Africa. Crawling on their hands and knees, eight Mashona chiefs laid at the prince's feet, upon a Union Jack, a fine pair of silver mounted elephant tusks, pledging loyalty to the throne. In return they received gifts of walking sticks from the prince.

TEXT OF PEACE PACT IN MOTOR STRIKE BATTLE

Unions to Represent the Workers Pro Rata.

particular case shall be made without specific direction of the President.

"4. The government makes it clear that it favors no particular union or particular form of employé organization or representation. The government's only duty is to secure absolute and uninfluenced freedom of choice without coercion, restraint, or intimidation from any source.

"5. The industry understands that in reduction or increases of force such human relationships as married men with families shall come first, and then seniority, individual skill and efficient service.

Outside Labor Limited.

"After these factors have been considered no greater proportion of outside union employés similarly situated shall be laid off than of other employés. By outside union employés is understood a paid up member in good standing, or any one legally obligated to pay up. An appeal shall lie in case of dispute on principles of paragraph 5 of the board of three.

"In all the hectic experience of NRA I have not seen more earnest and patriotic devotion than has been shown by both employers and employés in the automotive industry. They sat night and day for nearly two weeks without a single faltering or impatience. The result is one of the most encouraging incidents of the recovery program. It is a complete answer to those critics who have asserted that managers and employés cannot coöperate for the public good without domination by selfish interest.

"In the settlement there is a framework for a new structure of industrial relations—a new basis of understanding between employers and employés.

"Charted New Course."

"I would like you to know that in the settlement just reached in the automobile industry we have charted a new course in social engineering in the United States. It is my hope that out of this will come a new realization of the opportunities of capital and labor not only to compose their differences at the conference table and to recognize their respective rights and responsibilities, but also to establish a foundation on which they can coöperate in bettering the human relationships involved in any large industrial enterprise.

"It is peculiarly fitting that this great step forward should be taken in an industry whose employers and employés have contributed so consistently and so substantially to the industrial and economic development of this country in the last quarter century. Having pioneered in mechanical invention to a point where the whole world marvels at the perfection and economy of American motor cars and their widespread ownership by our citizens in every walk of life, this industry has indicated now its willingness to undertake a pioneer effort in human engineering on a basis never before attempted.

Names Two Advances.

"In the settlement just accomplished two outstanding advances have been achieved. In the first place, we have set forth a basis on which, for the first time in any large industry, a more comprehensive, a more adequate and a more equitable system of industrial relations may be built than ever before. It is my hope that this system may develop into a kind of works council in industry, in which all groups of employés, whatever may be their choice of organization or form of representation, may participate in joint conferences with their employers; and I am assured by the industry that such is also their goal and wish.

"In the second place, for the first time we have written into an industrial settlement a definite rule for the equitable handling of reductions and increases of forces. It would be ideal if employment in all occupations could be more generally stabilized, but in the absence of that much desired situation, if we can establish a formula which gives weight to the human factors as well as the economic, social, and organizational factors in relieving the hardship of seasonal lay-off, we shall have accomplished a great deal. My view, and that of both employés and employers, is that we have measurably done so in this settlement.

Holds Both Responsible.

"This is not a one sided statute, and organizations of employés seeking to exercise their representative rights cannot at the same time be unmindful of their responsibilities.

"Industry's obligations are clearly set forth and its responsibilities are established. It is not too much to expect organizations of employés to observe the same ethical and moral responsibilities, even though they are not specifically prescribed by statute. Only in this way can industry and its workers go forward with a united front in their assault on depression and gain for both the desired benefits of continually better times."

KNUDSEN SEEN AS MEMBER OF NEW AUTO BOARD

General Motors Executive May Be Picked.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 25.—[Special.]—Intimations among auto manufacturers here tonight were that W. S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, may be chosen as representative of the employers on the new NRA auto board set up in the Washington peace pact. He has a background of both labor and employer.

He is of Danish birth, in the middle fifties, and he came up from the ranks of the workers, starting as a riveter. He was originally with the Ford organization, and has served in the auto industry in Europe and other foreign countries as well as here.

For the last three or four months he has been executive vice president of General Motors in charge of the Detroit area, the great producing ground.

Richard E. Byrd of Pontiac named as the labor representative is secretary of General Motors Truck local labor union at Pontiac. He was one of the six labor officials who appeared as spokesmen before President Roosevelt Thursday.

A walkout, as Detroit envisioned it, would have filled the streets and parks again with crowds of jobless as in the years of the depression, and would have spread to the point where nearly 400,000 workers in the automobile factories and parts and accessories plants all over the country would be out of work.

In the automobile plants in the national automobile chamber of commerce are 183,000 workers. This does not include Ford with some 45,000. Estimates are that in factories making parts, there are some 200,000 employés, or almost as many as in the car plants themselves.

Ever since the strike was postponed last Tuesday at the behest of President Roosevelt, the general belief in Detroit has been that a strike would be averted. Tonight the city is filled with a spirit of rejoicing.

INSULL'S BRITISH FRIENDS RUSH TO AID OF HIS WIFE

Let Her Enter England, They Demand.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 25.—Friends of Samuel Insull in London are preparing a mass attack on the home office and the American embassy tomorrow. They intend to use all of the influence they possess to get permission for Mrs. Insull to enter England. After a visit to the home office the deputation will call on the American embassy, where, it is understood, they have an appointment with Ambassador Robert Worth Bingham.

Insull's friends scoffed at rumors the 74 year old fugitive has changed ships at sea. They state that they know the exact position of Insull's chartered tramp steamer, the Maiotis, and why he is not making for any particular destination.

Ready to Meet Mrs. Insull.

One of Insull's friends is at a coastal resort, where he is waiting to depart to meet Mrs. Insull as soon as he is notified she has left Athens. In a telephone conversation with THE TRIBUNE correspondent, he said:

"As soon as we are ready Insull will land somewhere and it won't be long now. We want to prevent him from being hounded by newspaper men. If the newspapers leave him alone the American authorities will soon forget all about him. It is the continual press campaign, particularly in Chicago, which is making everybody keep on the lookout for poor old Sam. I can't see why newspapers can't leave him alone and give him a little peace."

Meanwhile diplomats of several nations are wondering what to do about Mrs. Insull.

She wants to leave Athens for London, but the French at first refused a visa. Eventually this was straightened out and the visa was granted with the understanding that she would leave Paris for London on the first available train and boat. Paris has nothing against Mrs. Insull, but prefers that she get out of France as quickly as possible. Then trouble arose in London, where authorities were not very keen on having the woman, either.

Seeks to Avoid Complications.

London, too, has nothing against Mrs. Insull. Nevertheless, the fact remains that the name of Insull has become somewhat notorious and British authorities are not taking any chances of possible complications such as arose between the Greek and American governments.

"Has the British government any objection to Mrs. Insull coming to London?" a foreign office official was asked.

"I know of no reason why Mrs. Insull should not come to London, but I can only say that we have received a communication requesting that she be allowed to come to London and attend to certain private business, and that this request is receiving consideration," the official replied.

Appeal to Authorities.

Insull's friends in London, upon receiving the intimation British authorities were hesitant over letting Mrs. Insull enter, offered to guarantee her financially. They also guarantee that she will leave the country at once when authorities request her to do so.

A leader of the Insull group said he had telephoned Mrs. Insull in Athens and informed her of what was going on. She reported that she had just received a radiogram from her husband. She said the message told her not to worry; that he was quite well and content to remain at sea as long as his friends and advisers want him to. She said she was distressed at not being able to proceed to London, but expressed the hope matters would be cleared up by tomorrow so that she would be able to leave Athens Tuesday.

VANISHES AGAIN

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, March 25.—Samuel Insull, fugitive Chicago utilities promoter, vanished again today, when the freighter Maiotis, on which he is supposed to be the sole passenger, left the vicinity of the iland of Rhodes after the ship had taken on a fresh supply of water and provisions.

As the ship put out to the open sea once more the question arose as to whether Insull really is still aboard the ship. He has not been seen by anybody except the crew for a full week. The last persons to identify him, outside of his own family, were Greek police officers attached to the alien control office. Two of them know Insull well, and gave the flattest assurances that he was aboard the Maiotis when the ship was recalled by the Greek government upon Insull's first flight.

Owners Are Questioned.

The Maiotis again left Greece at 2 a. m. last Sunday. What has happened since then is a mystery. The question as to whether Insull is still aboard his chartered freighter was put to the Synodinos brothers, owners of the ship, tonight. They admitted they had no direct knowledge that he is still aboard.

This admission does not necessarily suggest Insull landed either at Rhodes, which is highly improbable, or that he stepped off on an obscure Greek iland. If he is no longer aboard the Maiotis it is probable he has changed ships in the eastern Mediterranean and now is bound for a mysterious refuge.

The Maiotis is still in touch with its owners, but they refuse to state its position. Insull has chartered the ship until April 20 with an option to renew the charter.

MARTIN INSULL TURNS HOPES FOR AN EARLY RELEASE TO CHICAGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., March 25.—Martin J. Insull, fugitive utilities promoter whose extradition to Chicago to stand trial on larceny and embezzlement charges was held up a week by Canadian red tape, today turned his hopes for an early release from jail to authorities of Cook county.

The warant that will take Insull back to Chicago, signed by the Earl of Bessborough, governor general of Canada, in the name of his majesty, the king, and surrendering the fugitive to the President of the United States, was issued at Ottawa yesterday. It was mailed to C. R. Magone of the provincial attorney general department. Because the parliament buildings are closed on Sundays there was no mail delivery there today. Upon receiving the warant, Mr. Magone said, he will hold it until Lieut. Frank Johnson, designated as the presidential messenger, arrives to fetch Insull.

Insull, according to attendants at the Don jail, where he is incarcerated, was cheered by the news the warant, which will enable him to go free on bail, had been issued. The fugitive prisoner, who is 65 years old, is said to have lost weight during his ten days of confinement. He partakes sparingly of the regular jail fare of gruel, stew, and rice one day, and gruel, beans, and rice the next.

READY TO LEAVE.

Lieut. Frank Johnson of the state's attorney's office said yesterday he had not yet received word from the Canadian authorities as to when Martin J. Insull would be turned over to him. He was ready to depart for Toronto, Ont., where the former utility magnate is held a prisoner, but awaited a message that all legal requirements had been fulfilled.

Hitler Sues Publishers of His 'My Battle' in France

PARIS, March 25.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler of Germany is asking 1,000 francs [about $65] damages for each copy of his book "Mein Kampf" ["My Battle"] which he claims was published illegally in France. The book was seized by French police on Hitler's orders. The chancellor claims French editors were not authorized to publish the book, since he gave exclusive rights to a German firm. A preliminary hearing of the case, based on a complaint written by Hitler and translated by the German embassy, resulted in postponement today until June 4.

BIRTHDAY FETES FOR ROOSEVELT RAISES MILLION

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—Approximately $1,000,000 was raised for the Warm Springs, Ga., foundation for infantile paralysis through the President's birthday balls. Col. Henry L. Doherty, chairman of the national committee for the balls, said tonight financial reports from more than 4,000 communities in which the benefit dances were held were now being audited and the fund would be turned over to Mr. Roosevelt presonally, at a date to be set by the White House.

PRESIDENT SAILS WEDNESDAY ON FISHING CRUISE

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt completed arrangements tonight for his sailing cruise in southern waters which will start from Jacksonville Wednesday morning.

Apparently confident that labor difficulties can be settled, now the auto strike has been averted, the President is determined to get in the brief respite he long has planned.

He will leave Washington Tuesday night by train for Jacksonville where he will board the Nourmahal, Vincent Astor's yacht.

The yacht, trailed by a destroyer, the U. S. S. Ellis, will proceed immediately southward where Mr. Roosevelt plans to put in a week fishing.

It is the intention of Mr. Roosevelt to limit his vacation to ten days which will permit him to dispose of any legislation which may be passed during his absence within the constitutional time limit.

Cleaners' and Dyers' Union Delays Strike Indefinitly

The threatened strike today of 3,000 workers in the Chicago cleaning and dyeing industry was indefinitly postponed yesterday at a massmeeting called by B. A. Albert, president of the cleaners, dyers, and pressers' union, at Plumbers' hall, 1340 West Washington street. Decision to postpone the strike was attributed to the efforts of the Chicago regional labor board.

SENTIMENTAL ROBBER GETS GEMMED SWORD, SHUNS ROYAL JEWELS

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—A discriminating thief shattered a display window of the Hammer galleries at the corner of Park avenue and fiftieth street before daybreak today and got away with the gold-hilted, jewel-crusted sword of the late Grand Duke Vladimir, uncle of the last czar of Russia.

Other valuable items, all associated with the last of the Russian royal families, were within reach of the thief, but he left them.

THIEVES FAIL TO CRACK SAFE, BUT FIRE BUILDING

Thieves who were unable to open a safe in the office of Oscar Leistner, Inc., novelty importers and manufacturers, 333 West Randolph street, accidentally or intentionally set fire to the place early today. Firemen called to the scene discovered the office safe out of position and notified the police. The safe showed signs of chiseling.

Police said the cracksmen might have started the fire in anger over their failure to open the safe. The fire damage was estimated at $6,000 by Chief Joseph Graham of the First battalion.

MOVE FOR QUIZ BY CONGRESS ON WIRT'S CHARGES

Leaders in Both Parties Want Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Leaders of congress from both parties were moving today, despite a seeming lack of enthusiasm on the part of administration leaders, to bring about a congressional investigation of the charges made by Dr. William A. Wirt, noted educator of Gary, Ind.

The Wirt charges, made in a letter read to a congressional committee Friday, were to the effect that unnamed members of the Roosevelt brain trust had told Dr. Wirt that they were using the President as a temporary tool, that he was the Kerensky of the American revolution later to be supplanted by a Stalin.

Representative Alfred L. Bulwinkle [Dem., N. C.], today sought support for a resolution he says he expects to introduce tomorrow or Tuesday in the lower house, calling for a special investigation of the matter, and for the inviting of Dr. Wirt to Washington. The educator will be asked to give the names of the members of the brain trust who made the "infamous and traitorous" statements to him and to detail the conversations he held with them.

Republicans in Conference.

Meanwhile the Republican leadership of the house held a conference at which the Wirt charges were discussed. The conference, attended by Representatives Bertrand H. Snell of New York, Republican leader of the house; Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], and Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.], agreed that the Wirt accusations must be probed, and that unless the Democrats moved promptly to this end the Republicans would initiate a resolution to accomplish an inquiry. The group decided to confer again, and to obtain the assistance of Representative Carl E. Mapes [Rep., Mich.], a member of the committee before which the Writ charges were laid.

On the senate side, Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] announced that if the house balks an investigation, he will introduce a resolution in the senate asking that a committee be appointed to conduct an inquiry for the upper house.

"I know Dr. Wirt, a citizen of my home state, as a man of finest character and probity," Senator Robinson declared. "His statement is so convincing to me that I cannot contemplate letting it go unchallenged. A thorough and impartial inquiry must be directed."

Wants Facts in Sunlight.

Congressman Britten asserted that the full facts of Dr. Wirt's communications must be brought "out in the sunlight" at once.

"If members of the brain trust expressed such ideas and purposes," he said, "they must be exposed and driven out of the government office and out of the country. If they did not make such statements, and it can be shown they do not hold such purposes, the country and the whole world ought to be told so."

Members of the brain trust have kept silent under the barrage of criticism leveled at them since the first bomb contained in the Wirt letter was exploded. Efforts were made to reach the leaders of the trust, including Prof. Tugwell and Donald R. Richberg, chief counsel for the NRA, who are rated among the most radical of all brain trusters.

Taussig Denies 'Inside Tip' in Dumping Aviation Stock

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Interviewed today on whether "inside" information had caused him to unload 10,000 shares of North American Aviation company stock last month, Charles W. Taussig, an original member of the Roosevelt brain trust, denied that he was guided by any information except what he read in the newspapers.

Mr. Taussig's name appeared on the lists submitted by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange, in which were shown the names of those who sold stocks in aviation corporations during the period immediately preceding the cancelation of the air mail contracts by Postmaster General Farley.

"Long" Sale, Record Shows.

Because he was and is one of the intimate advisers of the administration, Mr. Taussig was asked to explain why he sold the North American stock.

"I owned 1,000 shares of the stock outright and had the certificates in my possession," he replied. Incidentally Mr. Whitney's list showed that Mr. Taussig's was a "long" sale, as distinguished from a "short" sale.

"I bought the stock a good many months ago to carry for an indefinite length of time as an investment. The principal reason for my selling it was that for days I had been reading in the newspaper reports that the air mail contracts were to be canceled, and that there was trouble in the air concerning them.

Facts from Newspapers.

"I was expecting to go out of the country for a spell, and I thought it good business not to carry the stock in view of the situation."

"Did you talk to Mr. Farley about it, or to any one else in Washington?"

"Absolutely no," Taussig explained. "I had no contact, directly or indirectly, with any one who had anything to do with air mail contracts. I had no information whatever except what I read in the newspapers, which was sufficient, it seems to me, to warrant anybody's holding stock as I did to sell it."

HIGH ROME COURT RULES 'NEW LIFE' OPERATION LEGAL

ROME, March 25.—(AP)—The moot medico-social problem of gland transference and rejuvenation had its day in court today and the high tribunal of Rome decided such an operation is not illegal.

The Supreme court ruled that a gland operation performed by a surgeon, Dr. Jannelli of Naples, on a wealthy Argentine citizen, Vittoria La Pegna, was not against Roman law. Three other courts previously had acquitted Dr. Jannelli.

It was a case of the state against the surgeon. The court ruled that inasmuch as La Pegna's general health was improved by the operation it could not be considered an offense against society, particularly since the young student, Paolo Salvatori, from whom the gland transfer was made, did not suffer thereby.

OLD SYE, LAST OF DOGS ON FAMED BALTO TEAM, DIES

Cleveland, O., March 25—(AP)—To those of you who have kept green the memory of Balto and his brothers, old Sye is dead.

It was in 1925 that Balto broke trail in the dash into Nome, Alaska, with a precious load of diphtheria anti-toxin to fight an epidemic. Balto guided his master out of a blizzard and into stricken Nome to become famous over night in a thousand headlines.

Twelve hundred Clevelanders in 1927 contributed funds to buy Balto's teammates from a Los Angeles dime museum. Balto himself had died a year earlier. The Clevelanders erected a monument at Brookside park to mark the deed of the dogs in the Nome crisis.

One by one the huskies died. Only old Sye remained. And today Sye, too, 17 years old, none to steady on the feet which trod Alaskan snows, died in Brookside zoo.

The monument will be moved to a more conspicuous spot, and the dogs' sled will be placed on display in the administration building.

1,850 CITIZENS PAY TOTAL OF $80,000 IN TAXES SUNDAY

The collection of more than $80,000 in taxes, mostly on 1932 bills, was announced yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough. For the convenience of taxpayers the office on the first floor of the county building will be open Sundays until April 15, the dead line for payment of 1932 real estate taxes. When the doors opened at 9 o'clock yesterday morning a line of taxpayers formed at the cashiers' windows. By 4 p. m. when the office closed some 1,350 persons had paid taxes.

COURTNEY TELLS FINNEGAN CRIME WAR IS LAGGING

Letter Urges Judges to Greater Efforts.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney yesterday made public a letter he sent to Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, calling attention to the fact that the crime war, started last August by former Chief Justice John Prystalski, has been dwindling for the past three months.

The prosecutor asked Judge Finnegan to urge his associates to greater efforts now that the dockets have been cleared of the important cases, which have taken up so much of the judges' time in the last three months. The present condition of the dockets is due, it was explained, to the fact that trials such as those of the Touhy gang, the Hackett kidnapers, the Wynekoop murder, and the racket conspiracy, have held back disposition of the ordinary run of criminal cases.

Opportunity for Service.

"Realizing that it is your desire to coöperate, and having in mind the splendid effect of the drive conducted against crime during the closing months of last year, I would respectfully urge that you call to the attention of your associates the great opportunity for service now afforded us," Mr. Courtney's letter reads:

"It is my belief that the reputation Chicago attained as a crime center was changed to a considerable degree because of the efforts put forth in this direction last year. Many visitors to the World's Fair, after leaving our city, wrote me expressing their satisfaction of conditions existing during their visit. With the opening of the Fair again approaching, we must go forward and not permit conditions to slide back to where they once were.

"With this idea in mind I am sure that you will agree with me in doing all within your power to coöperate in cutting down the number of undisposed cases. I feel that if the various judges would place additional cases on their daily call, the situation would be greatly relieved."

460 Crimes of Violence.

The statistics gathered by Mr. Courtney and submitted to Judge Finnegan shows that approximately 460 cases of crimes of violence, which should be speedily disposed of to set an example for swift justice, are now on the dockets. In addition approximately 265 other cases await disposition making 725 in all that are pending on the dockets.

The records show that 210 robbery indictments, 130 larceny indictments, [most of these involve automobile thefts], 23 murder cases and 98 charges of burglary are awaiting disposition by the judges.

"I am of the opinion that the time has arrived for greater effort on the part of all concerned to dispose of the cases now pending." Mr. Courtney's letter reads.

When the original crime war had gathered full momentum with a specially selected group of judges on the Criminal court bench, the pending crime cases were reduced to near the 500 mark. It is agreed by all those interested in the conduct of the Criminal court that the pending list should never be over 200 cases if speedy justice is to be had.

Cut Time in Courtroom.

A check up of the courts recently by Chicago Crime commission investigators shows some judges have fallen back into the habit of cutting short their time in their courtroom. Last Friday it was found that only two or three judges were on the job after the noon recess. Recently Judge Harry B. Miller, who has a reputation for being one of the hardest working judges in the criminal courts, was criticised because he ordered a new case to go to trial as late as 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Some of the judges of late have been adjourning court any time after noon if the case then on trial has been concluded.

Judge Walter P. Steffen, whose record shows that he does not watch the clock to adjourn court promptly at 4:30 o'clock, the usual hour for closing court, if a case can be finished and a new one started the next morning, has been one of the chief advocates among the judges for a clean up of the dockets.

Chief Justice Finnegan requested additional judges several months ago and three judges were assigned to help out while the important trials were in progress. Two of those judges, however, have returned to the civil courts, Judge Marcus Kavanagh and Judge George Fred Rush. The third, Judge Daniel Trude, has remained in the court.

The chief justice is at present tied up with the racket conspiracy trial, which it is expected will last at least two more weeks. With this case out of the way ten judges will be available to dispose of the more than 700 pending cases. At least one of the courtrooms is vacant because of the lack of an additional judge and two others are occupied by Municipal court judges, who could work elsewhere if enough Criminal court judges could be obtained.

Judge Finnegan said he would discuss the prosecutor's communication with his associates at the regular weekly meeting this noon.

GOV. LAFFOON STRIKES AT COURIER-JOURNAL AS 'PUBLIC FOE NO. 1'

Frankfort, Ky., March 25.—(AP)—Gov. Ruby Laffoon tonight assailed the Louisville Courier-Journal, terming it "Public Enemy No. 1" and the "Dillinger of the Press." His speech, on "Accomplishments of the Recent General Assembly," referred indirectly to the Armentrout episode. He paid for time on the newspaper's own radio station.

[Vance Armentrout, acting editor of the Courier-Journal, was fined $25 by the house of representatives after first being jailed because he refused to reveal to the house lobby investigating committee the author of a letter to the newspaper's Point-of-View column.]

Gov. Laffoon charged that the policy of the paper, published by Robert Worth Bingham, ambassador to England, "is now largely dominated and controled through its counting room and by an unhappy, dissatisfied and worn-out politician.

"Kentuckians," he asserted, "receive information deliberately intended to make them lose faith in their officials and in their government," for "The Courier-Journal by half truths and deception seeks to mislead and deceive the honest and unsuspecting of its readers."

County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd is recovering in his home at Arlington Heights from injuries incurred in a freak accident. The commissioner was returning home from a political meeting early yesterday when a few blocks from home, a cock pheasant rose suddenly from the road and crashed through the windshield of his automobile. The shattered glass cut Mr. Byrd's face.

NILA COOK WOULD PUT SHOWGIRLS IN U. S. CHURCHES

Gandhi's Blue Goddess on "Spiritual Jag."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Nila Cram Cook, whose escapades made Mahatma Gandhi mourn, today announced she had come to America to effect a great merger—a union of church and theater, with "follies" girls dancing around the altars of the great cathedrals of the land.

Officials here were of the opinion that Nila, the pretty Davenport [Ia.] native who once milked a hundred sacred cows daily on the banks of the Ganges, had been deported for her Calcutta shenanigans, but this—on the solemn word of the Blue Serpent goddess—is untrue. British officials in India, she said "invited" her to America.

Thrilled over the invitation, which involved their carrying her, struggling and kicking to the freighter City of Elwood, which docked here yesterday, the erstwhile disciple of Gandhi spent the nine weeks of the voyage working out a new salvation for the land of her birth.

Inside on Gandhi.

But before revealing her great ambition of making boys of the country's most dignified pastors, with the congregations worshiping at the feet of the ladies of the ensemble, Nila released a bit of strictly inside information. The ascetic Gandhi, a divine prophet to India's adoring millions, has a press agent.

That Mahatma, she disclosed, in an exclusive interview, leaves nothing to chance when he throws off his full dress clothes and goes into fasting. In case the reporters from Bombay to Delhi muff it, he issues a press release.

In announcing she had dedicated her life to bringing a new beauty into the drab lives of Americans, the deportee from the Holy Mount of Abu today talked slightly more rationally than she did on her arrival on Saturday. At that time she dazed conventionally minded reporters by announcing she was six months old and would live another 8,000,000 years.

Spends Night at Brother's Flat.

The Blue Goddess spent the night at the home of her brother, Harl Cook, a small walkup flat on the top floor of a five story midtown east side building. She conceded that the apartment, a single room with two day beds overlooking the Second avenue elevated had little resemblance to the beautiful vale of Kashmir where she studied at Gandhi's feet.

"But the beauty is there," she cried. "Just look and if it is in your heart you will see it."

The reporter took a look but apparently his heart wasn't working properly.

"I didn't sleep all night," Nila continued. "At daybreak I went out alone and walked to the St. Patrick's cathedral where I stayed until 11."

Says She's on a Jag.

"I'm on a jag," Nila continued. The reporter, who had hopes there might be some spirits left, perked up, but it was no go.

"I mean on a spiritual jag," she said. "I love the world. The world loves me. I am bringing beauty into the world.

"The church must embrace the theater. Think of the gorgeous girls of the 'follies!'"

"The theater is so splendid," she went on. "The ancients had the right idea. They made the stadium part of their religion."

Miss Cook was taking a bath when the interviewer discovered her hideout. Her 6 year old son, Sirios Proestos, born of a short lived marriage with a young Greek aristocrat, was playing on the floor with a new toy boat.

The surprising child on Saturday characterized Gandhi as a "grumpy old bat" that "mama used to like, but she doesn't any more."

The boy's admissibility was questioned at Ellis iland because of his Greek birth.

Miss Cook said the real trouble in India is not that the various castes hate each other, but they love each other too much.

"It's love, all love," she said. "It's like a big, happy family, that loves each other, having little bickerings. The British love the Hindus and the Hindus love the British. Why, wherever you go they'll invite you in, wash your feet and perfume you with jasmine. I was washed and perfumed in hundreds of places."

Silent on Romance.

She refused to comment on stories told by officers of the freighter that brought her from Calcutta that she developed a romance on the voyage with brawny, curly haired Al Hutchins, officers' mess steward, and that Hutchins expected to make her his bride some day this week.

As the reporter was leaving he thanked her for the interview.

"Never say 'thanks,'" said Gandhi's ex-follower, "it means I don't love you."

KILLS SELF WITH POISON.

Apparently despondent over ill health, Otto Camp, 43 years old, 1713 Larrabee street, ended his life by swallowing poison yesterday.

Law May Part Nila Cook and Son

Nila Cram Cook of Davenport, Ia., former disciple of Mahatma Gandhi, as she arrived in New York on Saturday with her young son, Sirios Topolos Proestos, after her deportation from India. The boy now faces deportation from America and his mother indicated she may let him go alone.

BAR WILL TRY TWO ATTORNEYS IN ICKES CASE

Grievance Committee to Plan Action Today.

The grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association will meet today to consider action on charges of "unprofessional conduct" made by Secretary of the Interior Ickes against Lucius J. M. Malmin, former federal judge of the Virgin Islands, and C. W. Larsen, former assistant corporation counsel. The hearings on the charges will probably be public, said F. Howard Eldridge, chairman of the committee, because both sides demand full publicity.

In his demand that the two lawyers be disbarred, which was served on the association Saturday, Secretary Ickes said he would prove that the attorneys made a false attack on his reputation and threatened to make their charges public unless they got federal jobs. Secretary Ickes said he is prepared to appear before the committee to press the charges.

Malmin Is Surprised.

Attorney Malmin, who arrived from Washington early yesterday, expressed surprise at the action of Secretary Ickes. In his home at 1362 Greenleaf avenue he declared he is still a friend of Ickes and all he had been trying to do was to protect Ickes.

"All I asked of him was that he establish friendly contact between three men—Roosevelt, Ickes and Malmin," said Mr. Malmin. "I am sorry he has misunderstood the situation and acted foolishly. I invite a public hearing."

Mr. Malmin gave a history of a Probate court case involved in the secretary's charges. He said Mr. Ickes in 1929 was an attorney for the administrator of the estate of Clarence Saunders, who died Aug. 9, 1928, leaving an estate of $19,256 in cash and two lots in Los Angeles.

Clears Titles to Lots.

"Instead of distributing the cash to the two heirs, Roland Saunders, a dentist, who was administrator at Ickes' solicitation, and his sister, who lives in Massachusetts," said Mr. Malmin, "Ickes spent $11,000 in clearing title to the lots. This, I believe, was poor judgment, because the lots were not worth the money.

"Last June Mr. Larsen came to me and told me he was going to ask the Bar association to investigate Ickes. As a friend of Ickes I said I would see him in Washington and straighten out the matter. I saw Ickes in the capital the following October. After explaining the facts to him I told him to forget the matter, because I was satisfied he did no wrong, and asked him to take me to see the President the next day and introduce me.

Writes Letter to President.

"Ickes said the President was leaving the next day on a river trip but he would see him. On my return to Chicago I wrote a letter to the President and sent it to Ickes for delivery. I do not know whether it was delivered but a copy of it was when I gave it to Mrs. Dall, daughter of Roosevelt, during a visit here.

"Later I learned department of justice agents were here investigating the entire case. I gave them a statement and secured one from Larsen in which he said on his professional word he would not press action against Ickes. He is now sorry he gave me that statement.

"All I have done is try to protect my friend, the President, from whom I expected an appointment, from embarrassment and protect my friend Ickes. There is certainly nothing reprehensible in that."

Larsen, who lives at 4509 Schubert avenue, said he became interested in the estate because Dr. Saunders had asked him as a friend to look into the matter. Saunders wished to get more out of the estate, he declared. Later Saunders' sister, Margaret Belle Saunders, retained him to bring a petition for a rehearing.

Mr. Malmin was the first United States District judge of the Virgin ilands, receiving his appointment from President Wilson in 1920. A few months later he was ousted by the Naval governor of the ilands, but was reinstated by the United States District Court of Appeals at Philadelphia in 1921 through a mandamus action brought by Malmin. He resigned a few months later after an attack of tropic fever and returned to Chicago.

N. Y. TAXICAB STRIKERS AGAIN STAGE A RIOT IN MIDTOWN AREA

New York, March 25.—[Special.]—Resuming their violence of last week after a comparative lull of three days, taxicab strikers tonight again invaded the Times Square and midtown sections of the city, assaulted cab drivers, wrecked a dozen cabs and shouted defiance of the police. Sporadic acts of violence occurred also in various other sections. A bullet was reported fired at a taxicab bearing two passengers at Broadway and 55th street.

The violence was resumed after a meeting of 7,000 union strikers late in the afternoon had rejected the peace program worked out Saturday at City hall in conferences with representatives of the union and the large fleet operators.

This program, calling for a plebiscite of the 12,000 drivers employed by the Parmelee, Terminal, and Radio Cab companies, against whom the strike is principally directed, was rejected by the strikers on recommendation of the same leaders who Saturday had agreed to accept it in their conferences with Mayor La Guardia.

AFGHAN EX-KING'S DAUGHTER LOST; HINT LOVE AFFAIR

WARSAW, Poland, March 25.—(AP)—Agents employed by former King Amanullah of Afghanistan arrived in Warsaw today to search for the king's daughter.

The girl has been missing from Rome since the dismissal of a Jewish tutor, Edward Wollman. According to reports, the girl became enamored of Wollman, a Polish Jewish medical student, who was ousted by the Nazis from the University of Berlin.

A Warsaw Jewish daily published the story of a romance between the girl and the young Jewish tutor. Former King Amanullah immediately denied a reported engagement between the two.

SEE SHOWDOWN IN CONGRESS ON LABOR MEASURE

Wagner Program Issue in Auto Crisis.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—There is to be a showdown in congress shortly on the issue raised in the controversy between the automotive industries and the American Federation of Labor.

It is coming on the Wagner labor disputes bill, backed by the A. F. of L. and important administration influences, which is designed to outlaw the company union and compel employers to deal with the A. F. of L. in collective bargaining on wages and conditions of employment.

President Roosevelt has not committed himself on the measure up to date, but if he gives it his indorsement its sponsors expect to put it through congress at this session.

Abounds in Penalties.

Taken by and large, this is a bill for the protection and strengthening of organized labor. Like the NIRA which it would supplement, it abounds in regulations and penalties for business enterprise, but is devoid of regulations and penalties for labor organizations.

This measure would prohibit any "attempt, by interference, influence, restraint, favor, coercion, or lockout, or by any other means, to impair the right of employés" to organize and join labor organizations. It would penalize an employer who refused to recognize or deal with representatives of his employés.

It could be construed to forbid an employer to close down his factory in the midst of a labor dispute. In fine it would sanction the strike by employés but discountenance the lockout by employers.

Cuts Employers' Powers.

It would forbid an employer "to initiate, participate in, supervise, or influence the formation, constitution, by laws, other governing rules, operations, policies or elections of any labor organization." It would also forbid an employer "to contribute financial or other material support to any labor organization, by compensating any one for services performed in behalf of any labor organization, or by any other means whatsoever." By these provisions it is sought to outlaw the company union.

Another provision makes it unlawful for any employer "to engage in any discriminatory practice as to wage or hour differentials, advancement, demotion, hire, tenure of employment, reinstatement, or any other condition of employment, which encourages membership or non-membership in any labor organization."

This pertains to complaints that employers reward employés who join company unions and punish employés who sign up with the A. F. of L.

The bill also provides that an employer and a labor organization may agree to make a plant a closed shop if the labor organization comprises a majority of the employés, such agreement to run for one year. The measure creates a national labor board to administer the provisions and clothes the courts with power to enforce them. The benefits of the bill would be extended to all employés, including those on strike, but not to persons taking the places of strikers.

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], the A. F. of L. officials, and other sponsors of the bill contend it would go farther toward establishing a fair, permanent, and peaceful basis of relations between industry and labor than has ever existed in any country. The automobile chamber of commerce says:

"The bill would in effect unionize every industrial worker in the country, regardless of his own wishes, and would set up a labor dictatorship with power and authority exceeding anything yet experienced in the United States, and it would result in giving a labor union official virtual domination over American industrial life. Everybody, from the farmer with more than one man in his employ to the large manufacturer with thousands dependent upon him for their livelihood, might be subject to the whim of some irresponsible professional labor organizer."

Labor Tries New Tack.

In the Wagner bill the A. F. of L. aims to gain everything that it has failed to obtain under the famous section 7A of the national industrial recovery act, which provides: "Employés shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing and shall be free from the interference, restraint, or coercion of employers . . . in the designation of such representatives or in self organization."

The theory of the NIRA was that employers were to be permitted to band together and employés to band together for purposes promotive of their own good and the public welfare. At once there set in a race between capital and organized labor to gain advantage under the new dispensation. Under the protection of a statute proscribing interference on the part of employers, the American Federation of Labor, which had never numbered in its ranks more than 10 per cent of persons gainfully employed, set out to unionize the other 90 per cent. It sent out a horde of organizers to enroll workers into unions in a multitude of industries. The workers were told that under the New Deal they were to get a larger share of the returns of industry and that the intent of the law was that they should get it through organization and collective bargaining.

Start Company Unions.

The employers in many industries which had never been unionized quickly moved to check the A. F. of L. campaign by initiating the organization of company unions, that is local unions not extending beyond the plants of the individual company. The A. F. of L. protested at once that such company unions were unlawful under the NIRA but Donald Richberg, general counsel of the NRA, himself a labor lawyer, ruled that a company union is legal if it is the choice of the employés.

The employers preferred collective bargaining with company unions because they feared the consequences of the general unionization of industry by the A. F. of L. If the A. F. of L. were to unionize industry, as the employers envisaged it, the organization would amass a war chest of not less than a billion dollars a year from union dues, would be able to call nation-wide strikes, and ultimately dictate to industrial managements how their business was to be conducted.

Complied with Section.

Many company unions had been in existence for years before the birth of the NRA. Many were formed afterward, either before the A. F. of L. organizers arrived on the scene or while the A. F. of L. was endeavoring to enroll members. In most cases the formation of company unions was inspired and facilitated by the company. The employers kept within the letter of section 7A which proscribed "interference, restraint, or coercion" in the self-organization of employés but said nothing about aiding and abetting.

An example of company promotion of the organization of company unions is afforded by the Fisher Body corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors. On Aug. 17 Vice President E. F. Fisher addressed a letter to the employés in which he said:

"We are presenting in detail in the attached booklet a plan to provide all employés under our jurisdiction with direct personal representation with management through men of your own selection. . . . We have made this plan your plan."

Booklet Outlines Plan.

The plan submitted was that of a company union with a constitution and by laws set forth in the booklet. One of the by laws provided: "Members of the works conference shall receive from the company payments commensurate with their average earnings for time spent in actual attendance at regular and informal meetings. Suitable quarters for meetings of the works conference will be arranged for by the plant manager. Minutes of all meetings and transactions will be kept by a secretary, whose expenses shall be paid by the company." Another section provided that "Any method or procedure contained herein shall not be amended except by unanimous agreement of the works conference and the plant manager."

Thus the employers were fighting fire with fire. In the old days they had contented themselves with dogged resistance to unionization, offering no alternative. The A. F. of L. suffered one of its most signal defeats at the hands of the late Judge Gary in its efforts to organize the United States Steel corporation employés. It had tried and failed to organize the automobile industry in boom times.

Tactics Are Changed.

But with the advent of the New Deal the tactics in the warfare between capital and labor underwent a change. Employers no longer opposed all unions; they eagerly embraced one kind of union—the company union. The A. F. of L. found its path to power under the NRA squarely blocked by the company union.

IBN SAUD AT WAR

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 25.—(AP)—Reports from Hejaz, Arabia, were received today saying fighting for the possession of the Asir border region near Mecca had broken out between Ibn Saud and the Iman of Yemen.

The conflicts were simultaneous with the concentration of many thousands of pilgrims from all of the Moslem world in Mecca to visit Kaba, "the stone descended from heaven," and the tomb of the prophet.

Many pilgrims came by foot on a route through Asir and plan to return that way.

LABOR DISPUTE BILL ASSAILED BY STATE INDUSTRIAL LEADERS

Predicting that the Wagner labor disputes bill, now pending in congress, would cause industrial strife and the defeat of national recovery, the Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday urged industrial and commercial associations throughout the country to protest to President Roosevelt against its enactment.

It was advised that the protest be made through the industrial representatives on regional labor boards in the various districts. The industrial members of the Chicago regional labor board have already taken such action in a message which was sent to the President:

"We unqualifiedly condemn such compulsory, drastic, and arbitrary action as that contemplated by the bill. We believe its passage will create strife, widen the gap between labor and employers, permit widespread violations of the law itself, destroy many small businesses, and effectually defeat recovery.

"We also wish to state that it is our experience and observation that the national labor board has recently built up a body of rules and regulations operating in the interest of labor unions and the closed shop and tending towards the complete unionization of industry in the United States."

FINDS NEW SHIP OF DEATH UNDER DESERT PYRAMID

[Copyright, 1934, by the New York Times.]

CAIRO, March 25.—Another underground boat to convey the dead, this one known as the "Ship of Resurrection," has just been discovered in the area of the Gizeh pyramids. Under the auspices of the Egyptian university, Prof. Selim Hassan has been excavating there around the pyramid he has identified as that of Queen Khent Kawes of the fifth dynasty.

He has now found an unopened boat cut deep in the rocks to the west of the pyramids. It is about 110 feet long and 15 feet wide at the center. It differs from those previously found in connection with other pyramids in that the others were usually cut on the surface of the rock and were open. Generally they were situated to the east of their respective pyramids.

This boat presumably was intended to travel from west to east, the setting sun taking the dead with it from this world and returning them to the east to be reborn. The boat was unopened because the bodies being transported from one world to another should not be seen. Because the boat is unopened and cut so deep in the rock it can be recognized as a boat only when one descends into the rocks.

SHOT TO DEATH 'AS VIBRATION OF CAR FIRES RIFLE

George Snyder, 55 years old, a farm hand living near Genoa in De Kalb county, was shot and fatally wounded yesterday in a freak accident. Snyder was seated in an automobile and John Nichols of De Kalb, a friend, cranked the engine by hand. The vibrations of the engine, when it started, according to Nichols, caused a 22 caliber rifle which Snyder was holding between his knees to discharge, the bullet striking him in the heart.

Former Blue Island Newspaper Man Dead

Cleveland, O., March 25.—(AP)—Norris W. Quinn, 36, once a newspaper publisher at Blue Island, Ill., died today after an emergency operation to correct a head injury he received a month ago when he fell on an icy pavement. He was editor of the Electrical League magazine and long a newspaper man.

HUSBAND, WIFE ROW; BOTH SHOT; HIS WOUND FATAL

Frank O'Boyle, 31 years old, a city fireman, died in the Evangelical hospital early today of bullet wounds received yesterday morning during a fight with his wife, May, 28, in their home at 5437 South Elizabeth street. She was also wounded.

Both O'Boyle, before he died, and his wife told conflicting stories. When police called at their home they found he had wounds in the abdomen and the left arm and she had been shot in the left wrist.

O'Boyle said that his wife opened fire on him during a quarrel resulting from her accusation that he was running around with other women. Mrs. O'Boyle declared that he shot her after charging her with going out with other men. O'Boyle denied the revolver used was his. Mrs. O'Boyle said he had owned it for several years.

FIRE DAMAGES OLD EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN ELGIN

All fire-fighting equipment in Elgin was called out last night to battle a fire in the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer, in downtown Elgin, which for a time threatened the entire building, the original part of which was constructed in 1880. The blaze was brought under control about 1 o'clock, following a two hour fight in which the rector, the Rev. Crawford W. Brown, and parishioners of the church joined with firemen in the battle to halt the spread of flames.

Damage was estimated at several thousand dollars. Valuable vestments, the interior of the main auditorium, walls, and the basement were ruined or badly damaged. The church, built of brick, is the oldest religious structure in Elgin.

Wife's Screams Foil Plot to Kidnap Roselle, Ill., Man

An attempt was made by three men last night to kidnap Henry Botterman, meat market owner, from his home in Roselle, in Du Page county. "You're coming with us," one of the kidnapers said, pressing a pistol against Botterman's side. His wife heard the disturbance and threw open a window and screamed. The three gunmen fled to an automobile and sped east toward Chicago.

ASSEMBLYMEN TO OPEN PRISON INQUIRY TODAY

An investigation into conditions at the two state penitentiaries at Joliet will be launched today by a special committee from the lower house of the Illinois assembly. Representative Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur], chairman of the committee, has called for a hearing this morning in the office of Warden Frank D. Whipp at the old prison.

The inquiry will center around alleged irregularities in the prison accounting system, which is operated by convicts, and charges that narcotics have been smuggled out of the prison drug supply and sold to inmates.

Doyle said that several accountants and investigators would be questioned. The committee has the power to subpena witnesses. Doyle reiterated his statement that it was not a "whitewash" investigation.

SCHOOLS CHOOSE 'TUG' WILSON FOR ADVISORY POST

N. U. Athletic Director to Help Trustees.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern university, has been asked to serve as advisory director of physical education in the Chicago public schools, it became known yesterday. It was said that the university officials have agreed to let Wilson help out with the athletic program in the city.

The 1934 school budget will carry a small appropriation for a downtown office for Mr. Wilson at the school board headquarters in the Builders' building at La Salle street and Wacker drive. School trustees, who spent Sunday toiling on the budget, said that under Wilson's supervision they expected to bring forth an outstanding athletic program in the Chicago schools.

Reached in Evanston last night, Wilson admitted that the trustees had talked to him about the job.

Wilson Glad to Help.

"I should be very glad to accept this opportunity to help out," Mr. Wilson said, "subject to the approval of Supt. Bogan. Last year, on the invitation of the school board, I helped to reorganize the physical education department of the Chicago schools under the economy program."

Mr. Wilson said that he had received valuable assistance from Supt. Bogan and the teachers during the school year and that the full athletic program had been kept intact despite a reduction in personnel. It is expected that the school board will act on the Wilson appointment at a special budget meeting today.

While the trustees worked on the budget, another phase of the school problem was discussed over the radio by Gov. Horner. In a personal appeal last night broadcast from a Chicago station, the governor urged support for the gasoline tax diversion bill upon which a vote is pending before the state senate at Springfield tomorrow.

Only Efficient Measure.

Gov. Horner declared that the gas-tax-for-schools measure was "the one measure so far offered that is efficient, practical, self-operating, and consistent with the financial stability of our state, and which will give that immediate relief tending toward the solution of the financial trouble of our schools."

Under the present law the 3 cent gas tax is divided equally among the state, counties, and cities. The diversion bill would transfer one-third of the share of each of the three governments into the state common school fund. This would amount to approximately $10,000,000 annually.

Additional Third in Chicago.

The bill also provides that an additional third of Chicago's motor fuel tax distribution would go directly to the support of the Chicago schools. The governor praised Mayor Kelly, who proposed this additional diversion, for his cooperation.

Two other school revenue plans, advanced by Republican leaders in the legislature, were characterized as "merely marsh lights and mirages" by Gov. Horner. These measures would divert all state liquor taxes and all revenue above $2,500,000 in monthly sales tax receipts to the schools.

$7 OIL STATION HOLDUP.

Two bandits, one of them armed with a pistol, entered an oil station at 3559 Belmont avenue last night and robbed the attendant, Frank Janis, 3121 North Central Park avenue, of his money changer, containing $7.

Czechoslovakia Eager to Buy U. S. Goods; Begins Negotiations for New Trade Deal

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 25. — Brimming with energy and a spirit of enterprise Czechoslovakia is eager to coöperate with America in a campaign to revive business and trade. Negotiations are proceeding in an effort to bring both countries closer together.

Emil Oplatka, editor of the Prager Presse was informed of THE TRIBUNE'S search for wider markets. He at once offered to open a department for American exporters who formerly sold their goods in Czechoslovakia but abandoned the market during the depression.

Invites Americans to Write.

Mr. Oplatka has invited American traders to inform his newspaper in which branches of trade they are interested. The newspaper, in turn, will forward their request to economic experts and to individuals who would do them the most good.

Although Czechoslovakia is full of pep, she is having a tough time. Her trade today is 30 per cent of what it was in 1928. She is an industrial country and must sell her products to get money to buy raw materials elsewhere.

Czechoslovakia inherited 80 per cent of the industrial plants of the former empire of Austria-Hungary. After the war, when the world was starving for goods, she developed these plants.

She even created new industries. The Skoda works, which formerly manufactured only guns and ammunition, began to turn out automobiles. Then came the depression and the automobile business collapsed. Other industries suffered alike.

Industry Bands Together.

The Czechs are not doing much sighing about it. They are trying to find some way out of the dilemma. If they can do it without indulging in government control and restrictions they'll be happy. Nevertheless they have come to the conclusion that at the present moment the different branches of industry must band together and try to organize a sound economic program.

For the American business man who is seeking a market in Czechoslovakia this is important—the goods he wants to sell must fit the needs of Czechoslovakia. With exports down to 30 per cent of what they were, Czechoslovakia is short of foreign currency. Consequently any item on which she spends money must help her earn money somewhere else. The different industries have formed their cartels, do their buying independently but the government withholds the foreign currency needed to pay for goods abroad if it is established that the industry has sufficient reserves.

The chambers of commerce have united to form a national chamber. Its duty is to direct and increase the country's exports. But this chamber must also see to it that nothing that Czechoslovakia needs is exported.

Eager to Buy in U. S.

What raw materials Czechoslovakia needs she would prefer to buy in America and England—the old Czechs are not fond of their German or Hungarian neighbors. Though a nation of 15 million persons, Czechoslovakia has a German minority of 6 million in strong industrial areas. Many of these Germans are opposed to Chancellor Hitler's Nazi government. The result is that where German-Czech industry once clung tenaciously to the fatherland and bought as much as it could in Germany, it is now looking wistfully to America. Jews play a big part in Czech business. Many of them have turned from their German business friends and are looking for American dealers, provided these American dealers can deliver as quickly and as cheaply as their competitors in Europe.

The question of bank legislation enters at this point. Bank drafts run for six months. In a number of cases a Czech who buys in America issues a first draft when placing his order. By the time the goods have arrived the time limit is almost up. As a result the importer must pay the draft and interest before he has either started selling the goods or turned the raw material into a finished product.

America's European competitor can deliver more quickly. His banking laws enable him to extend the drafts more easily.

What Czechs Want from U. S.

Czechoslovakia wants to buy from America cotton, metals, oils, radios, movie films, machinery, and specialty textile materials.

For two years the Czechs have had no American motion pictures, but negotiations are under way to prepare a new American-Czech film agreement. German competition and complicated business intrigues had closed this market for America.

Czechoslovakia would very much like to buy American radio sets. The Czech foreign office is striving to equip its legations with powerful sets capable of tuning in the Prague station. American sets, the present exchange rate of the dollar, are the best for their price—but there is patent license trouble.

American manufacturers agreed not to try to sell in Europe, leaving the market to the Europeans controlling patents in Europe. The patent pool may have seemed profitable to American producers, but it prevents American sales in Europe. Any radio firm able to build sets which do not conflict with patents held by the R. C. A. and Telefunken patent pool could do a thriving business.

What Czechs Have to Sell.

Meanwhile Czechoslovakia wants to increase her sales in America. She is seeking to sell more linens, hops, and spirits to Americans. She contends that statistics do not give an accurate picture of the actual amount of goods she buys in America.

Miroslav Subert, director of the economic department of the Czech foreign office, pointed out that Czechoslovakia really bought 40 per cent more cotton from America in 1933 than American statistics show. She spent 127,554,000 gold crowns for cotton in America, but purchased additional cotton in Bremen, bringing up her American cotton bill to 318,000,000 crowns.

Barter deals have been made between America and Czechoslovakia. Recently a large shipment of prunes was sold to the Czechs. Instead of getting cash the American traders took Czechoslovakian spirits. Similar barter deals are being planned for hops. Czechoslovakia claims her hops, of which the famous Pilsen beer is made, are the best in the world. American dealers want these hops and will pay for it with oil or lard.

A Steady Market.

Czechoslovakia could get lard in vast quantities from Hungary, but relations between the two countries are not friendly—lost and conquered territories still poison their relations. Consequently Czechoslovakia wants to buy her lard in America.

This central European nation is one of the steadiest markets in central Europe, both from the financial, political, and from the labor viewpoint. She did not borrow wildly in foreign countries. She succeeded in inducing her minorities to work with her.

Labor conflicts are few and far between. For years Czechoslovakia has had a system of blanket agreements between workers and employers to settle the wage question once a year, providing the worker and employer with a steady basis of calculation.

CLOSE BRITAIN TO NEW ZEALAND DAIRY PRODUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 25.—The British government has rejected an offer from New Zealand to lower tarifs against British goods in return for a continued free market for dairy produce in Britain.

New Zealand is entitled under the Ottawa imperial trade agreement to a free market until next year but since the Ottawa conference the plight of British farmers has caused the government to make overtrures to New Zealand and Australia to reduce heavy shipments of dairy produce.

New Zealand rejected the request then asked whether in return for sweeping reduction of tarifs she might expect the continuance of a free market. The British government insists that the interests of British farmers outweigh the prospective benefits of a tarif cut and has turned down the request.

Brazilian Millers Decide to Purchase U. S. Wheat

BUENOS AIRES, March 25.—(AP)—Brazilian millers, who have been buying Argentine wheat, have decided to patronize exclusively North American markets, it was learned today. The decision is in retaliation against a move of Argentine exporters to sell flour in the Brazilian market, competing with millers of Brazil. It was understood contracts already have been signed with representatives of United States exporters to provide the same quantity of wheat they were receiving from Argentina.

FILIPINOS HEAR OF FREEDOM BILL; NOT REAL HAPPY

MANILA, P. I., March 25.—(AP)—Though few openly questioned the sincerity of the Filipinos' demands for independence, President Roosevelt's signature to the measure granting the Philippines freedom in 12 years with an autonomous government meanwhile, created but the slightest stir in the ilands tonight.

Where a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm might have been expected by a more demonstrative people than the Filipinos, the sole outward reaction in Manila was the prearranged blowing of whistles and the ringing of bells early today when news was flashed across the Pacific. In the provinces there was not even that.

What's Noise About?

A large proportion of the population here was awakened to inquire, "What's all the noise about?" It will be days, even weeks before residents of isolated ilands learn of the success of the independence campaign because of the derth of communications.

The chief explanation of the phlegmatic reaction seemed to be that the long controversy over the Hawes-Cutting act, which is the same as the new measure aside from the clause relinquishing military bases upon complete independence, had tired the people and "they want to see some action." Several political leaders explained the imminence of cutting ties with America also probably had a sobering effect.

Await Quezon's Return.

Members of the Jubilant legislative majority headed by Manuel Quezon, insular senate president, meet tomorrow to plan a mass demonstration and discuss holding a special session of the legislature to accept the law upon Quezon's return from Washington. He is expected about April 29.

Leaders of rival factions continued through the week-end campaigning in the provinces for the elections to be held June 5.

is best illustrated by these formal clothes tailored for gentlemen who pride themselves on being correctly dressed. But that very definite correctness, so predominant in this type of clothing, of necessity must also prevail in apparel for business.

While more and more men are gradually learning the significance of appearing in formal day and afternoon wear we nevertheless realize that it may be years before such a custom will ever become widespread. So while we present above our conception of what well-dressed gentlemen will wear on Easter morning, we should like to conclude with this: The Store for Men injects into every piece of clothing which it produces the necessary details of correctness and smartness so imperative to satisfaction. In addition we feel that it is not necessary to again mention that only the finest quality merchandise appears with the Marshall Field & Company label.

WAR VETERANS IN FRANCE AIM FOR FOURTH REPUBLIC

3,500,000 Demand Reform of State.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 25.—The hitherto nonpolitical Federation of French Veterans' Associations, representing 3,500,000 former poilus, today threw its hat in the seething ring of French politics at the close of its three day national congress.

Repulsing tendencies in their own ranks toward a Fascist dictatorship, but demanding complete reorganization of the state, the veterans virtually constituted themselves a marching wing of that "fourth republic" toward which most of the newer political groups seem to be heading.

While the veterans rejected a motion prescribing revolutionary action, they adopted a highly significant resolution authorizing adherent organizations to propagate the federation's ideas and to "reserve methods of action in case its voice is not heeded." This serves as a warning to the government that the veterans, while not committed to revolutionary agitations, do not consider themselves bound by legal methods in all cases.

Will Show Political Allies.

It was complemented by another resolution, adopted unanimously, laying down the principle that any political activity of the federation would be exclusively veteran and that no groups adhering to the federation would join any political group.

The actual political program adopted by the congress was confined to general principles. These included demands for protection of the republican form of government, strengthening executive authority and finally organizing the economic forces of the nation into a consultative chamber under the control of parliament—a timid step toward a corporative state which resembles the NRA code authorities more than the Fascist economic council.

The executive committee of the federation called on Premier Gaston Doumergue tonight. They discussed, it is understood, a program calling for dissolution of the chamber of deputies, changes of electoral laws instituting proportional representation and women's suffrage, and new elections.

Veterans Fight Pension Cut.

The veterans took a stand to tolerate no cuts in their pensions as projected by Doumergue. The resolution voted by the congress warned that the veterans' representative in the cabinet, Pensions Minister Andre Rivollet, would resign if Doumergue moved to cut down veterans' appropriations.

Doumergue, replying, declared:

"If the government, after seeking in every direction to balance the budget, finds upon the final checkup the deficit is still too great, I will ask you, gentlemen, will you help?' Your liberty of action is as great as mine and if you reply, 'Nothing doing,' I can only quit."

Alarm and Relief Shown.

In moderate political circles the launching of the new veterans' movement is viewed with mingled alarm and relief. In a time when extremist sentiment is spreading, it is considered reassuring that an organized bloc of 3,500,000 men is committed to democracy—even if only theoretically. On the other hand, it is feared the desire of the veterans to reconcile Fascist technique with democratic principles might lead them to support anti-republican movements.

At the same time the veterans' congress was closing here, the Socialists were opening at Lyons a national crusade against the régime. Proclaiming the collapse of all existing parties, the Socialist orator, Vincent Auriol, demanded that power be turned over to the Socialist party.

PARIS, March 25.—Right and left forces fought in the streets of Toulon and Tours tonight at the end of political meetings. At Tours 800 left supporters broke up a Nationalist meeting and fought police for three hours. Paving stones were used as missils and shots were fired.

At Toulon there was a similar left demonstration. The local police had to send for reinforcements from Marseilles. Several policemen and three naval officers also were hurt.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

2 Kids Seek Homes.

March 25, 1934.

THE "nursery" department of the farm is about to lose two of its most interesting members. Two of the three little kids, the offspring of Nanette, the goat, are going to leave very soon. They are not going to be sold. On the contrary, the experimental farm offers these two kids to anyone who wants them, providing they can assure the animals a good home and kindly care.

Therefore THE TRIBUNE readers who have a hankering for a pet goat and write this department, care of THE TRIBUNE, the most convincing letters as to their ability to provide good homes for the kids, are eligible for ownership. The two best letters will get the goats!

The conditions under which these kids [both young billys] will be given away are as follows: No requests will be considered unless filed by mail. Proof must be offered by letter that the writer has the yard and the pasturage to assure the pet kid a good home.

Delivery is strictly F. O. B. gratis at THE TRIBUNE'S auxiliary farm west of Wheaton. In other words, if you want the goat you'll have to call for him. Moreover, no guarantee is given on the kid's disposition after he grows up! Finally, both of the kids will not be given to one person. File your application at once if you want to become the owner of one of the pet kids, which will be given away just as soon as they are able to eat solid food and be raised away from their mother.

Activity is increasing these days on the experimental farm because there is so much to be done before the plowing season starts. Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, is hurrying to get all the new fence in position. It's quite a job to tear down all the old wire along the road which goes through the heart of the farm, get rid of the old posts and install the new steel posts.

One old ewe seems to have caught some of the spirit of this increased activity around the place because she hopped the wire fence around the feeding yard and left her twin lambs yesterday.

There is a winter rye field right next to the feeding yard. It's looking quite fresh and green these days. Possibly this field proved too much of a lure for the ewe. Or maybe she got tired of having a couple of bleating twin lambs bother her to death. Anyway, much to the amazement of Rawlings, this ewe just up and left her family for several hours yesterday. When she grew tired of green pastures and the new freedom she took a running start and jumped back over the fence.

The chinch bugs are still here. Louis Thurow picked up a board in the barnyard yesterday and found hundreds of these pests that had spent the winter under cover. This find tends to prove Clarence Thurow's contention that these bugs may not be as numerous along hedgerows as some farmers think. Apparently the smart chinch bugs got out of the fields when winter came and "holed up" in the woods, on the south slopes of pastures, and even in barnyards. If this is true, burning of hedgerows and cutting down all growth along fences may kill a few bugs, but great numbers will be untouched by such drastic measures.

The boys out here are hearing music these mornings such as no city man can listen to: The courting "songs" of the prairie chickens. The small covey on the farm is telling the world that spring is close at hand and the male birds are putting on their unusual dance to woo the ladies of their choice.

JUDGE SABATH CELEBRATES HIS 64TH BIRTHDAY

Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior court, who holds a world's record for having heard 28,000 divorce cases, celebrated his 64th birthday yesterday in his home at the Chicago Beach hotel. He received hundreds of letters and telegrams of congratulation, many of them from the 3,000 couples whose reconciliation he has effected.

"There's another anniversary that means more to me than this one," Judge Sabath said. "That will be Aug. 9 when Mrs. Sabath and I will celebrate our 46th year of marriage. My own happy marriage has suggested to me the means how many couples on the brink of a divorce might compose their differences. By listening to divorce cases I have learned how to avoid marital pitfalls."

In the flower banked apartment Judge Sabath was host at noon yesterday at a family gathering. Present were Mrs. Sabath, two sons, a daughter, and seven grandchildren.

SUICIDE CHAMBER ELECTED BY ITALY FOR MUSSOLINI

New Legislature to Vote End to Democracy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 25.—Mussoliniland did its last voting today.

Nearly 10,000,000 voters, 90 per cent of the so-called "electorate," the government estimated, turned out to vote "yes" on the slate of 400 deputies, hand picked by Premier Mussolini and the grand Fascist council, for the next and last Italian legislature. There was no opposition slate.

The chamber, approved nearly unanimously in the peculiar Fascist form of plebiscite, will meet April 28. It will have as its chief task to approve, and so make legal, Mussolini's plan for a new corporative state, and then to commit suicide by voting its own dissolution. It will be replaced by the guild council of the new régime.

Colorful Spectacle.

As a spectacle, today's "elections" were colorful. There was much waving of flags and fanfare. Radios throughout the country shrieked bulletins of the "results" from loud speakers on public piazzas. Later tonight the "results" were flashed on screens mounted in the public squares.

Voting booths for the yes or no plebiscite were opened at 8 a. m. and closed at 7 p. m. Most of the votes, it was expected, will have been counted by midnight, but announcements of the total compilations are not expected before tomorrow.

Officials emphasized the large turnout of those who are entitled to vote, and laid special stress on the fact that the election was not so much a proval of Mussolini's leadership.

Duce Votes Early.

Il duce himself voted early. Accompanied by Secretary General Achille Starace of the Fascist party, choice of a new chamber as the aphe went to the Piazza Poli voting place at 8:30 a. m. He looked severe as he was handed two ballots, one for and one against, by the judge of the "elections," and then went into one of the private booths provided to make his choice. He issued a few seconds later and handed his sealed ballot to the judge.

After Mussolini, Starace voted, then both gave the Fascist salute and frowningly left with the cheers of an early morning crowd.

The number of priests and others of the Catholic clergy to express their approbation of Mussolini's leadership and of the new chamber, was said to have been especially large today.

A curious feature was that about 25,000 laborers in the Pontine marsh land reclamation scheme were forgotten until the last minute today. They could not vote separately because they did not have the proper credentials. It was therefore arranged that one ballot should be cast for the entire 25,000.

All Italian towns were decorated with flags, bands played and all Fascisti wore their uniforms for the Palm Sunday plebiscite. It seemed to be a striking demonstration that a new generation has taken its place in Italian public life, a generation which 13 years of Fascism have completely divorced from public interest in government.

EXPECT REVOLT AGAINST MILK PRICE FIXING

Dealers Join in Protest; Cite AAA Abuses.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Collapse of the federal agricultural adjustment administration's second effort in less than a year to fix the prices of milk in Chicago and nearby communities was being forecast here last night by leaders in the dairy industry close to the inside operations of the milk enforcement agencies.

Three factors have proved to be beyond the apparent control of the government and are expected to contribute to the breakdown which grows imminent daily. A recalcitrant attitude on the part of milk companies who were licensed against their will by the government on Feb. 5 is expected to break into the open this week. Leaders in the industry predict open defiance of the government's orders by at least half of the milk dealers in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Three Salient Factors.

The three factors said to be responsible for this condition are:

1. Failure of the AAA to enforce upon all of the dealers the terms being exacted at heavy costs by those trying to comply with provisions of the milk license.

2. Failure of the AAA to fulfil its earlier expressed intention to "crack down" legally and forcibly on the dairies which did not pay the minimum prices to farmers as required in the code.

3. The heavy expenses borne by the dairies in payment of AAA costs of administration of the license, including a sizable staff of governmentally appointed employés, an elaborate auditing system and the "red tape" of filling out lengthy and involved reports at frequent intervals.

In spite of announcements last week by Frank C. Baker—market milk administrator hired by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to enforce the license terms on 400 milk dealers here—to the effect that most of the dealers are complying with his requests and terms, at least 10 per cent of the dealers supplying the market are known to be not complying. This is sufficient to upset the market, dealers claim.

Plan Fight on License.

One group of about 25 Chicago dealers hired an attorney to fight the license and its enforcement, it was learned yesterday. This group of dealers has, up to now, been attempting to comply with governmental regulations since last August, when the AAA first tried to rig up its flat-price-to-all machinery.

Two events of the last week have precipitated the revolt of the heretofore "regular" milk companies, it was pointed out. One is the receipt of large bills from the AAA's Chicago office to pay for running expenses of the office and to reimburse those dealers who have money coming from the equalization pool established by the AAA at the recommendation of the Pure Milk association. The other event was the completion of a lengthy hearing by the AAA of the operations of two small dairies, who admitted violating the license.

These two dealers are L. V. Shiesler of Lombard and the People's Dairy of Cicero, the latter controled by Shiesler. A decision in the Shiesler case will be made at Washington today and a decision in the People's Dairy will be made tomorrow.

Conflict on Price Fixing.

The price to farmers established for milk deliveries in February was announced recently by Baker as $1.57 per hundred pounds [3.3 cents a quart] for milk sold as such, or from which cream was extracted. Several companies prior to the establishment of this price had signed contracts to obtain milk for $1.90 and the AAA has found no way to cancel them yet.

In addition to these companies being able to obtain cheaper milk, they and several other companies are said to be buying cream from independent farmers at prices below the AAA provisions.

As a matter of economics, several dealers pointed out yesterday, the present price of butterfat in Chicago is such that milk prices based upon it are only about a cent a quart under the AAA's prices, so that failure of the license would not cause a large drop in milk prices in the Chicago area, but would, on the other hand, place the market upon a natural basis of prices fixed by supply and demand in the entire dairy industry.

Picture AAA as Cushion.

The result would be, it was predicted, that the AAA had merely served as a cushion to gradually lower farmers' milk prices by temporary stabilization, as resulted in other cases when the federal farm board spent millions in its wheat and cotton market fiascos.

The third point at issue between the AAA and the dealers—that of trying to make them, with farmers, pay the cost of administration of a license the government had imposed—is the spark that is kindling the revolt that is likely to break out this week. Not only must dealers fill out lengthy and involved reports, said to be more complicated than income tax reports, at frequent intervals, but these reports are being taken by the AAA at face value.

"The fellow who falsifies his reports of sales and receipts most fully is the fellow who will make the profit if any can be made in the present circumstances," declared a small dealer yesterday. This dealer received a telegram from Baker, as have several dealers in the last two days, threatening them with prosecution for failure to pay certain sums to the equalization pool. These messages read:

"You are advised that unless payment due on adjustment account and checkoff is made to his office not later than March 26 this office will be required to report your violation to the enforcement section of the AAA at Washington."

Pool Delays Payments.

In many cases the pool, operated by Baker as a means of seeing that every dealer pays a proportionate share of the total milk and cream sales compared to the milk converted into manufactured products, is reported to owe dealers more than they owe it. But the regulation is that the dealer must pay his part and wait until the auditors are ready to reimburse him.

"We are beginning to believe that charges by D. Wirt against the brain trust in Washington are being demonstrated in the Chicago milk situation," declared a representative of the Chicago Milk Dealers' association yesterday. "We have paid the farmers the full amount set by the AAA here for February, but still are being assessed funds to pay for money some other dealer claims is due him. We aren't ready for that kind of socialistic system in the milk business and expect to tell the AAA so openly soon."

MOSCOW ORDERS REDS TO STIR UP STRIKES IN U. S.

Agents Are Commanded to Enter Trade Unions.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 25. — Additional evidence that the communist internationale has not the slightest intention of discontinuing revolutionary activities in the United States has been obtained by the Baltic bureau of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

While Ambassador William C. Bullitt was busily engaged in organizing the American embassy in Moscow, the central committee of the communist party published a 7,000 word review of the last 15 years' activities of Comintern. The reports, which were signed by Commissar Joseph Aronovitch Piatnitzski, were contained in the fortnightly journal, the Bolshevik, published March 7.

Like a similar document exposed in January by THE TRIBUNE, Piatnitzski's article is authorized by Glavit, the literary censorship agency of the soviet department of education, thus giving it an official character.

Prepares New Program for U. S.

The revolutionary work of Comintern's American section is mentioned several times by the commissar. He informs members of the Russian communist party that, under Joseph Stalin's leadership, Comintern is steadily increasing its importance abroad and that the executive committee of Comintern at present is formulating a new program for the American and other sections of the party.

Communists abroad must carefully follow these instructions, he continues. "Providing the communists follow Bolshevik methods," he says, "they will develop into the mighty revolutionary parties which Comrade Stalin discussed in his recent speech in Moscow and victory for the proletarian revolution will be achieved."

Piatnitzski complains that in countries such as America, France, and Japan, where communist trade unions have a legal status, the reds have not taken advantage of their opportunity to penetrate into other trade unions in order to obtain control of these organizations. His report again mentions the United States when he states:

"One of the chief reasons the communists have not increased their influence in the United States, England, France, and Poland, even though they have been active, is that they have neglected to work within trade unions and other mass workers' organizations."

Reports on Strike Figures.

Stating that a revolutionary crisis is developing quickly abroad, Piatnitzski reports that from 1929 to 1932 in 15 countries, including the United States, England, France, and Germany, there were 25,000 strikes affecting 12,000,000 workers with a loss of 100,000,000 working days. Last year, according to Comintern figures, the same 15 countries showed 32,000 strikes affecting 4,000,000 workers and a loss of 32,000,000 working days. These figures, continues the commissar, indicated the opportunity existing for Comintern. Its foreign agents are commanded to follow Moscow's instructions and use labor conflicts to spread the doctrine of bolshevism in the United States and the rest of the world. It demands that factories and mines must become communist fortresses.

Piatnitzski's report was published the day after the arrival of Bullitt and his staf in Moscow in the printing plant of the Moscow Pravda. The document in possession of THE TRIBUNE states that 500,000 copies were printed for circulation to members of the Russian communist party. It also contains the statement that "during the 15 years of existence of Comintern, which was formed by the Russian communist party under the management of Nicolai Lenin and, which for the last ten years has been under the direction of Stalin, important achievements have been made." The achievements are listed as follows:

FIRST. For the first time in the history of the world a central party with one management has been formed with the Mark-Lenin program; tactics in almost all countries of the world and these national sections are working to fulfill the tactics, decrees, and principles given them by the Moscow Comintern.

SECOND. These sections of Comintern are a unit and more solidified than ever before.

THIRD. Despite sharp opposition, Comintern's influence grows in all countries. Forty sections of Comintern, which are illegal, are working underground. There are eight sections half legalized, and only 16 have legal authority to pursue their aims, this including the United States.

Continuing to enumerate Comintern's achievements, the commissar mentions the important work it is accomplishing in organizing farmers in the United States and other countries. He also emphasizes that Comintern's work is advertising and making popular the soviet government abroad. He stresses particularly how communist parties throughout the world are fighting to prevent any power from declaring war or developing a hostile attitude towards Moscow.

Piatnitzski also boasts that Comintern agents are succeeding in organizing strikes and demonstrations.

The report shows that the document which Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov signed at the White House, promising that the Russian government would abstain from conspiring against the American government, is not worth the paper it is written upon.

A 1934 MODEL TRACTION ORDINANCE.

The refusal of the city council to grant another extension of time for acceptance of the 1930 traction ordinance is taken on all sides to mean the death of that ordinance. Another attempt at a settlement of the question must be made. In some important respects the problem now before the city government is a much simpler one than it has been.

In 1930, when the ordinance was submitted to a referendum and approved, Samuel Insull was a dominant figure in local transportation as in other public utilities. He controled the elevated lines. His management of the rapid transit system gave these properties a value which it is now recognized they did not merit on the basis of a cold appraisal of assets and earnings. The elevated companies have never been profitable; indeed, they have seldom earned much more than their fixed charges, and in recent years have fallen short even of that.

The surface lines were never Insull controled. They carried and now carry substantially three-fourths of all the local transportation load and they have an excellent earning record, and yet they were placed in a position of inferiority in many respects in the negotiations leading to the 1930 ordinance. The prosperous surface lines were, to a considerable degree, subordinated in the proposed merger to the impoverished elevated. Various explanations have been made of this anomaly, but the obvious one is the fact that at the time Samuel Insull was in a position to command almost unlimited credit. There was still magic in the Insull name.

The Insull empire had not yet collapsed. His reputation as a utility operator and financier seemed to justify the expectation that immense sums could be raised on the credit of the unified local transportation services if he were at the head. Thus all the money required to build extensions and improvements would be forthcoming. This was particularly important because local transportation securities were not well regarded by the investing public, which had lost heavily in the bankruptcy of street car companies in scores of large and small cities.

Since 1930 the Insull myth has been exploded. Today the elevated lines are barely able to carry on under the protection of the federal court. Obviously, they must go through the slow wringer of reorganization and be subjected to a drastic writing down of indebtedness. The surface lines, on the other hand, are in a strong position. They have, in the aggregate, nearly 20 million dollars of cash in various funds, the principal of the first mortgage bonds has been paid off in part, and there is no question of the ability of the properties to earn present and future interest requirements on the funded debt. The equipment of the companies is in need of modernization, much of it being nearly 20 years old, but a great deal can be done in this direction with the money now on hand. That the management of the surface lines is eager to modernize is attested by the experimental cars now on trial.

Under these circumstances it would be a great mistake to delay negotiations with the surface lines until the companies have consolidated. Negotiations should be started at once with the surface lines alone with a view to encouraging the management to improve its equipment and service as rapidly as possible. The ordinance can be drawn to permit either a corporate merger or an operating agreement among the surface lines, the elevated, and the bus company if in future these objectives seem desirable and possible of achievement. Meanwhile nothing is to be gained for the people of Chicago or the owners of traction securities by insisting on consolidation as a necessary preliminary to the grant of a surface line franchise.

NRA AND MONOPOLY.

The report of the federal trade commission on the trend of the steel industry under NRA contains nothing that will astonish readers of THE TRIBUNE. It was obvious from the first that the so-called codes of fair competition were destined to be used to destroy competition for the benefit of the larger units of industry. The industrial giants had been severely buffeted not only by the depression but also by smaller and more agile organizations and proposed to use NRA as a means to render the little fellows impotent. How far the process has advanced in one basic industry is clearly indicated in the trade commission's report.

While there is nothing in the report which can be regarded as in any way unexpected, the report nevertheless is not valueless. It serves the purpose of calling attention forcibly to the contradictory nature of the recovery act itself. The act at one point authorizes trade associations to organize in violation of the anti-trust statutes and at another specifically states that monopolistic practices are not to be permitted. The two provisions together make no sense. They destroy each other. The essence of monopoly is price fixing and the essence of the anti-trust statutes is the prohibition of price fixing. Once the larger units of an industry are permitted to impose a schedule of prices upon all units in that industry, the anti-trust laws are dead. They have no further value either as a protection to the small merchant and manufacturer or as a protection to the public against extortion and discrimination. To hold that there is any life in the anti-trust laws under NRA as it has been applied in the steel business is to talk nonsense.

The report reveals the contradictory nature of the recovery act, and in doing so offers a clew to congress and perhaps to the Supreme court as well, which, if followed, may remedy some of the most serious abuses of the Blue Eagle. If the present law is amended by congress or interpreted by the court to mean that trade associations cannot engage in price fixing, whatever else they may be permitted to do, none of the much advertised accomplishments of the law would be lost. If it has served to destroy sweat shop conditions and to increase employment by sharing the work it could continue to perform these estimable services but it could no longer be used as a protection for the inefficient against the efficient.

MR. WIRT'S DISCLOSURES.

The remarks on the ultimate possibilities of the New Deal ascribed to unnamed members of the brain trust by William Wirt of Gary, Ind., are too significant, if Mr. Wirt, as we do not doubt, has reported them faithfully, to be ignored either in congress or the nation. Mr. Wirt should be interrogated, as he has declared a willingness to be, and we think it his duty to name the individuals quoted. It is no news that in the present régime at Washington there are men who think the American order has proved a failure and would have us accept a revolutionary substitution as soon as politically practicable. No one would suspect the President of sharing such an intent, but his best friends must realize that his altruism, his generous feeling for the less fortunate of mankind, and his inexperience expose him, perhaps dangerously, to plausible suggestions, the ulterior ends of which he is too magnanimous to discern.

This apparently is the reliance of the group quoted by Mr. Wirt as disclosed in the remarkable statement ascribed to one of them. "We believe," Mr. Wirt reports one of them said to him, "that we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape from it. We believe we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution." When Mr. Wirt asked this genial conspirator why the President would not see through this plan, the reply was: "We are on the inside. We can control the avenues of influence. We can make the President believe he is making decisions for himself. A leader must appear to be a strong man of action. He must make decisions and many times make them quickly, whether good or bad. Soon he will feel a superhuman flow of power from the flow of the decisions themselves—good or bad. Eventually he can be easily displaced because of his bad decisions. With Mr. Roosevelt's background we do not expect him to see this revolution through."

That this expresses the ideas of some of the individuals in the remarkable régime at Washington there is no reason to doubt, even if Mr. Wirt were a reporter whose integrity and intelligence were open to question. Prof. Tugwell's published ideas, Mr. Donald Richberg's occasional pronouncements, to say nothing of the political and economic opinions of Mr. Felix Frankfurter, who though not in office is a strong influence in the counsels of the New Deal, all indicate that the revolutionary intent is rife among the advisers of the President, whether they all count upon the ineffectuality ascribed to him in these very unpleasant revelations or not.

It is at any rate worth disclosing as fully as can be the extent to which subversive purposes exist among the members of that novel instrument of policy and government known as the brain trust. Mr. Roosevelt has apparently relied upon its aid and advice in the formulation of his policies and if he is being played upon it is of vital importance to him and even more to the American people that its purposes be exposed.

Editorial of the Day

NEW INTERPRETER.

[The Baltimore Sun.]

The veil of mystery surrounding the purpose of the appointment of Richard Washburn Child as "ambassador-at-large" to everywhere has been lifted. Mr. Child is to gather "the economic views of foreign statesmen" for the state department. He is to act as an "interpretative journalist."

Although we do not grudge Mr. Child his trip, it does seem pertinent to point out that the economic views of European statesmen have not exactly been hid under a bushel all these years. It is hardly a year since Mr. Roosevelt sent a considerable delegation to London to discuss economic views, and when our delegation was in a fair way to find out what the "economic views of foreign statesmen" were, Mr. Roosevelt blew up the conference. The reports of the commission of bankers at Basel and exhaustive discussions at Geneva are still available, and little has happened of late to suggest that the essential facts have changed.

True, such reports make dreary reading, and it may be that an "interpretative journalist" can give the boys in the state department a little more entertaining ration. Indeed, if Mr. Child's past performances in the popular magazines are to be taken as earnest of what is to come, his reports will be very chatty indeed. European statesmen who borrow our money and then have the effrontery to criticize Hollywood films will find no sympathetic listener in Mr. Child. But if he finds anything to counteract the prevailing opinion that European statesmen, like American statesmen, want to sell their goods abroad with as little buying in return as possible, he will be one of the greatest interpretative journalists of all time.

It may be unjust, but it is our opinion that more could be learned about the economic views of foreign statesmen by reading their own utterances than from a careful and conscientious scrutiny of Mr. Child's interpretations. The important thing, as a matter of fact, is not to add to our already extensive knowledge of the fallacious opinions of statesmen, but to make a start toward a policy which will change them. A few more evenings with Secretary Wallace's pamphlet "America Must Choose" will get us all further along than even the most brilliant interpretation of the chaos of economic error into which statesmen, like their peoples, have fallen everywhere.

AND IN THE DAYS gone by we used to shed sentimental tears when we read "The Burial of Sir John Moore." But after we read of the dog fights the movie fans put on at the funerals of their idol we must revise our former impressions and conclude that Sir John was in great luck.

"We buried him darkly at dead of night,
The sods with our bayonets turning,
By the struggling moonbeam's misty light,
And the lantern dimly burning."

What a nice funeral. No howling mob clawing each other's duds off in a mad scramble for the flowers or to get up to the front; no photographers shooting their flashlights; no policemen waving their clubs and yelling for everybody to "git the hell outten this." What a privilege to be buried so nice and quiet like as Sir John was, only he didn't know it. Movies hadn't been invented then.

ERRANDS FOR EMILY DICKINSON.

March the infidel is here,
Believing not in God,
Entering for a short career—
Wearing a green ephod.

While he adjusts his latitudes
According to the moon,
We save our salient platitudes
For a more pertinent June.

Once I stumbled while transgressing
On a season's birth;
Recognized creator-kinship
By a common worth.
Each saluted to his brother—
And in mutual tone
We exalted one another,
Permanent as stone.

The temporal commission
Of life's brief ministry
Is subsidized and mated
With monotony.

The heart presents a reason—
The mind objects, of course,
Pronounces Gerrymander,
Consults a higher source.

Trees in the wind are like old lyres,
Forgotten by the swans,
The soughing whispers filter through
Speaking of leprechauns.

And man . . . semi-occasionally
Pays heed to silver strings,
Adding his diapason too,
Approaches God on wings.

There is no singing
Half so good
As spring is bringing
Through the wood.
There is no crying
Half so sad
As winter, dying,
Flower-clad.

THE TOWN OF GREELEY out in Colorado is taking legal steps to insure that it shall remain bone dry as it has always been. That is, intoxicating likker cannot be sold inside the town limits, although, as is the case in communities and neighborhoods, there will be no objection to carrying it home in a neat package or keeping it stored down cellar. But if a man is going to have old Demon Rum in his house, why does he want his town to be dry? Ah, can't you imagine what a joy it would be to sit in the middle of a great desert in a shady, cool oasis and drink a brimming glass of ice water! It's the contrasts that make life really enjoyable.

DIET IN THE TREATMENT OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

In acute Bright's disease Volhard recommends a diet consisting of nothing more than weak tea, lemonade, or orange. A cup of tea, a glass of lemonade, or half an orange is given two or three times a day for five days. No other food or drink is allowed during this period. This sometimes causes a hunger or acidosis headache. Some advise that this be prevented by giving full doses of ordinary cooking soda.

After five days of this very restricted diet the subject gradually returns to a sustaining diet. The first addition consists of more fruit or fruit juice; and this is followed by cooked fruit, sugar, candy, cooked vegetables, rice, butter, cream. After about five days of this somewhat fuller diet it is permissible to add breads, soups, milks, and meats. In something like two or three weeks from the onset enough meat and other proteins and foods rich in minerals and vitamins to maintain the body in balance should be given.

In any kind of nephritis in which there is dropsy, the amount of salt in the diet should be restricted. Most people eat about 150 grains of salt a day. The amount needed is about 30 grains daily. An excess of salt in the diet tends to cause dropsy in heart disease, kidney diseases, and some other diseases. The foods that are apt to be rich in salt are salt meat and fish, salted butter, sauerkraut, nuts, milk, cheese, most breads, pretzels, and meats.

In many dishes salt is added by the cook during the process of cooking. Reasonably pleasing dishes can be prepared without the addition of much salt. Onions, garlic, spice, pepper, and some other condiments can be used to give flavor where little salt is used in cooking.

If one is on a low salt diet and carries it far enough to cause leg cramps or vomiting, a dose of salt solution will give relief.

There is a form of Bright's disease, called nephrosis, with much albuminuria and considerable dropsy, for which a meat and egg diet seems the best dietetic treatment. The amount of protein lost through the kidneys daily may approach an ounce, and giving a low protein diet such as a milk and fruit diet makes matters worse. The Epstein diet, used in the treatment of such cases, is composed principally of lean meat, egg white, skimmed milk, gelatin, beans, peas, rice, and oatmeal. This is sometimes modified by increasing the proportion of butter, salad oil, fat meats, potatoes, breads, and cereals and decreasing somewhat the amount of meat and eggs.

For chronic Bright's disease the diet should contain enough meat and eggs to keep up the strength and to prevent anemia. People with this disorder generally diet too strictly and, in consequence, they get out of mineral balance, they suffer from vitamin deficiency, and they become undernourished. They nearly always need iron.

THYROID GLAND.

V. D. writes:

1. What is a thyroid gland?
2. Can an enlarged thyroid be cured without extraction in a 16 year old girl?
3. Is an enlarged thyroid due to heart disease or to nervousness?
4. Will the ailment cause the patient to become overweight?

REPLY.

1. A large, ductless gland located in the front lower part of the neck.
2. Many of the enlargements of this gland that appear in late childhood and persist for a few years in early womanhood return eventually to normal.
3. Thyroid intoxication generally causes nervous heart and general nervousness. Your idea seems to put the cart before the horse.
4. Thyroid deficiency is frequently the cause of overweight.

LUMPS ON NECK.

O. writes: When I was about 11 years old I developed a lump on the left side of my neck which never bothered me. When I was 16 I went to the doctor for a tonic and asked him about the lump. He said it was called tubercular lump, but there was nothing to worry about and I should drink milk. I am now 24 years old and this one lump has spread into about 15 small ones which stretch from the bottom of my ear to my shoulder. They do not bother me unless I am very tired and then I have a strained feeling there.

REPLY.

You should be examined. Your trouble may be tubercular glands. Other possibilities are Hodgkin's disease and leukemia.

If the condition is tuberculosis it should be curable by light therapy, including sun tanning properly used.

HAMMER TOE.

Mrs. C. H. W. writes: For years I have had a hammer toe and, besides that, two corns on top and between the toes. I used to wear size 6½ and now I am wearing 7½. Changing temperature makes my feet feel terrible. They are all swollen and I can hardly fit a shoe. Can you suggest a remedy?

REPLY.

Probably the corns are due to rubbing of the skin of the hammer toes by your shoes. Among the causes of hammer toe are bunions and wearing improper shoes. I wonder if you have had frostbite in addition to your two other foot troubles.

You changed your shoes several years too late. You may need to change them again and much more radically.

In some cases it is best to amputate hammer toe.

VARICOSE VEINS.

T. R. W. writes: What is the cause and cure for varicose veins? I am 32 years old, not overweight, and am the mother of two small children.

REPLY.

Among the causes are child bearing, pelvic obstruction, wearing tight garments, hard labor, too much footwork. The popular cure now is the injection treatment.

MORTGAGE.

Chicago, March 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A constructed a garage on a lot on which a bungalow has been erected. The bungalow was two years old before the garage was built, so that mortgage has been in effect that period. 1. There is no mention in the mortgage regarding this garage. The garage is set on posts only and a cement floor was put in, but does not go under garage floor sills, so that garage is not fastened permanently. 2. If A should sell or remove the garage from the premises, can the mortgage holder hold A for damages? The mortgage is not in default and it is understood the garage has been removed previous to mortgage foreclosure. 3. How long is a judgment note in effect? 4. If the party holding same leaves the United States, can he still collect through an attorney? E. T. N.

1. It is not customary for mortgages to specifically mention the various improvements; they simply give the number of the lot and the name of the subdivision. This carries with it buildings which are attached to the real estate.
2. He probably can.
3. The limitation period on the note itself is ten years from the maturity date.
4. In general, yes.

PROPERTY DIVISION.

Chicago, March 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When I was single I loaned money to a friend for which he gave me a note. I married a man after that transaction took place and now we are separated. The person I loaned to is willing to sign over a piece of property in my name. In case we come to divorce, has my husband a right to claim a share of that property? J. M.

If real estate is conveyed to you before the divorce, your husband would acquire what is called an inchoate dower interest. If subsequently a divorce is secured by you for his fault, his dower would be barred unless the decree provides to the contrary, but if it is secured by him for your fault, then the dower would continue unless the decree provides the contrary. In general, the divorce judge would have discretionary power to effect a property settlement between the parties, depending on the equities on both sides.

NO EXAMINATION CONTEMPLATED.

Chicago, March 20.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know when and where I can take the examination for insurance fire patrol. What are the requirements as to height, weight, and age? B. S.

The eligible list for original entrance into the Chicago fire insurance patrol will not be canceled until August, 1935, at which time it is probable an examination will be held. Applications may be received at that time at 100 South Des Plaines street. Applicants must be 5 feet 8 inches in height and be between 21 and 31 years of age.

From Across the Sea

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY.—The Panama government is directing a campaign to prevent the manufacture, use and sale of alcoholic beverages in the Canal Zone.

Through its minister in Washington, Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, it has sent a strong protest to the proposed bill of Congressman Clarence F. Lea of California [Dem.]

This measure authorizes the manufacture and sale of liquor in the zone and permits it to be imported without the paying of duty. Panama charges the bill would be unfair to the breweries and distilleries across the border in Panama, which pay a large proportion of the federal taxes.

President Harmodio Arias has announced he is firm in his conviction that it would be unfair competition. Should the proposed law go into effect it would prove of serious consequences to the native industries as well as to the national treasury, he added.

During canal construction days the zone was wide open, with saloons in every town and village. Prohibition came into effect with the opening of the canal, and with wide open Panama a few yards away from the borders the employés had little to protest against.

In those days Panama was authorized to charge full import duties on all intoxicants introduced into the Canal Zone.

Dr. Arias declared that the state department had been informed that the manufacture and sale of liquor in the zone would greatly prejudice the interests of one of Panama's few but successful industries.

"I do not favor the importation of liquor into the Canal Zone for sale as a business enterprise by United States government establishments," he said.

PROTECTION AGAINST THEFT.

Chicago, March 21.—THE TRIBUNE recently published an interesting story of a real estate owner making a trip to another part of the city in an attempt to collect some rent from a tenant, who was in arrears for a long period, in order to pay taxes on the property, and discovering that the tenant had moved and thieves had wrecked and stolen the entire building. This is not an unusual occurrence, but is an illustration of numerous similar cases throughout the city. Thieves enter vacant buildings, remove bath tubs, plumbing, light fixtures, etc., without any interference from the police. The building is stripped of doors, shelving, porches, windows, etc. Second hand dealers are evidently making a fortune on the stolen property.

I note that the police department has a special division working exclusively on automobile thefts, and the state's attorney is giving special attention to the same matter. It appears that motorists who pay little or no taxes are given all the protection while real estate owners who carry nearly the entire tax burden are given no protection.

Why is not a special police detail given instructions to stop this destruction and robbery of property? Why are not the thieves caught and brought to justice? Motorists can stop automobile thefts by parking their cars in a garage and not on the public street, but property owners can only depend on the police and the courts for protection. Real estate owners pay for this protection and ask that proper action be taken. TAXPAYER.

KEEP CHICAGO AHEAD.

Chicago, March 20.—Wouldn't the $500,000 "Keep Chicago Ahead" movement be one of real merit if the sponsors could broadcast this message too: "Our teachers in the Chicago schools are now paid to date and the schools are assured the necessary financial support through the passage of bills in our legislature that provide ample additional revenues."

This is no pipe dream, either. It can be done if the same cooperative effort be shown the week and the governor, mayor, and legislators get behind the pending bills and "Put Chicago Ahead." How simple is the solution!

THE CASE FOR MENANDER.

Lombard, Ill., March 21.—May I reply briefly to Burton L. Fryxell's letter of March 14, concerning Terence and Menander? The credit Terence gives Menander for the complete play, "The Self-Tormentor," is explicit — "an entire comedy from an entire Greek one." Why then should not the author have credit for the line in question, "I am a man, and I regard nothing human as alien to me," unless it can be definitly shown that it was added by the translator? But, says Mr. Fryxell, it was too good for Menander to say—he was too young to say it. The fact is that Terence was only about two years older when his translation of the play was produced. Certainly Menander was in no way inferior to his translator, and the fragments of his plays abound in fine reflections on life which are quite in keeping with the one under discussion, which Prof. Gilbert Murray of Oxford, whose opinion ought to be worth something, does not hesitate to credit to the Greek poet.

As to the spelling of Vergil's name, it cannot be disputed that in the earliest and best manuscripts it appears "Vergilius," and that "Virgilius" is a later corruption, the causes of which cannot be gone into here. This is admitted even by Prof. J. W. Mackail of Oxford, who nevertheless uses the form "Virgil" because it is more familiar to the eyes of British readers. In America "Vergil" is generally preferred.

WILLIS A. ELLIS.

NEEDLE WORKERS.

Chicago, March 15.—Mrs. Roosevelt is apparently having a very interesting trip while pursuing her investigation of the working conditions of the women of the West Indies.

The report that Haitian women are being paid 50 cents per dozen for appliqué work on ladies' handkerchiefs that are sold at fancy prices in this country reminds me of a heroic group of nuns in our own city of Chicago who are trying to partially support a large charitable institution by hemming ladies' kerchiefs that are sold from 25 cents to $1 each, and for which these unselfish women are being paid the magnificent sum of 50 cents per dozen by one of our department stores.

The 50 cents these good nuns get will not buy as much in Chicago as it does in Haiti, but they dare not raise their voices against this injustice for fear that even this bit will be withdrawn. Any woman familiar with the length of time it takes to hem a handkerchief neatly can figure the income of the nuns from this source.

U. S. PREPARES TO BUILD MODERN TOWN NEAR DAM

Will Include Housing for 8,000 in Montana.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—(AP)—Forty architects and draftsmen working in coöperation with the United States engineers' office here are preparing to transform the wilderness of the Fort Peck dam site in northeastern Montana into a modern town with housing and conveniences for 5,000 to 8,000 persons.

When government engineers a few months ago selected the townsite they startled from their primitive homes deer and jackrabbits and other denizens of the wild. Within a few more months the wild animal lairs are scheduled to be replaced by small modern homes, municipal buildings, business structures and recreational centers where the men who perform the labor on the gigantic dam and their families will be safely and scientifically sheltered, administered and entertained.

Designing Nearly Completed.

The designing of the town and its buildings now is nearly completed. the buildings, except for the administration building and a dozen or so residences, will not be of a permanent type, but will be durable for at least five years. For the most part they will be constructed of rough sawed siding, stained instead of painted, and protected inside by weather boarding. The town as planned will consist of a relatively small section of permanent homes for army engineers and others in charge of the dam construction.

Plan Theater, Hospital.

A community of seven and possibly nine blocks of individual and duplex houses is projected for workers on the dam who will be accompanied by their families. A third district, expected to be the most populous, will consist of laborers' bunk houses and dormitories for foremen. In addition there will be the "public buildings" group where the administration of the dam and the town will be carried on and a block of business houses.

There will be a theater, a hospital, and a school, in addition to mess halls, bathhouses and other necessary buildings.

$3,693,000 CWA PARK PROJECTS NEARLY FINISHED

Relief Administrations to Carry On Jobs.

More than 7,500 Civil Works administration workers employed on $3,693,965 of improvement projects in the three major park districts during the winter months will end their work this week with the extensive improvement program 75 per cent complete.

On April 2, two days after the deadline on CWA work set by the government, 6,600 workers will get jobs under the Illinois Emergency Relief administration and the Federal Emergency Relief administration to finish the projects.

Big Jobs Completed.

A refurbished park system will greet 1934 Century of Progress visitors and Chicagoans, said park officials in charge of the winter relief projects. In all of the parks houses have been renovated and repainted, landscaping improved, driveways widened, trees planted, light, water, and sewage systems repaired.

In Lincoln park an extension from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue has been reclaimed and prepared for landscaping, water and sewage systems to the extension completed, the zoo renovated, and a new system of traffic controls installed.

In the south park system ninety acres have been added to Calumet park by reclamation, the Japanese buildings in Jackson park have been renovated, a Japanese garden constructed, improvements to Soldiers' field completed, and extensive general repair started.

Swimming Pools Rebuilt.

The west park system has reconstructed swimming pools, rehabilitated all park buildings, built a playground in La Follette park, constructed a new gymnasium in Columbus park, and added a general program of repair and improvement.

The cost to the park districts has been low, with the government paying for labor and park districts sharing half the cost of materials. Of $1,760,000 spent in Lincoln park, the park district has paid $200,000, said E. A. Randall, in charge of materials and equipment of CWA work. South park has paid $70,000 of a $733,965 account, and at west park, because of the depleted finances of the district, the government stood the entire $1,200,000 bill, according to B. B. Shapiro, chief engineer in charge of CWA work for the district.

Large Turnover of Workmen.

The change from CWA to state relief pay rolls will mean a large turnover of workmen because of more strict regulations attached to the state funds, the directors pointed out. In many instances, however, unemployed receiving aid through the winter will stay on their projects, especially in cases where skilled labor is required.

A major project under state relief will be the deepening of the south lagoon in Jackson park, according to George Ehmann, acting superintendent of maintenance for south park. The work, to cost $50,000, will provide a harbor for motor boats. Coffer dams were built and the lagoon drained by CWA forces, and state relief workers, using hand labor, will continue excavation work started last week. It is expected that the deepening will be completed by July 31.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The annual homecoming of the Waller and North Division High school will be held on the school premises at Orchard and Center streets the evening of April 3 instead of tomorrow night, as was erroneously reported in yesterday's TRIBUNE. Plans for a homecoming dinner have been abandoned and the program will begin at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall.

CENTENNIAL FETE IN ROCKFORD TO LAST SEVEN DAYS

Rockford, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—In a seven day centennial program featuring a giant historical pageant by a cast of more than 800 persons, Rockford will celebrate its 100th anniversary, May 20 to 26.

Four of the seven days will be devoted to the territories east, west, north, and south of Rockford, the fifth day will be designated as Rockford day, the sixth as Centennial day, and the seventh as Church day.

The huge cast for the great pageant will be an all-Rockford one, selected from the city's 85,000 men, women, and children. Scenes will show the life and customs of the Winnebago Indians, the activities of the early fur traders and missionaries, the coming of the first white settler, Stephen Mack and his Indian wife, Hon-No-Ne-Gah, the founding of the city, the arrival of the first immigrants, the establishment of the first churches and schools, and the development of Rockford industries.

Rockford was founded in 1934 by Germanicus Kent and Thatcher Blake.

DILLINGER TRIO WAIT REMOVAL TO OHIO PRISON

Lima, O., March 25.—(AP)—Harry Pierpont, Charles Makley, and Russell Clark, the pick of John Dillinger's gang, waited tonight in the county jail where Sheriff Jess L. Sarber was murdered last October for what probably will be the last ride they will ever take—to the Ohio penitentiary.

Pierpont and Makley were sentenced yesterday to die in the electric chair Friday, July 13. Clark was convicted of the sheriff's slaying yesterday and will be sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary tomorrow.

How and when the trip to Columbus will be made was held a secret tonight by the present sheriff, Don Sarber, and Brig. Gen. Harold M. Bush, in charge of the troops here.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Outwardly they both seem protected

but there's a difference in their resistance!

What accounts for this difference? . . . To all appearances, they seem equally prepared for exposure. They have taken the same outward precautions, such as bundling up, wearing rubbers, and carrying an umbrella.

The important difference is in their physical condition—in the amount of resistance they have! One takes precautions in advance to keep her resistance built up. The other waits until she feels the weather before thinking of her physical condition.

Which description fits you? Why not try to come through this season more comfortably? Start now with something which aids in building resistance—Squibb Adex Tablets-10 D!

Squibb Adex tablets are a concentrate of the protective vitamins in halibut- and cod-liver oil and Viosterol. They are unique in being the only product to combine the vitamin values from these three important sources.

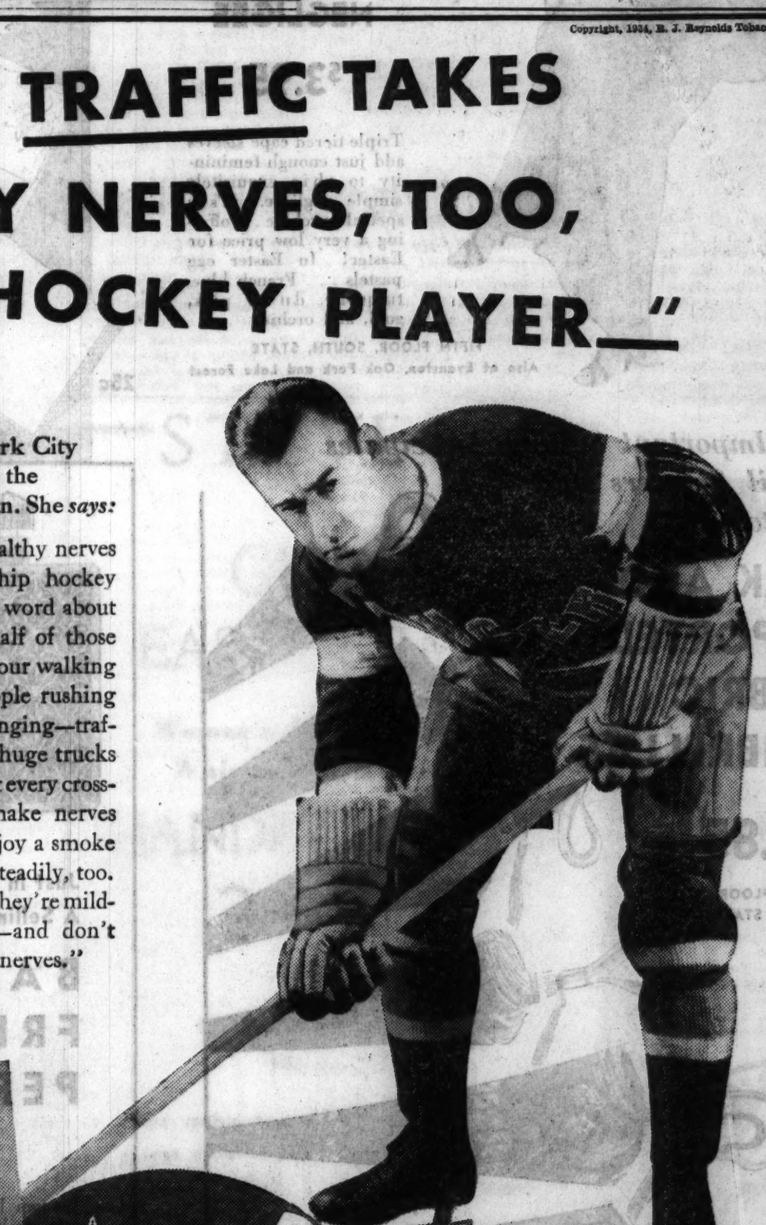
"DODGING TRAFFIC TAKES HEALTHY NERVES, TOO, MR. HOCKEY PLAYER—"

Miss Ruth Dodd of New York City speaks with authority on the perils of a pedestrian. She says:

"Of course it takes healthy nerves to lead a championship hockey team. But let me say a word about healthy nerves in behalf of those millions of us who do our walking along city streets. People rushing madly by—trolleys clanging—traffic whistles shrilling—huge trucks bearing down on you at every crossing—it's enough to make nerves jump and quiver! I enjoy a smoke any time—and smoke steadily, too. My cigarette? Camels. They're milder, taste marvelously—and don't interfere with healthy nerves."



How Are YOUR Nerves?

Few are those today who have not been face to face with the "jangled nerves" that our modern, high-speed life is blamed for!

You know the signs of nerves that flinch—tenseness, irritability. Fussy little habits like key-rattling...pencil-tapping.

Check up now on your habits. Eating. Sleeping. Your work and play. And get a fresh slant on smoking by starting on Camels.

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand.

You'll find Camels rich in flavor—yet mild and delicate. Smoking will have a new zest. And each Camel renews the enjoyment...the pleasure of smoking at its best!

Captain "Bill" Cook of the New York Rangers, 1933 Champion Hockey Team, says: "A hockey player can't afford to have 'nerves.' The way I guard my nerves and yet smoke all I want is to smoke only Camels. They have a taste that sure hits the spot. I smoke a lot and I find that Camels never get on my nerves or tire my taste."

Symphony Bids Supporters to Mystery Party

Orchestra to Be "At Play" Is Only Announcement.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MYSTERY at its best was provided for several hundred music minded Chicagoans during the past week-end by way of neatly engraved invitations issued by the members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. They requested the company of these friends at an entertainment entitled "The Orchestra at Play," at 8:30 the evening of April 9 in Orchestra hall. And that is all they say!

No amount of sleuthing has revealed just exactly what the orchestra members are going to do "at play"—they have never "played" publicly before—but we can tell you that the party is to be an act of appreciation on the part of the orchestra for the generous response given by those who have subscribed to its deficit fund of $70,000. Already $54,000 has been pledged that Chicago may have the Symphony next season. It is these friends with the city's artistic and civic interest at heart who have been asked for the evening of the 9th, and the orchestra has granted each of them the privilege of bringing one guest.

Symphony Burlesque to Be on Program.

It is a safe wager that at least part of the "play" program will be a burlesque of a real symphony concert. Rumor also reports that it will reveal the various avocations of the orchestra members. Edward Llewellyn, for instance, spends most of his spare time golfing. He's almost a champion. Martinson and Linke, both violinists, are photographers of note, while others among the 90 orchestra members are star chess players, chicken fanciers and horse enthusiasts.

Still others devote their spare hours to instruments that are never heard in the orchestra concerts. And this recalls the burlesque of "Tosca" [la Tabasco] that Dr. Frederick Stock and some more of the orchestra members did on "phoney" instruments for the Cliff Dwellers about ten years ago. L. L. LaZelle, a Cliff Dweller, wrote the burlesque.

The list of fund subscribers who will attend the party includes most of our influential citizens. Prominent among them, of course, are the orchestra trustees: Charles H. Hamill, Charles H. Swift, Joseph Adams, Augustus S. Peabody, Chalkley J. Hambleton, Col. Albert A. Sprague, Daniel H. Burnham, Harold F. McCormick, Cyrus H. Adams, Russell Tyson, Ralph H. Norton, John Paul Welling, Arthur G. Cable, Edward L. Ryerson, Chauncey McCormick . . . and others.

Lake Forest Prepares for Y. W. Rummage Sale.

Lake Foresters regard the annual rummage sale of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A., like the first robin, as a harbinger of warm sunshine, blue skies, and balmy breezes. For them it means the sorting out of dusky winter clothes and the uncovering of family heirlooms for delivery at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters in the town's Market square.

The sale is set for April 14, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning and continuing until the last article is sold. To judge by the rush that has necessitated a policeman by 8:30 in years past, however, the customers will be lucky if they find anything left on the shelves by afternoon.

Mrs. Dwight Ingram, chairman of the sale, already has the details so well in hand that she's leaving tomorrow with Mr. Ingram for a fortnight's cruise to Bermuda and Nassau, returning just before the 14th. Before Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober left for a vacation in Bermuda a few days ago she arranged for the collection of coats and suits and dresses for the clothes rack, a feature of the selling, and she will be back in time to superintend the sorting and marking. Another vacationist, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr., who is in California, has written that she will return in time to give a helping hand.

President and Others Busy with Preparations.

Mrs. M. Scott Bromwell, president of the board of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A., is busy with the preparations, of course. And still others assisting are Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith, Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman, Mrs. Charles S. Garland, Mrs. Randolph G. Gwesley, and Mrs. William J. Mackenzie.

The three days immediately preceding the sale amount to little less than a social fiesta, for all of those assisting gather at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters and devote themselves to sorting and marking, with time out, of course, for luncheon and tea.

And apropos of rummage sales, Miss Susan Badgerow, who is one of the young women working on the Junior league's old clothes sale to be held Thursday, tells us that the league has already made some money from the sale. In a pocketbook contributed the other day there was a shining new penny. And a lucky penny it is indeed, for the leaguers have never before had more success in collecting things for a sale.

William M. Schuyler to Wed Hammond Girl.

At a tea Saturday afternoon in their home at 7 Wildwood road, in Hammond, Dr. and Mrs. Herman C. Groman announced the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to William Moorehouse Schuyler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Schuyler Jr. of Lake Shore drive.

Miss Groman attended Radcliffe college and graduated from the University of Chicago. Mr. Schuyler attended the Harvard school and graduated from Dartmouth in 1931. He obtained his master's degree from the University of Chicago and is studying there now for his doctor's degree in the department of Romance languages. No date has been set for the wedding.

No sooner had the engagement of Miss Dorothy Trude, daughter of the late Walter Scott Trudes, and William H. Sills been announced last week-end than they boarded the train with Mr. Sills' parents, Mr. and Mrs Clarence H. Sills, for a fortnight's vacation in Palm Beach, Fla. Miss Trude and Mr. Sills are to be married June 20 at St. Paul's church, shortly after the graduation of Mr. Sills from the University of Chicago.

HOME again. Straight from the unbelievably green, fantastically tropical shores of Jamaica, winging across the blue Caribbean in a great air clipper to Miami, then by rail to Chicago. Through the yellow pine and scrub palmetto of southern Georgia, the rugged hills of Tennessee and Kentucky, and the flat prairie land of Indiana and Illinois, to Chicago, where the chill wind belies the sun. It seems highly improbable that some fifty-four hours ago we were lying on a white coral beach, a summer sea at our feet, a tropical sun turning the sand into glittering silver.

IT IS—say—11 o'clock of a Jamaica morning. The tiny crescent of a beach—tiny, but very, very perfect—at Montego Bay, mecca of bathers from all over the world, is gradually enlivened by gay striped beach parasols. Under that red and yellow one is Mrs. Arthur Train, wife of the novelist, wearing one of the broad brimmed native hats of jipi-japi straw. Those two slim browned girls in shorts and bandanna bodies are New York debutantes and the three women in rubber bathing caps are Englishwomen on a visit to the colonies. The plump woman lying on a scarlet air cushion is the Philadelphia dowager who has traveled to the tropics with a maid and fourteen trunks. The tall, distinguished man with silver hair and mustache and skin burned dark as a native's is Gen. Sir Tom Bridges, British war hero and one-time governor of South Australia. Nearby, under a yellow parasol, is a charming Chicagoan accommanied by a Boston friend.

The water is dotted with "sea scooters," paddled by bronzed natives, and by sail boats, the canvas-like painted sailes against the blue water. A native or two, in boats hollowed from mahogany logs, drifts about, hoping for passengers to the coral reef, and Satan, the black dog that is the pet of the hotel, digs frantically for sand crabs.

The eye that observes the foregoing trivia wanders across the bay to the green mountains shouldering to the sky from the palm-fringed shores and to the low white hotel to the left of the beach, with the green cliff rising precipitously at its back. The motor trip from Kingston on the south shore of the iland, to Montego Bay, on the Northwest coast, has revealed the beauty of those mountains and the interlying valleys. Silvery cataracts flash from their heights to the sea, their slopes are covered with lush tropical foliage, and the road leads through flowery valleys, groves of cocoanut palms, banana plantations, and forests of royal palms.

THE days slip lazily by. One's windows open on the Caribbean, and during breakfast, of ice fruit — four or five varieties brought in a great bowl, delicately browned June fish, and hot muffins, one watches, perhaps, a brilliant green parrot fish swimming in the clear water beneath the windows, and tries the effect of cocoanut cream in the breakfast coffee. Then an hour or two on the beach, with a stop at the bathhouse to buy cocoanut oil and a huge straw hat. Luncheon, and afterwards a siesta, or tennis, or a drive along the shore or through the mountains. One returns to Casa Blanca—the white house by the sea—in time for a planters' punch or a rum cocktail at the little outdoor bar before dinner, while the moon rises over the Caribees and fire flies further illumine the perfumed dusk.

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Lucy Cotton Thomas, patroness of many young musicians, has shaved her head, in a "one woman revolt" against the wiles of hairdressers.

She purposes to wear wigs of various tints that will harmonize with whatever gown she chooses.

"This hairdressing business has become a racket," she said. "They give a woman a shampoo and wash, and for the rest of her life the woman, to keep her hair right, remains a victim. And each bill is for $15 or $20."

"If she wants to wear red, green, or purple hair," said William M. F. McGraw, Mrs. Thomas' fourth husband, "it is all one with me."

30,000 Volumes Given to Public Library in First Week of Drive

The Chicago Public library has received more than 30,000 books during the first week of its drive to stock its shelves with volumes published during the last three years, Librarian Carl B. Roden announced last night. The drive was started because no new editions have been purchased since 1931 because the library has been without funds. Librarian Roden urged the public to continue its donations. He asked that books marketed since 1931 be offered. He said the drive will continue until 50,000 new books have been added. The public school children are coöperating.

Good Morning!

This is an exciting program picture with a blockhead for a heroine.

You wonder how Lena, so dumbly and wistfully portrayed by Wynne Gibson, ever managed to sidestep the perils of everyday life—street crossings and such—long enough to arrive at the age where the picture picks her up.

Lena is first discovered out on parole, and dutifully reporting to the parole officer. She's unemployed again, she tells him, on account of her mistress' husband having certain ideas that interfered with her sleep. A friend, she informs him, is putting her up.

The friend proves to be a party girl, down on her luck—with a sprained ankle and a small daughter crying for bread. Though, to be exact, it's candy the babe is crying for. To oblige Dixie, Lena goes out partying as the latter's substitute, gets mixed up in a murder, and flees back to the town of her birth.

She learns that her mother had died shortly before her arrival, but meets, in the shrouded rooms of the cottage she had once called home, her childhood sweetheart, Jason Everett. Jason now owns a garage and is doing well for himself. He has been true in word, thought, and deed to our Nell and wants her to stay there and become his wife. . . .

But, you will recollect, the bloodhounds are on Elisa's trail. She bids Jason a sad goodnight, promising to eat pancakes in the morning with his mother and himself. . . .

And slips out into the storm and boards a train for Toledo. Don't ask me why.

Here the law catches up with her. As only eyewitness of the aforementioned murder she is wanted by both sides of the case. [The state wants her to testify and the defense wants her to keep out of the way.] Or is it vice versa. . . . ANYHOW, they durn near tear the lady limb from limb amongst them—with a thrilling train trip and wreck thrown in for good measure.

But the Simple Life continues to beckon from Green Pastures, and . . . ????

Everybody in the piece does good work, and, while some of the action makes faces at your credulity, which mugs right back at it, the story, ably directed, keeps you interested. Which, of course, is no slouch of a point in its favor.

Portrait of a tired business woman who has just given herself a beauty mask, a treatment that will restore vivacity and radiance to her complexion within an hour after a hard day.

Beauty Treatment Erases Fatigue

Have you ever felt like a nightmare walking? Felt at least a thousand years old and had a deep suspicion that you looked every day of those ten centuries?

We know how you can snap out of a mood like that. Kick off the shoes. Put on mules. Tie a headband or towel 'round your head. Lock the family out and let the telephone go hang.

Run a warm bath. While the tub is filling and while you're bathing let warm water run over a sealed jar of a brand new mask solution we've discovered for you in the Chicago shops. When you hop out of the tub, feeling all relaxed and a little less bitter about life in general, take to the privacy of your bedroom, mask jar in hand.

Clean your face and throat with a cleansing cream. You'll like the new herbal cream of the inventor of the beauty mask. Wipe off every trace. Then with the flat brush that comes with your mask, paint your face, always in upward and outward strokes, with the faintly warm, deliciously fragrant, semi-liquid solution. Your face and neck will feel as if they're being coated with warmish pink cake icing. If you've lines or puffs there, this is a mask you can bring quite close to the eyes, but be careful about getting it on your lashes and brows. Your face all coated, you can settle back with a good book if you're so inclined; but if you're all in, our advice would be to pat a little muscle oil in around the eyes and over this put pads of cotton saturated in warm water or a special eye solution. Then sail off for a half hour's relaxation.

By that time the mask will be dry; it is porous, doesn't pull uncomfortably and won't even make the skin tingle, but in its quiet way it's doing some beauty magic. When dry it can be peeled off, but it's much pleasanter, in our opinion, to apply a couple of warm, wet towels, thus soaking it to the point where it can be removed with a cloth.

Then a little massage with muscle oil if you need it, a specially careful makeup—and once again it's a pretty good old world after all.

Friends of Writers to Hear Quin O'Brien Discuss Humor

Quin O'Brien will discuss "Humor in American Literature" at the meeting of the Friends of American Writers at 12 o'clock Wednesday at the Chicago Athletic association. Palm Sunday Crowds in Chicago Greeted by Sunny Weather

Brisk, sunny weather yesterday greeted the throngs of Chicagoans who observed Palm Sunday in nearly every church in the city. Congregations in Catholic and Episcopal churches received the traditional palm branches, commemorating the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem 19 centuries ago. Special sermons and music marked the occasion in churches of other denominations. Yesterday's activities thus inaugurated Holy week.

Palm Sunday rites at old St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, 9th street and Wabash avenue, signified the 100th anniversary of these services, which were the first to be held in Chicago.

Cardinal Mundelein, who presided at solemn mass in Holy Name cathedral yesterday, will officiate at the singing of the "Tenebræ" Wednesday, Thursday and Friday night of this week at 8 o'clock in the cathedral.

Special Palm Given to Pope.

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, is found stabbed to death following a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Dodo, who was untrammeled by scruples or breeding, had served a drug to her guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dodo's deceased mother, was staying with Dodo. She didn't attend the dinner, but awakened early in the morning and discovered the crime and Dodo's guests lying about in deep sleep. She is able to arouse her friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist. Tommy's dinner partner was Dinah Blake, an American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dodo. Dinah is not among the sleeping guests. Tommy arouses the others and sends for the police. A doctor set the time of Dodo's death around midnight. Helen sends Tommy to break the news to Dodo's stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, who was her guardian and trustee and who had long since given up trying to curb his charge.

INSTALMENT XIII.

HOSTILITY.

Just in front of Tommy a taxi drew up, and from it Basil Jethro alighted. This must be a return visit, he thought, considering almost two hours had elapsed since their earlier meeting. But in any case he saw at once that his presence here was not welcomed. He was, indeed, slightly taken aback by the stiffness with which the philosopher remarked:

"You really need not put yourself out in any way over this regrettable catastrophe, Mr. Rostetter. Already you have been inconvenienced quite enough, and from what you yourself said to me I can hardly suppose your interest to be professional."

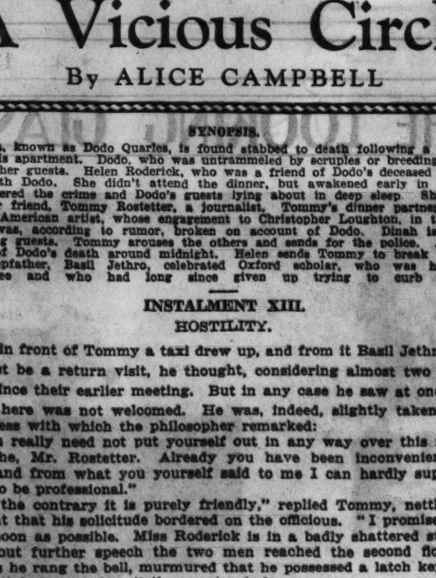
"On the contrary it is purely friendly," replied Tommy, nettled by the veiled hint that his solicitude bordered on the officious. "I promised to come back as soon as possible. Miss Roderick is in a badly shattered state."

Without further speech the two men reached the second floor, where Jethro, as he rang the bell, murmured that he possessed a latch key, but had had the misfortune to lose it the evening before.

"I was stupid enough to let it fall over the balustrade. I couldn't find it in the poor light, so I instructed the concierge to search for it with his electric torch."

"Then that's what I saw him pick up this morning!" exclaimed Tommy, enlightened. "It was lying near the foot of the staircase."

"This morning?" A look of annoyance on the pale, lined features gave way to intent preoccupation. "What carelessness! And yet, if it couldn't be seen at night . . . No, I admit the slight doubt in my mind is now dispelled.



"My dear Helen," he said, detaching her hands with great firmness. "This is unthinkable."

This crime must have been perpetrated by some one on the inside of the apartment."

"Why, had any other explanation occurred——"

"Basil, Basil! So you've got here at last!"

At last? The Hotel Stanislas was barely five minutes' taxi ride from the island, and Tommy had left Jethro in the act of getting dressed. Why this long delay? However, the next words gave an adequate solution.

"I had an attack of faintness after your friend left me and was forced to lie down, otherwise I'd have been here long ago. No, I am quite recovered now. It was nothing."

But Helen, her overwrought emotions seeking relief, clung to his arm as she begged him to take a glass of brandy. Tears blinded her to the odd spasm of shrinking which Tommy noticed on the philosopher's face, a look of sensitive irritation, as though human touch at this moment were distasteful to him. He did not want sympathy, Tommy thought. He wanted to be let alone. The climax was reached when, with a burst of sobs, Helen heaped blame upon herself for what had occurred.

"My dear Helen," he said, detaching her hands with great firmness. "This is unthinkable. Can any one know better than I how impossible it was to prevent the unfortunate child from doing what she wanted to do? If this last folly of hers led to so terrible a result it is not you who can be held responsible." He spoke in a shamed undertone, evidently unwilling for a third person to intrude upon family concerns, then with an abrupt dismissal of the topic turned to the closed doors on the left. "It was in here, wasn't it? Has the body been removed?"

Helen answered in the affirmative, adding that two inspectors were going over the salon now, looking for clews.

"Though what they hope to find I don't know. Even the knife—did Mr. Rostetter tell you—is so badly burnt there's nothing to be got from it."

Jethro opened the doors and gazed inside. Tommy seized the opportunity to whisper eagerly: "What have you heard about—her?"

"Dinah? Nothing. No one's seen her; she's simply vanished. You see how awful it looks. It couldn't be any worse."

His heart sick within him, Tommy asked if she had been able to communicate with the cousin, Miss Pemberton, but Helen shook her head.

"All I can find out is that she's somewhere in Versailles, but when she does hear about this I don't suppose she'll know how to locate Dinah any more than we do. I can't conceive what's happened unless——"

"Unless what?" he demanded sharply, still keeping his voice low.

"She may have committed suicide, you know."

"And again she may not." A steely glint had come into his eyes. "Look here, she's got a studio, hasn't she?"

"She had, but she gave it up last week. I tell you I've thought of everything! I almost rang up the embassy, only the Loughton man I told you about would be the last to——"

He interrupted her by a pressure on the hand. He had an uneasy fear lest the moment she was alone with Jethro she would make a clean breast of her belief concerning the cause of Dinah Blake's broken engagement, and to guard against this he whispered, chaining her attention by an effort of will: "Listen, Helen! You don't actually know for certain about that matter, now do you? You're only putting two and two together. Isn't that so?"

Helen shot him a glance of stubborn surprise. "If you're thinking of him," she replied, indicating Jethro's abstracted profile, "you need'nt worry. A man with his open mind and sense of justice——"

"Never mind. The point is you know nothing, so bear that in mind and remember our agreement. S'sh—the telephone! It may mean news."

He waited impatiently by Helen's side while she snatched off the receiver and spoke in a subdued and agitated voice. When she had finished she looked more perplexed than before.

"That was Christopher Loughton's sister-in-law, Pearl—his brother Hubert's wife. She sounded terribly upset, hardly able to speak, and says she's coming here now to tell me something. I can't imagine what it is, but as it's private I'll have to get rid of you two."

She gave a troubled glance at the abstracted profile in the doorway, but her difficulty was met by Jethro's coming forward with the request to write out a few telegrams at her desk. It was necessary, he said, to cancel his arrangements at Oxford and let his housekeeper know he was detained in Paris.

"Certainly," cried Helen, relieved. "You'll find all you want in my room upstairs."

Thanking her, Jethro bowed with frigid politeness to Tommy and waited in a slightly pointed manner till the latter had taken up his hat. But Tommy, determined to learn what Mrs. Loughton had to say, hung about till he and Helen were alone, then asked if the expected visitor was Dinah's friend.

"O, a very warm one! That's what bothered me about her tone just now. If it had been Christopher's mother now, I could have understood. Unbearable snob she is, mad for that precious boy of hers to make what she calls a good match. I know for a fact she was delighted when this engagement broke up. You see, Dinah's got no money at all. It's the greatest credit to her that she's been able to stick here in Paris on her earnings, but Edna Loughton would consider a girl like that a handicap to a rising diplomat's career."

Fortune Brings Alienation for Man, Woman

BY DORIS BLAKE.

In the turn of fortune's wheel she, today, is working in a factory, and he, the former humble suitor, is now well established in his profession, and quite well set financially.

She was not the kind of girl who would snub a chap because he happened to live on the wrong side of the tracks. She always liked the young man, as a boy at school and, later, as a college student. But there was that difference of social groups, she belonging to the "upper crust" in which he was not included.

It so happened that fate threw them together recently, she now in the humbler position and he removed socially by a few strata that appear to her, now, as difficult to hurdle. In her mind, that is. There is no indication that the man feels the difference. But the contacts socially today, with this man, are not what they might have been were she in her former better circumstances.

All of which we think may be manufacturing a problem that does not exist. It is one, apparently, born of the girl's sensitiveness to her new position.

To explain, the young woman found herself in the mid-twenties without the financial comfort in which her father formerly had indulged her. His fortune was swept away in the common flood. Not trained in any particular vocation, she suddenly had to take the first job that appeared in order to earn bread and butter for her now impoverished parents. A factory offered the job. A year of the work leaves the young woman without initiative to get out evenings or to do any entertaining. But she is not snobbish about her job—only finds it pretty taxing for one who was never trained to long hours. She's too glad to have the job, however, to trifle with it by using up energy at nights which, she feels, the day requires.

There never was a love situation between the two. But the man's appeal is now strong enough to tease the young woman into a closer friendship. But would he, now, be bothered with one who didn't put herself out for him in the old days? She wonders.

We think the girl's story might have a very strong appeal to the man. If he ever had any feelings for her he must wish he could help her now, besides admiring her grit in taking the first job whether the work appealed or not. We would even suggest that she let the man know her story and forget all the pride business that formerly went with such circumstances.

Lindsborg Chorus Sings "Messiah" for 156th Time

Lindsborg, Kas., March 25.—(AP)—The majestic words of Handel's "Messiah" echoed today for the 156th time in this Swedish-American community, the Oberammergau of the Kansas plains. A chorus of more than 500, recruited from the farms, the stores and the homes, massed their voices as custom has dictated annually since 1882. The sololists included Arthur Kraft, tenor; Frederick Jencks, basso, and Mrs. Florence Lukken, contralto, all of Chicago.

Symphony Bids Supporters to Mystery Party

Orchestra to Be "At Play" Is Only Announcement.

Daniel M. Schuyler, returned yesterday for his spring vacation from Dartmouth, where he will graduate in June.

On April 4 in New York City Mrs. Blanche Sternberg Skeath is to become the bride of Herbert Witherspoon, former basso of the Metropolitan Opera company and former head of the Chicago Civic Opera company. The ceremony will be performed in Mrs. Skeath's apartment in East 54th street. Miss Gertrude Inversoll, a niece of Mr. Witherspoon, will be Mrs. Skeath's only attendant. Parker Sloane of New York will serve Mr. Witherspoon as best man.

Two Groups to Have Parties at Brewsters'.

During the next few days two fortunate groups are to enjoy the hospitality and art treasures of the Abram Poole house of the Walter S. Brewsters in Lake View avenue.

Shortly after 8 o'clock this evening the American Friends of China will gather in the drawing room for a lecture by Lawrence Binyon, the keeper of the oriental prints and drawings in the British museum and a visiting professor this year in the department of literature at Harvard university. Dr. Binyon is to talk about Chinese painting.

Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne will entertain Dr. and Mrs. Binyon at dinner before the lecture, for which Col. Langhorne, as president of the American Friends of China, will be the presiding officer. Another large dinner party that will move on to the Brewsters will be that of Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson.

The second party at the Brewsters' is a musical next Sunday evening, Easter night, for which Mr. and Mrs. Brewster have issued some 50 invitations. Guy Marriner, young English pianist, is to be the artist. After the recital the Brewsters will score a buffet supper.

Junior Carroll Sudlers Settled in New Home.

The junior Carroll H. Sudlers are now settled in their new home on North Sheridan road in Lake Forest. They are not planning to have an official housewarming, but their friends are dropping in in little groups to admire the new surroundings.

Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson has a cousin, Mrs. William B. Pringle of San Francisco, as her house guest for the next fortnight. Mrs. Ryerson's daughter and son-in-law, the Donald Frosts of Boston, and their two daughters have just departed after a short visit with her. They have gone to an Arizona ranch, but upon their return in three weeks they have planned another Chicago stop-over.

The Joseph T. Ryersons were off on Saturday for Aiken, S. C., where they will meet Joseph T. Ryerson Jr., who will come from his studies at Yale. The Ryersons expect to be away several weeks.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick Returning to Chicago.

Tomorrow or the next day Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick is due at the big brown stone house at 631 Rush street that members of the McCormick family have occupied at intervals for several decades. Mrs. McCormick is coming by way of New York from Miami, where she has been since Mr. McCormick's death more than a month ago. After a week or two here attending to business and seeing old friends she expects to visit her son, Allister McCormick, and his wife in Santa Barbara, Cal.

MacLean Hoggson, who moved here last year with Mrs. Hoggson and then returned to New York three months ago, is in town for a few days, staying at the Pearson hotel. He gave a cocktail party Saturday afternoon for some of his Chicago friends, among them the James Rogerses, the Benson Dushanes, and the Paget Cadys, all of whom entertained for him during his stay. He is returning to New York late this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy are planning to go south for a bit of sunshine, leaving in a few days. They are going first to Aiken, where they will visit their daughter, Mrs. Austin Niblack, and then they will go on to the flower show at Charleston. Mr. and Mrs. Cudahy will be away about a month.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

BIDS OF ONE MAY BE PASSED.

To my surprise, I have been requested by several inquirers to say whether or not my opening bids of one are forcing bids which my partner may not pass. Of course, you know very well that such a thing would be entirely in conflict with my theory of bidding. I can only imagine that this misconception has arisen because one can play many hands without either partner being too weak to respond to an opening bid; as you know, we do keep the bidding open on light holdings—but not with hopeless ones. Then, again, there may have been some confusion between the opening bid of one and the one-over-one response, which positively does require the partner to bid again.

Try to Foresee Probable Bidding Developments.

Recently my partner opened the bidding with one heart. I held—

Sp. 3	Di. J 9 x x x
Hts. K x	Cl. J 10 x x x

and passed. My reasoning was on these lines: to bid a no trump would be too misleading as regards my distribution, as I have a twosuiter with a singleton. To bid either minor suit might lead my partner to bid spades of no trumps—both these responses would place me in an even worse quandary, as I would be afraid to pass and afraid to bid my other suit at so high a level. On the other hand, my hand would bring two tricks for a heart contract, and it seemed better to pass and risk the loss of a game if the opener's hand was so little short of an opening forcing bid that my heart king and singleton would be all he needed for game. Actually we made one heart, not very easily. Had I bid my partner would have bid a four-card secondary spade suit, and then we would have landed in three hearts and been down two tricks. Had I held—

Sp. J 10 x x	Di. J 9 x x x
Hts. K x	Cl. x x

that is, the same honor cards differently distributed, I would have bid one no trump because I would be satisfied to pass a bid of two spades, two hearts or two diamonds by the opener, and if he did bid two clubs I could bid two hearts and this contract should not be bad for us.

Applying the Brakes Early.

In a club tournament last week the following splendid example came up to illustrate the delicacy of the one-over-one response and the safety in the minimum response or "sign-off" principle. In a rubber game the result would be insignificant as regards points, but in a tournament it meant a clear maximum—top or equal to top—on the hand. Mr. George Unger, who played on the team that won the contract national championship for teams of four at Philadelphia last December, held the North hand.

NORTH.

Sp. Q 8 x x x	Di. A x
Hts. Q x x	Cl. J x x

SOUTH.

Sp. A x	Di. J x x x
Hts. K 10 x	Cl. A Q x x

South dealt and bid one club. North bid one spade, a one-over-one. South bid one no trump—a minimum "sign-off" response, although his hand has its three primary tricks and a jack and ten besides. However, spades do not fit the hand, and unless the partner can rebid there is not much to work with.

North now made a beautiful bid—pass. One no trump was made; two spades cannot be made as the K J 10 x are with East. As the cards lay, East and West could make either two hearts or two diamonds.

Approval Wins Children When Scolding Fails

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The brightness went out of her happy young face.

"O, mother, it just seems as though everything I do is wrong. Just when I think everything's going along all right and I've been trying to remember things you want me to, then you jump on me. I suppose I'm awful but I don't know what you want," said the young daughter in a discouraged voice.

[Incidentally—the conversations and anecdotes in these articles are not manufactured but are taken from "real life."]

Children must often feel like this—but they don't always come out with it as frankly—or if they're much younger they aren't able to put their confusion and discontent into words.

The reason for a child's feeling that everything she does is wrong is simple. It is this—her mother has noticed nothing but her faults and has been treating her to an overdose of blame and an underdose of praise—if any!

In the nature of things children have to be corrected and guided a lot and for that reason we must look out and see that we balance the blame with plenty of praise. It is easy, if you're busy or tired or worried or nervous, to fall into a faultfinding habit with the children but it has a bad effect on them. It gives them that reprehensible feeling. They can really feel under a cloud when your disapproval is the only thing that's evident in your dealings with them.

Children need approval—every one does but especially young things. Approval is a warming thing—disapproval a chilling one. Children glow and respond to praise as they never do nor can to faultfinding. We know this of course but we need to keep it in mind. And we need sometimes to be reminded. When the children do the reminding as the little girl did in today's incident, we should take it with a good grace.

Let us do our correcting as pleasantly as possible. And let us try to balance it with praise—not exactly patting the children on the back for doing the things they should but letting them feel our approval so that it won't seem to them that they're in our bad graces and "always doing something wrong."

If your children are from 6 to 12, you may find helpful our booklet, written in full, called "Living with Our In-Betweens." A stamped, self-addressed envelope will bring it to you.

Prairie Queen.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Every one interested in quilts recognizes the simple but widely used nine patch designs. "Prairie Queen" was made in 1850 by one of the hardy pioneer women. What inspired the title can only be conjectured, but the attractiveness of the block compliments the inspiration.

DRINK .. EAT GRAPEFRUIT

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Citrus fruits are growing in dietetic importance. Any good fruit juice that the public may be educated to take is all to the good. Most of us need to be urged on to taking fruit juice.

The suggestion to take your grapefruit juice with water, one-half hour before breakfast, is a fine one. A glass or two of water taken immediately on rising, and anywhere from twenty minutes to a half hour before breakfast, is just about as fine a thing as anything with which you can start your day off. Most of us haven't an appetite for water that early in the morning, so if a drink made of half grapefruit juice and water, and consumed in a glassful, as recommended, is more palatable; by all means get the habit. Any good liquid [nonintoxicating, of course] drunk the first thing in the morning, is a cleanser and assists evacuation that should follow breakfast. For the grapefruit juice it is claimed that it neutralizes acidity and tones up the intestinal tract.

One leading beauty salon is treating its patrons to a grapefruit pick-me-up during a treatment. On the house, I believe!

Any fruit juice is a good pick-me-up, and I would assuredly recommend fruit juice over other beverages commonly indulged in. Orange juice, with a dash of lemon juice in it, and tomato juice are good. Also, the grapefruit juice.

A grapefruit beauty mask is offered for the delicate skin. The claim is that it substitutes for lemon juice as a mild and effective astringent. One tablespoon of grapefruit juice to one egg white is the formula for the mask. First you wash the face and neck thoroughly. Rinse the face well with tepid water. Spread a towel over the pillow and lie on back, relaxing completely after you have applied the tablespoon of grapefruit juice and egg white. To remove, wash off lightly with tepid water, followed by cold.

If you can coerce some member of your family to apply the lotion to your face for you after you lie down, better results are promised. But family members, being busy themselves, as a rule, just when you want them to do you a little favor like this, you'd better not rely on any one but yourself.

BY MARY MEADE.

O, O—feet of clay again! Just when we were cooing over the lovely story of Cleopatra, that most beautiful siren of all times, floating down the jade tinted Nile in her queenly barge, what do we discover but that she was searching, not for love, but for onions!

What's more, report the researchers, Cleo ate them for her health's sake and fairly "scoured the banks of the Nile for the choicest species." And well she might, for Egypt was the cradle of the onion as well as of her alluring self. The folks worshiped onions because they came from the lily family. Maybe they worshiped Cleo because she came, as it were, from the onions.

But such flippancy aside, everybody seems to be eating onions these days, if not in out of the can onion soup (and the best people are), then in onion salad, onion souffle, onions stuffed, and onions scalloped. But supposing that even these palled after a time, then with the rest of the knowing gourmets you would turn to that perfect flatterer of particular palates:

(Greatly Sung German Onion Pie.)

While we may make this in a round tin, the proper utensil is a square or rectangular one. Likewise we may like it hot and we may take it cold, either way being proper. In choosing the onions better buy young, tender bulbs if you're no devotee of strength. However, the big white fellows will do if you "can take it."

First in building Zwiebelkuchen comes the pie dough. This should be rich, is raised with yeast, but is not a hard trick at all to make:

CRUST FOR ONION PIE.

1 cake compressed yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
5 to 6 cups flour
3 egg yolks
1 whole egg
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk

Dissolve the sugar and salt in one-half cup of the milk, which has been heated until lukewarm. Crumble in the yeast and stir until dissolved. Let stand 30 minutes. Now scald the other one cup of milk and add enough flour to make a light batter. Cool and add the yeast mixture and beat until the mass blisters. Cover and stand it in a warm place until it doubles in bulk. Now add the well beaten eggs and the melted butter. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Beat again until the dough is full of bubbles and let rise again until double in bulk. Roll out the dough about one-quarter inch thick and pat it into place in the pie tin. One very huge, oblong tin will be right, or two large round pie tins. Place the tins in a warm place where the dough may rise while you prepare the filling:

FILLING FOR ONION PIE.

3 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk
2 egg yolks, well beaten
Salt and pepper to taste
2 ounces salt pork

Slice the onions very finely and simmer in a covered saucepan with the butter, salt, and pepper until the onions are tender but not browned. Beat the egg yolks and stir into the milk. Salt slightly and add this to the onions. Blend well and pour into the pan lined with pie crust. Slice the salt pork in small pieces and arrange over the top. Bake in a moderately hot oven until the crust is baked and the filling is set.

Spring Colors Urge Shopper to Be Daring

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's probably the most puzzling conundrum of the spring! Why are you all so cagey about color? Adventurous shoppers in other years have approved, sponsored, and then bought all the most exciting new things. But this spring these daring souls seem to be among the missing.

With a heaven sent chance to climb out of the dark, dreary days of winter . . . with every fashion-conscious shop and store in town filled with bright, unusual clothes featuring all the fascinating new high colors available, clothes with individuality, dash, and distinction, what do you do but prowl around sighing inwardly for them, but stalling hopelessly, waiting for what?

Buy, and buy color! This isn't the time to vacillate, this is the spring to go a bit mad, celebrate a lot of things, and wear clothes that are bright and dashing; clothes that are, thank goodness, different.

If you've always wanted a raspberry red suit, buy it . . . you can find some honeys that will snuggle smartly under a navy blue or black topcoat. You'll find some wood violet shades in both suits and coats that will make your mouth water. Or try the new coral shade and wear it with navy blue or dark leaf green. And if spring is in your blood try some stunning apple green tweeds and woolens. Dusty shades of old blue are literally irresistible, worn with tobacco brown or deep red coats, while all possible shades of yellow, maize, and old gold are still high spots in any collection.

Try a baltic blue suit under the old gold coat . . . it isn't half so wild as it sounds. Try checks and plaids that will stop trafic, what do you care, the town has been safe, sane, and distressingly dull for a long time.

Use checks in a coat and calm them down with a one color simple skirt if you must, but do be smart and wear checks and plaids in some way, and, as long as you plunge, plunge recklessly and try out the biggest of the combines in size or color contrast.

Have the time of your life with bright colors, big bold checks and plaids that make the best looking spring streets clothes that have ever come to town!

Orchestra Airs Give Chicago Musical Feast

Oscar Chausow, Violinist, Is Symphony Soloist.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There was orchestral music and plenty of it to add pleasure to the week-end in Chicago. So much earnest effort was displayed in presenting agreeable programs that, while there may be some difference in the manner of playing them, it is difficult to say which did the most for the cause.

First in time was the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which played a Saturday night popular program at Orchestra hall. These popular concerts are high spots not only of the orchestra that presents them but of the Chicago musical season generally. Conductor Stock made Schumann's Fourth Symphony the important number of the program, but with plenty of smaller compositions, programmed and extra, to surround it. Oscar Chausow, late winner of the Society of American Musicians' contest in the violin section, was the soloist, playing two movements of the Mendelssohn Concerto with so much fine tone, accuracy, and spirit that the audience demanded an encore, the prelude to the Bach Sonata in E.

The Civic orchestra followed yesterday afternoon in the same hall, conducted by Eric DeLamarter, and performing Mr. Stock's orchestration of Bach's "St. Anne's Prelude and Fugue not only correctly, but with so much sonority and zest that the organization justified itself more than ever.

Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Schéhérazade" was another number to receive a brilliant performance. The soloist was Amy Neill, one of the finest violinists in Chicago, and, to make another thread of connection with the concert of the night before, Mr. Chausow's instructor. She played the Bruch Concerto in G minor, giving a superb performance.

At the Studebaker the Chicago Musical College Symphony orchestra gave a first rate account of itself in the prelude to "Hansel and Gretel," under the direction of Leon Sametini. Much of this program was devoted to solo performances, of which there were five, one for two pianos, one for piano alone, one for violin, and two for the singing voice.

Tomford Harris appeared in the third of his series of piano recitals of the twentieth century at Fullerton hall. Gifted with the ability to play practically any piece of music ever written for piano, also with an extraordinary memory, he illustrated the music of three nations, Germany with the works of Toch, Krenek, and Hindemith, Poland with Godowsky, Szymanowski, and Tansman, and Hungary with Kodaly and Bartok.

Here was music that, whatever else it did, attracted the attention. Sometimes it grated, frequently it stimulated, once in a while it pleased immensely, and always it made itself known. Mr. Harris is doing a big thing in this series, not only with his brilliant performances, but with his selection of some of the most notable music of this generation. Whether it lives or goes away with other forgotten things, it is worth hearing now.

The Rosary College Glee club, an organization of young women, presented Mercadante's "Seven Last Words" and Dvorak's "Stabat Mater" in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel yesterday afternoon under the direction of Le Roy Weisel. Excellently trained, they sang with charming voices, and quite extraordinary ability in projecting the words to the ears of the audience. They were assisted by a highly competent guest quartet, Laurine Olesen, Laura Butts, Eugene Dressler, and Raymund Koch.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Dall, attended the morning service today in St. Thomas church and after church they had guests lunching with them at the White House. Tonight President and Mrs. Roosevelt had a company of personal friends at dinner. Mrs. Roosevelt took a long motor ride this afternoon.

HAWKS TIE CANADIENS, 1-1; TAKE CUP SERIES

BOBBY JONES CARDS 294, TIES FOR 13TH PLACE

BY HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Augusta, Ga., March 25.—Horton Smith, lanky Oak Park Country club professional, conquering the nerve-wracking pressure of acting as pace-maker, turned in a final round of par 72 today to win the Augusta National Golf club Masters' invitation tournament and first money of $1,500. His total for four rounds, each par or under, was 284.

A Test of Nerves.

Smith's performance today was not only superlative for golf, but also for nerves of steel. On the first day he was one of the three with scores of 70. While Emmet French was falling by the wayside and Jimmy Hines dropping back out of dangerous contention, Smith still was setting the pace each day.

When he and Denny Shute stated this afternoon they had word that Craig Wood, two strokes behind, had played the first nine in 35 and still later that Wood finished in 72. So Smith needed 73 to tie and 72 to win and knew it.

After reeling off the first two holes in par, things began to break badly for the Oak Park pro. His drive to the short third over water was in a trap at the right. Smith's explosion shot was too strong. He missed the putt and he was one over par.

Just Misses an Eagle.

At the long fourth Smith played safe on his second shot rather than risk catching the trap, and had par 5. At the 485 yard sixth he reached the green in two and his 25 foot putting attempt hit the edge of the cup and bounced out, giving him a birdie on what might have been an eagle. Thus Horton again was even with par.

He matched par until the ninth, where occurred the psychological break which probably won the tournament. Smith's second shot was trapped at the right. He had played this hole poorly in previous rounds. The Oak Parker studied the lay before his half explosion shot which fell 15 feet above the pin for a down hill putt. That just reached the cup and fell in, bringing a roar of applause from the gallery.

Gets Birdie on 10th.

Thus stimulated, Smith reeled off a birdie on the 400 yard 10th, gaining a stroke which he needed badly when he blew a 3½ foot putt at the 15th. So Smith reached the 18th tee needing a par 4 to win. His drive, with a downhill roll, covered 270 yards of the 420. Grasping a No. 3 iron Horton took a full swing and the ball landed on the dangerously guarded green about 25 feet from the pin. It was a beautiful shot, boldly made. His first putt was over the cup, leaving another similar to that he had missed at the 15th. Smith waited until Shute holed out, then sank his putt and the tournament was over.

Smith said he could thank two persons for his success. One was Joe Norwood of Los Angeles, Cal., Country club, who during the winter gave him suggestions on use of his right hand. The other was Paul Runyan, a fellow competitor, who loaned him an extra driver when he expressed a liking for its balance before the tourney. Smith was better off the tee than ever before.

Wood Blows Short Putt.

There were heartbreaking "ifs" by those immediately behind. Craig Wood blew a comparatively short putt which would have meant a tie. Billy Burke's 25 foot putt on the final green hesitated on the lip of the cup, balanced there, and refused to drop. That fraction of an inch meant a difference of $150.

Despite the fact Bobby Jones, interest compelling figure of the event, was out of contention for first place, at least half the 2,000 spectators followed him and Walter Hagen in preference to the leaders. They saw typical Jones golf—golf as good as any of the field, but those higher rounds of the first two days were not to be cut down in this kind of company. Bobby took 32 putts today.

From 35th to 13th.

From a tie for 35th place on the opening day Jones steadily improved his relative position to finish tied for 13th, into which notch Walter Hagen dropped by taking 77 on the final round.

As Jones sank his putt at the half way mark with the rusty bladed putter which he had borrowed from his mother's bag yesterday, she stepped onto the green to wish him luck the rest of the journey.

Bobby leaned forward to kiss her, stopped for a few sips of ginger ale, and then was off to complete his last nine holes of the tournament in which he reentered competition after four years' absence.

Jones does not plan to continue in competition this year. Club officials who incurred expense of $10,000 in promoting this tourney and received

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 25.—The hapless but not altogether helpless White Sox took their fifth successive spanking at Wrigley field today when they were defeated by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the second game of their exhibition series. The score was: Pittsburgh, 8; Chicago, 5.

The game was eventful in that it saw Ted Lyons emerge from wherever it is he's been. Ted was the starting pitcher, worked three innings, and held the Pirates to a triple, double, and three singles, all of which netted them only two runs.

Joe Heving was the second Sox pitcher, and was the victim of a two run attack, though he later braced for some fair pitching, which included a string of four strikeouts in a row.

The Boys Are Trying.

There was some jubilation in the Sox camp because the run quota has been lowered far under ten runs per game. The enemy quota now is three runs below the total of 50 for the last five games. There are those mean enough to say this falling behind the ten run schedule indicates the Pirates are not as strong as they have been doped; but it is our thought that the Pirates easily could have made ten runs had they so desired.

The White Sox fans perhaps should not be too discouraged about the situation, as it now appears valiant efforts are being made to assemble a major league ball club before the season opens on April 17, though the task is, of course, a slow and arduous one.

Cubs Next, Then Merchants.

The Sox are scheduled to rest tomorrow on account of their uniforms being locked up here again for the resumption of their series with the Cubs Tuesday. They also will play the Cubs Wednesday, after which they will drill on stratagems Thursday and Friday, then wind up their training camp stay next Saturday and Sunday with the fast Pasadena Merchants, whom they are determined to give a severe tussle.

The Pirates developed a little heat for Lyons in his first inning of the year, but were stopped short of a run. With one out Lindstrom singled to center and stopped at second when P. Waner slapped a single to the same terrain. Traynor walked, filling the bases. Vaughan was then called out on strikes and Suhr bounced out to Bonura.

Meine retired the first eight batsmen to face him, but with two out in the third Lyons broke through with a line double to right and scored on Swanson's single to center.

Heving took over the pitching job in the fourth inning and almost had the side out when the Pirates set upon him for a pair of runs. Lavagetto fanned, but Padden succeeded in bouncing a single just out of Heving's reach. Meine singled to left, Padden stopping at second. L. Waner forced Meine, Padden stopping at third. Then Lindstrom negotiated his third hit, a double to right, which

St. Patrick's of Chicago Takes Third Place.

BY HOWARD BARRY

Catholic High School of Joliet won the national Catholic basketball championship by defeating St. Mary's High School of Stockton, Cal., 30 to 17, last night in the final round of the eleventh annual tournament at Loyola gymnasium.

Under the name of De La Salle, the Joliet school had taken the title in two previous years, 1927 and 1928. No other team has won the championship three times. All three of the Joliet quintets were coached by John Carroll.

In their appearances during the earlier rounds of the tournament, the Catholic High school boys had demonstrated considerable class, but even their stoutest backers felt some doubt about their ability to cope with the stalwart players from the Pacific coast. Never before had a California team competed in the tournament, and this particular outfit employed a style of play which had baffled earlier adversaries.

McGann Key Man in Attack.

But last night the Joliet boys rose to the occasion. With the tall McGann maneuvering from the free throw line, feeding passes to inrushing team mates or making the shots himself when opportunity offered, Catholic high drew away in the closing stages of the encounter. After leading 8 to 5 at the quarter, 10 to 9 at the half, and 19 to 14 at the end of the third period, the Joliet sharpshooters rang up 11 points in the last few minutes while holding their opponents to 3.

McGann, with six baskets and a free throw, led the winners in scoring, but the speed and accuracy of his teammates' passing made possible many of his short shots.

Minahen, coming in from the side, took a fast pass and scored from under the basket shortly after the start of the championship game. The Joliet team came right back with four field goals in quick succession, McGann scoring two while Simon and Comerford made one each. Comerford's shot was made from the side line, well down the floor. Lyons of St. Mary's then received the ball well behind the free throw line, pivoted quickly and heaved the ball through the hoop. Minahen's free throw concluded the scoring for the period, which ended with Catholic High in the lead, 8 to 5.

Catholic Leads at Half.

Soon after the beginning of the second period Conlis of St. Mary's looped in a shot from the side line. Then Heffernan, leaping out of a melée beneath the basket, caught a rebound on his fingertips and bounced the ball through the hoop to put the western team into a 9 to 8 lead. Comerford sent a long, high arching shot true to the goal to give Catholic High a 19 to 9 advantage as the half ended.

As the third period began St. Mary's tied the score on a free throw by Heffernan. Then the lanky McGann, maneuvering from the free throw line, evaded the St. Mary's guards and dropped in a short shot. Again the westerners tied the score as Lyons flashed in at an angle, took a pass under the basket and scored.

The cheering had scarcely died down before McGann gave Catholic High a 14 to 12 advantage by dribbling in and lifting a one handed shot into the hoop. Then McGann made good on a free throw, but Heffernan of St. Mary's responded with a field goal from the side line. Two baskets by McGann and Matisevac gave Catholic High a 19 to 14 lead as the third period ended.

Joliet Gets Going.

Heffernan's running shot gave St. Mary's two points as the last period began, but a free throw by Comerford and field goals by Tezak and Matisevac carried the Joliet team into a 24-16 lead. Then Matisevac made two free throws and McGann followed with a one-handed shot for a field goal, increasing Catholic high's advantage to 28 to 16. Heffernan of St. Mary's dropped in a free throw. Tezak's

FIRST GET THE BALL—THEN THE BASKETS

Cubs Fade Out in 9th Inning; Sacramento, Wins 5 to 4

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sacramento, Cal., March 25.—The Cubs weren't able to accomplish much in the way of hitting this afternoon. They did collect a couple of homers, thereby accounting for four runs, but this wasn't enough, and the Sacramento Senators of the Coast league won the second of a two game series, 5 to 4. The winning run came home in the ninth after the Chicagoans, in their half, had done a nose dive in which the illustrious Babe Herman hit into a double play with the bases loaded.

Malone, Warneke Pitch.

The two outstanding players in the Cub attack were Babe Phelps, the young catcher, and Gabby Hartnett. Phelps hit one over the fence to provide his team with its first three runs. Hartnett, making his first appearance of the year, took a swing in place of the pitcher in the ninth and also boosted one over the wall, tying the score.

Pat Malone and Lon Warneke furnished a fair supply of good pitching during the first eight innings, but apparently are not yet at their peak. Malone yielded only three hits, but he also walked three and two of the players who walked scored runs. Mr. Alexander Kampouris, the prospective big leaguer, drove in two of the three runs scored against Pat. The same youth also made use of a walk to fetch home the only run allowed by Warneke.

Lefty Rattles Cubs.

After these two veterans had performed Grimm was forced to trust a batting practice pitcher named Davenport, and the youngster issued a pass to start the home ninth. A couple of scratch hits followed to drive in the winning run.

MAROONS WHIP RANGERS, 2-1, IN 3D PLACE SERIES

New York, March 25.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons, who barely succeeded in getting into the National Hocky league playoffs, tonight knocked the New York Rangers, 1933 world champions, out of the battle for the Stanley cup by winning the final game of their opening playoff series, 2 to 1.

The Maroons took the two game round by the same score, as they played a scoreless tie at Montreal last Tuesday in their first clash. The victory sent the Maroons, who finished third in the league's Canadian division, into the semi-final round.

Earl Robinson of Montreal was the deciding factor in the evenly contested struggle, which kept a capacity crowd of more than 16,000 on edge. The speedy youngster scored both Montreal goals in a great comeback after the Rangers had notched the first tally.

MARCH SCORES DECIDING GOAL IN OVERTIME

17,600, Year's High, See Battle.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Stadium bulged at 8:30 o'clock last night with 17,600 howling customers, the largest hocky assemblage of the season. At 11:05 its walls boomed when the Blackhawks whipped the Montreal Canadiens in their Stanley cup series by the arduous procedure of tying the Frenchmen, 1 to 1, in overtime. The deadlock gave the Chicagoans the second place series by a score of four goals to three, they having conquered the Canadiens at Montreal Thursday by a score of 3 to 2.

It appeared early in the evening that the Canadiens were out to sustain their reputation as the most dangerous money team in the National Hocky league, for they dispatched Johnny Gagnon down the ice in the first period to tie the series score at three goals apiece.

March Decides Game.

From there on no quarter was given, particularly by the venerable Mike Rodden and his officiating colleague, Duke McCurry, who called everything even vaguely resembling a misdemeanor. Despite Rodden and McCurry, however, the two teams gave the customers one of the most savage and rentlentless performances of the season throughout the regular 60 minutes of play.

Then they added to that with ten minutes and 45 seconds of sudden death competition, which terminated when the Hawks' most successful line of the year — Mush March, Paul Thompson, and Doc Romnes — delivered what proved to be the deciding goal of the series. March scored it on assists from Thompson and Romnes.

The Hawks will continue their progress in the Stanley cup competition at Montreal Wednesday night, when they meet the Maroons, who wrested the third place bracket from the Rangers at New York last night by a score of 2 to 1. The Hawks will return to the Stadium with the Maroons next Sunday night for the second and last game of the semi-final series, which also is decided on a total goal basis.

Gardiner Gets Trophy.

President Frank Calder of the National Hocky league presented the Georges Vezina trophy for goal keeping to Chuck Gardiner. Gardiner was the stingiest doorman in the league during the regular season, but the fans learned last night why Loren Chabot of the Canadiens was runner-up to the Chicago star. M. Chabot was largely responsible for the length of last night's game, making 46 stops, most of them seemingly impossible, before he succumbed to March's rifle effort.

The Canadiens played through the last two periods and the overtime without the services of their star forward, speedy Howie Morenz, who suffered a broken right wrist and a battered cheek bone in a first period collision with March.

It was natural that the Canadiens, lagging by a goal on the basis of total points for the two games, should become offensively serious at the outset of the proceedings, but they were more than matched by the Hawks, who appeared to have no protective inclinations of any description.

Hawks Lose Lead.

Morenz, Joliat, and Larochelle maintained a continual barrage on the Hawk cage. It was not a question of forward trios, as far as Manager Lalonde of the Canadiens was concerned, for he was sending in individuals instead of lines, even going so far as to commission old Pit Lepine, a natural center, as a left wing.

The second penalty of the period, like the first, went to the Hawks, when Abel, performing a routine checking assignment, stretched Carson up on the ice. After he returned the Canadiens were rewarded with a goal. Gagnon scored it in 15:07, with an assist from assiduous Riley. Gagnon was then deported on a tripping penalty, but the Hawks failed to help

Willie Hoppe of New York, many times holder of the championship, and Kinrey Matsuyama of Japan, the youngest contestant in the field, will meet tonight in the opening block of the international 18.2 balk line tournament at the 131 South Wabash Recreation amphitheater.

St. Paul Pair Places 2d in A. B. C. Meet

Peoria, Ill., March 25.—(AP)—Two changes in the two man team event occurred today in the 34th annual American Bowling Congress.

Albert D. Priebe and Joseph J. Schwartz, members of the G. and M. Lunch quintet of St. Paul, Minn., knocked down 1,277 pins, which put them in second place. Ray Zeigler and Eddie Heuermann, St. Louis, who shot 1,275 yesterday, dropped to third place.

Tomasek and Ganim Roll 1,241.

Both of the St. Paul bowlers were rolling in their first A. B. C. Priebe banged out games of 220, 204, 238, for a 662 series. Schwartz hammered the pins for counts of 226, 176, 213, giving him a 615 series. They shot game totals of 446, 338, 451.

Andy Tomasek, who finished third last year in the singles, and Joe Ganim, Cleveland, scored 1,241 this morning and took eighth place. Tomasek collected 548 pins and Ganim 693.

Chicagoan Feeds Brown Thrasher Since December

BY BOB BECKER.

There is one brown thrasher in Chicago that won't have to worry about a long migration trip this spring. This particular bird has spent the whole winter on the south side. E. R. Snyder, 1504 East 68th street, writes us that Mrs. Snyder has been feeding the thrasher ever since last December, and it has survived the wintry months in fine shape.

"It won't be long now," writes Mr. Snyder, "until some bright-eyed person will report to you the presence of a brown thrasher in Jackson park. When that time comes, please recall this letter. My wife has been feeding Mr. Thrasher daily since last Dec. 4. His favorite food is peanuts, although he will eat anything from suet to cracked corn. Two years ago we fed two injured grackles all winter, and last winter we fed a robin. This is the first time we have heard of a thrasher remaining in these parts during the winter months."

It is the first brown thrasher of which we have heard to winter in Chicago. Ordinarily the thrashers do not arrive here from the south until the latter part of April. The average arrival date of these birds ranges through April 20 to 24, although in early springs they have shown up at least two weeks in advance.

This week should see several new bird arrivals in Chicagoland, providing the weatherman encourages the feathered migrants with a few warm days. Already we have received quite a "wave" of meadowlarks in northern Illinois. We have seen any number of them while driving between our home and the Fox river country. Some were flying over fields and others were sitting on wires near the road. In one field we saw a killdeer. The frozen ground didn't make it any too easy on this shore bird, because it prefers soft mud in which to find its food.

Ordinarily the last week in March will bring one very popular bird. If he maintains his average arrival schedule, the flicker is quite apt to check in about this time. This gay old drummer, the bird that beats a merry tattoo on dead trees and [unfortunately] on the roofs of houses, always is a welcome migrant. There is something about the exuberance of this woodpecker that is symbolical of spring.

We like to hear him hammering away in the morning, operating his "broadcasting" system—so long as the hammering is on a roof other than ours. By the last week in March song sparrows should have their tunes well rehearsed. Of all March birds which come into Chicagoland, none can equal the song sparrow for bubbling melodies and real spring music.

ENGLEWOOD AND ST. CYR WIN WAY TO K. OF C. FINAL

St. Cyr of the West division, defending champion, will meet Englewood of the South division for the 1934 title in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league as a result of their victories yesterday in the semi-final round at the 132d Regiment armory.

St. Cyr had a hard time beating Tonti of the West section, 28 to 20, while Englewood had to finish fast to defeat Quigley, South end champion, 25 to 23. The West division upset the South in both consolation bracket games, Hughes winning from Auburn Park, 38 to 30, and Setters beating Loyola-Hyde Park, 35 to 31.

Cooper's Basket Wins.

Englewood, which won its quarter-final game with nine second to play, drew the issue even finer yesterday by waiting until only three seconds remained. Then, with the score tied, Cooper, a substitute, scored from under the basket. It was an uphill struggle all the way for Englewood, which was shut out during the first nine minutes, while Quigley piled up an 11 point lead. Quigley led at the half, 13 to 6, but the south side team rallied and tied the score with five minutes to play.

Gruenig Is Star.

Tonti gave St. Cyr a battle, but was unable to offset Bob Gruenig's eye for the basket. The big St. Cyr center accounted for 13 points, and was responsible for the champions' 16 to 11 lead at the half.

Finals will be played next Sunday at the 132d Regiment armory. Hughes will meet Setters for the consolation title; Tonti will play Quigley for third and fourth places, and St. Cyr will meet Englewood for the title.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—Jim Weaver and Buck Newsom limited the New York Giants to five hits today and the St. Louis Browns defeated the world champions 5 to 3 in the fifth and deciding game of their exhibition series.

The Browns pounded Roy Parmelee, Bill Shores, and Al Smith for ten hits, including triples by Melillo and Burns. The winning run in the sixth came off Smith, when Burns singled, stole second and went to third on Healey's bad throw. He scored on Melillo's single.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 25.—(AP)—The Phillies defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2 today, but the victory cost them the loss of Dick Bartell, captain and star shortstop.

Only 24 Years Old, Smith Is Veteran in Golf Spotlight

Horton Smith, the angular, sandy-haired professional of the Oak Park Country club, who outfought Bobby Jones and the greatest all-star field in years to win the masters' tournament at Augusta, Ga., yesterday, is not only one of the ablest stylists in the game, but also one of its most popular professionals.

That popularity has trebled since he came to the Chicago district in April, 1933. Horton, who won't be 25 years old until May 22, was born in Springfield, Mo., and educated at the Teachers' college there. He made his professional beginning at the Oak Hill club of Joplin, Mo., whence he came in 1929 to startle the experts with one of the greatest winning streaks in the history of golf.

Wins Seven of 19.

In nineteen tournaments during the winter campaign of that year Smith won seven, was second four times, third three times, and fourth twice. During this period he was over 300 strokes for 72 holes only twice, and had an average of about even fours. He went to the semi-finals of the National P. G. A. tournament, and it took Walter Hagen to eliminate him there.

The wily Bob Harlow, Hagen's manager, immediately signed the young man's name to a contract to tour the country in a series of exhibition matches with Hagen, shortly after Horton had been named a member of the United States Ryder cup team, a berth which he has never relinquished. Incidentally, Smith was the last golfer anywhere to defeat the peerless Jones, coming home a stroke in front of him in the Savannah open of 1930. In Horton's first year on the big time he led every pro in the country in medal scoring, averaging 72 3-10 strokes for 64 rounds of winter golf in major tournaments.

Injury Keeps Him Out.

After that spurt, he encountered a run of hard luck which didn't end until he captured the 1931 St. Paul open with its first prize of $2,500. From there he continued to place among the leaders in every big show until January of 1932, when, after winning the medal in the San Francisco match play tournament, he suffered a wrist injury in an auto accident. He refrained from serious play for several months. Yesterday's victory is another proof that he has fully recovered.

The current winter season has been one of the most profitable of Smith's career. With yesterday's triumph and its first prize of $1,500, Horton went into second place among the winter's moneymakers with a total of $4,496, only Paul Runyan ranking ahead of him.

Horton will be one of the judges of the final competitions of THE TRIBUNE Golf school, which will begin its second term shortly.

Jones, Through for Year, Will Play in 1935 Masters' Golf

Augusta, Ga., March 25.—(AP)—Bob Jones is through with competitive golf for 1934, but he will be back here again to renew the argument with his professional rivals in next winter's tournament, already definitly planned for the Augusta national course.

"Unless I break down completely, I will play in this tournament in 1935," said the Georgian, after finishing ten strokes back of Horton Smith, winner of the first Master's invitational. "We plan to make this an annual event and I hope to participate annually, regardless of where I finish."

Jones completely squashed the suggestion that he may return to national open championship competition, however. He declared he had no idea of entering this year's open at Merion or any other title event.

"I'm through with all that business," he said.

As to his reaction to his first competition since he retired with the "grand slam" in 1930, Jones added: "I would have enjoyed myself more if I got more of those short putts down, but I had a good time, anyway, and I hope the rest of the fellows did. Until this tournament began, I did not realize what a big difference there is between palying these friendly, practice rounds and a tournament where every shot counts. I simply could not get putting confidence and control, no matter how much advice or how many clubs I tried."

Sox Tie Score.

The Sox were stopped with one run and filled bases in their end of the fourth. Bonura pushed off with a double, paused while Simmons popped to Vaughan, but scored on the first of Appling's series of hits, a single to left center. Dykes singled to right, putting Appling on second and when P. Waner juggled the ball Appling went on to third. Padden reached into the boxes to grab Chamberlin's foul, but Shea walked, filling the bases. Heving then flied to Roettger.

The Chicagoans knicked Smith for a tie in the latter half of the sixth. Appling doubled to center with one out. Dykes grounded to Smith and Appling apparently was trapped between second and third, until Thevenow dropped Smith's throw. The error enabled Appling to return to second and Dykes to reach first. Chamberlin singled to right, filling the bases. Then Shea singled to left, scoring Appling and Dykes. The bases were again full when Lavagetto fumbled pinch batter Uhalt's grounder. Swanson lined to P. Waner and Bordagaray forced Uhalt.

Ninth Inning Rally Fails.

The Pirates stepped out for the lead when Pomorski came in to pitch in the first of the seventh. Roettger opened with a single and P. Waner walked. Thevenow hit into a double play, but Vaughan came through with the first of his triples, scoring Roettger. Suhr fouled to Shea.

In the ninth the Pirates decided to make their victory margin a bit wider. P. Waner pushed off with a homer and Thevenow followed with a double. Vaughan socked his second successive triple and his third successive hit, scoring Thevenow. Suhr singled to right scoring Vaughan, whereupon Gallivan replaced Pomorski. Lavagetto walked and moved to second on Finney's sacrifice. Smith was called out on strikes and Chamberlin threw out Jensen.

Swanson opened the Sox ninth with a double. Bordagaray popped to Thevenow, but Bonura and Bocek, battling for Simmons, walked, filling the bases. Swanson scored while Appling was being thrown out and the game ended when Vaughan threw out Dykes.

CALUMET AND ARMOUR REACH BUDA CUP FINAL

Armour and Calumet soccer teams won their way to the final for the Buda cup yesterday. Armour defeated Harvey, 2 to 1, at Kuppenheimer stadium and Calumet won from the Ravenswood Hearts, 4 to 0. Corbet scored twice for Calumet. Robertson and O'Malley also made goals.

Bell of Armour opened the scoring in the first minute of play, and six minutes later Gibson of the same team beat three opponents to score the second goal. Keenan of Harvey made his team's only goal from a spot kick a minute before the game ended. Young of Harvey missed two goals when his shots soared over the bar.

Blackhawks Tie Canadiens; Win Cup Series

The tension of the contest increased to the bursting point in the second period, which produced some of the fastest skating of the season, not to mention a marvelous exhibition of gate minding by Chabot. The Gottselig-Couture-McFadyen line kept hammering at the Canadiens' cage for the first ten minutes of the period, and it appeared impossible for them to be denied a goal, such was their cagerness.

Hawks Press Hard.

Gottselig and Couture at one time appeared to have the French goalie helpless, when the former circled the cage for a perfect pass to Lolo. Carson intercepted it, however, and Lolo plunged into an empty cage, which Chabot had deserted to make a possible save.

Both teams accelerated their pace when the announcer revealed that the Maroons had overcome the Rangers in the third place series at New York. This particularly inspired the Canadiens, who would like nothing better than to meet their fellow townsmen.

In the final three minutes the Canadiens relaxed a mite, golfing the puck down the ice, while the Hawks continued to make raid after raid, one of them terminating in a stick waving duel between Gottselig and Bourgeault.

The Hawks' persisted in maintaining the offensive in the third period, harrying Chabot. Gottselig, Couture, and McFadyen once more were his severest enemies. Whether it was poor marksmanship or excellent goalkeeping by Chabot depended upon whom you liked, but the ten minute mark was reached with the Canadiens still leading, 1 to 0.

Canadiens on Defense.

While Mantha was in the penalty box, the Hawks, led by Conacher, initiated their most concentrated onslaught, but Chabot remained adamant, going to the ice time and again to break up plays originated by Conacher. The Canadiens, on the other hand, appeared to be determined to prolong the contest, back and poke checking, when they were not punting the disc down the ice. Their defensive work, however, was their best of the season on Chicago ice.

The Hawks were deprived of the valuable McFadyen talents within a minute of the extra period when Donnie was given a major penalty for slashing Burke. The Canadiens extended themselves during his absence, but to no avail.

CUBS FADE OUT IN 9TH, LOSE TO SACRAMENTO, 5-4

they accomplished while Lefty Flynn was pitching in the first three innings. Flynn refused to let his opponents prove they were big leaguers in fact as well as in name. He yielded a single with one out in the first and then kept both Cuyler and Klein from hitting the ball past the infield. Jurges nicked him for a scratch hit with two gone in the second, and Phelps then fanned. In the third W. Herman and Cuyler walked after two were out. Klein was again disposed of, on a grounder to the cocky Mr. Kampouris.

Malone invited trouble in the second by walking Ostenberg, who led off. Kampouris was robbed of a hit by Billy Herman's great one handed stop back of first. Powers then pushed a single past Billy and Ostenberg took third. French poked a slow bounder toward Galan and the latter made one of his customary brilliant pickups and also one of his customary wild throws. The toss pulled Camilli off the bag and Ostenberg scored on the error.

Kampouris Drives in Two.

Trouble for Malone popped up at the start of the third inning when Borja singled to left and moved to second on Donovan's sacrifice. Malone lost control long enough to walk Steinbacker, but made amends for this lapse by fanning Ostenberg. Then Kampouris converted one of Malone's pitches into a line drive against the left field fence for two bases, Borja and Steinbacker scoring. Kamporuis, however, was too ambitious. Instead of stopping at second he made a break for third and was trapped.

The arrival of Koupal as successor to Flynn at the start of the fourth didn't bring on any noticeable improvement in the Cub attack. At least not until Phelps came through in the sixth. After two were out Camilli singled to right and Jurges walked. At this point the massive Mr. Phelps took one of his full, free swings and the last seen of the ball was when it passed over the right field wall. That heroic swat netted three runs and tied the score.

Senators Take Lead Again.

The Cubs didn't have much time in which to enjoy the feeling of a tie. The Senators dissolved the deadlock in their half of the sixth, which was Warneke's starting inning. Ostenberg flied out for a starter. Kampouris walked and stole second. Powers whacked a single to right and Kampouris dashed home.

Hartnett's pinch homer restored the tie to open the ninth. For a few minutes thereafter it appeared as if there would be a deluge of Cub runs. Horne walked Hack, Billy Herman was safe on a bad throw, and Cuyler sacrificed. Klein was walked purposely, filling the bases. Babe Herman bounced into a double play and that was the end of that. Then the Senators proceeded to conclude the battle at the expense of Davenport.

The Cubs went back to Los Angeles this evening and will spend tomorrow warming up with the Angels in preparation for a tough week. The Cubs must handle the White Sox Tuesday and Wednesday and then the Pirates for the four following days.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 25.—This long training grind for Chicago's Golden Glovers who will battle New York's finest before a capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden next Wednesday night is nearly over.

The peak period bouts ended in Stillman's gymnasium here late this afternoon, and Otis Thomas, the big Negro boy from Chicago's south side, provided a fitting climax when his terrific right came into contact with the chin of a professional sparring partner.

Pro Takes Count of 22.

The pro heavyweight went down, not for a count of ten but for an actual count of twenty-two. When the New Yorker pulled himself together and shook the dizziness out of his chin, Coach Johnny Behr sounded taps on hard gymnasium work with the cheerful message of:

"All right boys, that's enough."

This doesn't mean that our boys from Chicago are going out tonight and do Broadway and Fifth avenue in Roman holiday fashion.

The intercity battle with the New Yorkers still is some 72 hours away. The Chicagoans will wait until these struggles are over before they attempt to paint the town red.

There will be road work and some speedy gymnasium drill and a round of boxing tomorrow and again on Tuesday. The boys who can't keep their weight down must exercise. As far as giving and taking punches in the fight for intercity positions is concerned, however, its all over until our boys start exchanging them with the New Yorkers.

Take More Work Today.

The Chicago lads probably have worked longer hours and at a faster clip than any team Coach Behr has prepared for a skirmish with New York. They have come through it in fine condition, although there are a couple of casualties on the list.

Bill Treest, our middleweight champion, still nurses a sore nose. That must have been a powerful punch Fred Caserio landed on Bill's beezer while Bill was whipping Fred for the 160 pound championship in Chicago.

Keith Graves, the Peoria welterweight, who showed great will power and quit eating mashed potatoes and thick gravy until he got down to the proper poundage, has a bad shoulder.

Dr. William Rothman, team physician, and Trainer Jabber Young are applying all sorts of treatment to the stubborn shoulder and are hopeful they will have Graves in shape to square away against New York's 147 pound king at about 10 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Preparation Is Thorough.

If Chicago's team is beaten it will be because our boys can't punch hard or often enough. Their preparation for the New York squabble has been more thorough than in any other year. Aside from Coach Behr, the Catholic Youth Organization coach, Paddy Kane, is here handing out his expert advice. Jabber Young is trainer, assisted by Izzy Kline.

Kline, who is from the Barney Ross ménage, is probably the best corner man in the country. He will be in the Chicago corner Wednesday night and in the meantime is helping rub away the bruised and sore spots accumulated during the tournament of champions and the fierce training sessions which have followed.

The thirty Chicago boxers are doing their best to adhere to the rules Coach Behr has drawn up for them.

Just a Few "Don'ts."

It is a little hard at times for such rugged fellows. The hotel "do nots" which Coach Behr has prescribed include:

"Do not slam doors."

"Do not speak to any of those New York fighters."

So far not a rule violation has been reported. Still it isn't hard to conclude that our boys are fighters and not sophisticates.

GARY PAIR HURT AS BUS COLLIDES WITH MOTOR CAR

14 Passengers Shaken Up in Accident.

Two persons in an automobile were critically injured and fourteen passengers in a bus were jolted in a collision between the two vehicles in highway 41, just west of Winthrop Harbor, last night. Winthrop Harbor is in Lake county at the Wisconsin line.

Those hurt were A. P. Putnam, 609 Jefferson street, Gary, Ind., and Mrs. Lucille Casper, who lives in the Dolly Madison club in Gary. Both were taken to a hospital in Kenosha and were reported to be in a critical condition.

Veers Out of Lane.

Police said the accident occurred when Putnam, south bound in the highway, tried to pass another car and veered into the north bound lane, where he collided with the bus, which was north bound.

The bus, driven by Alvin Warnicke of Milwaukee, and bound for Milwaukee, left the road and plowed 150 feet across a field. It knocked down a pole carrying power wires, and this threw scores of homes for miles around into darkness.

Seriously Hurt by Train.

Joseph Urbana, 34 years old, 12818 Bishop street, was seriously injured yesterday when his automobile was struck by an Illinois Central suburban train at the Orange street crossing in Blue Island. The car was carried along in front of the train for two blocks. Urbana was hurled out at the moment of impact and incurred internal injuries.

Four automobile fatalities were reported in Cook county, raising the 1934 motor toll to 284. The victims:

Mrs. Theresa Pelz, 75 years old, 1846 North Springfield avenue. Died yesterday in the Danish American hospital of injuries incurred Saturday when she was struck at Crawford and Armitage avenues by the automobile of Lee H. Figge, 52 years old, 1605 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Nora Vaughn, 25 years old, 1004 Main street, Evanston. Died in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, of injuries incurred March 21, when the automobile in which she was riding overturned at the North Shore line tracks and Gross Point road, Niles Center.

Josephine Matthews, colored, 14 years old, 423 East 45th place. Killed at 44th street and Vincennes avenue when an automobile driven by Henry Haynes, colored, 53 years old, 3749 Vincennes avenue ran over the curb.

Frank Gracino, 65 years old, address unknown. Died early today in Holy Cross hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night when he was struck at Marquette road and Damen avenue by a car driven by George Cudones, 1627 South 49th avenue, Cicero.

Boy Thrown from Bicycle Receives Fractured Skull

Martin Lawrey, 13 years old, 2752 Seminary avenue, received a skull fracture yesterday when he lost control of his bicycle and was thrown over the handlebars in front of the Sheffield avenue police station, 2742 Sheffield avenue. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital.

SMILING BANDIT GETS $25.

SUICIDE OF OIL FUGITIVE BARES HE WAS BROKE

SHANGHAI, March 25.—(AP)—Penniless at death and a fugitive from justice in the United States, C. C. Julian, one time millionaire oil operator of Oklahoma and California, who took poison early today in a fashionable Shanghai hotel, is to be buried by his friends.

The undertaker revealed that Julian, who once handled millions, was without funds, and others claimed he was thousands of dollars in debt.

Although physicians who tried to save his life after the young woman who was his dinner companion found him unconscious in a room in the Astor House hotel asserted unequivocally that Julian committed suicide, others discussed the possibility that he accidentally took an overdose of sleeping pills.

Julian's dinner companion, Leonora Levy, his confidante and secretary, also attempted to kill herself, physicians said. She took the same potion that killed Julian, but regained consciousness today long enough to reveal that Julian told her he intended to kill himself.

MRS. A. J. PEGLER OF NEWSPAPER FAMILY IS DEAD

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Arthur James Pegler, mother of one of New York's best known newspaper families, died at her home today of heart disease. She was 64 years old.

She is survived by her husband, Arthur James Pegler, 71, of the Daily Mirror, and three children: Westbrook Pegler, the columnist; Jack A. Pegler, New York advertising man, and a daughter, Frances, who left the newspaper field two years ago to devote herself to her mother.

Mrs. Pegler, who herself engaged in incidental writing, was married in Minneapolis 45 years ago. Under her guidance her children were early taught the fundamentals of writing.

FOUR FACTORS NOW DOMINATE GRAIN OUTLOOK

Each Is Capable of Major Effect.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders are confronted with four factors, any one of which might result in major price movements.

Industrial unrest and the prospective effect on general business was of considerable influence last week, and is expected to continue until the threatened auto strike is settled.

On March 31 speculative trading will start under the provisions of the national code, and rulings made by the AAA as to margin requirements may have a material effect in determining prices.

World Wheat Parley April 5.

The international wheat advisory committee is to meet at Rome April 5, with many subjects of great importance to the world's trade to come up for consideration.

Finally there is the lack of subsoil moisture over a large part of the spring and winter wheat territory east of the Rockies.

Fears have been expressed here and in Canada during the past week that Argentine might bolt the international wheat agreement which was signed in London last fall, owing to dissatisfaction regarding its quota for the current season.

While it is regarded as a little too early in the season to start a crop scare in the wheat belt, especially as the spring grain has not yet been seeded, many operators have for several weeks been expressing the greatest concern regarding the outcome of the 1934 crop.

Favorable Weather Needed.

Normally, field work has made some progress in the northwest by this time, and seeding started in the advanced sections. There is more or less connection between the amount of moisture in the subsoil in both the American and Canadian northwest and the spring wheat crop, and extremely favorable weather conditions are necessary if the harvest this year is to be even fairly good.

Wheat market fluctuated erratically the past week within a range of 2 cents per bushel and closed well toward the top with net gains of ⅛ to ¼ cent with May and July quoted at 87¾ to 87⅞ cents and September at 88¾ cents on Saturday. Range of prices follows:

	May.	July.	Sept.
Monday	85¾-87¼	86¼-87¼	87 -88¼
Tuesday	86¼-87⅝	86⅝-87⅞	87½-88⅜

For week	85¾-88¼	86¼-88	87 -88⅞

Corn Has Cent Range.

A more favorable statistical position exists in corn than in wheat. In addition domestic conditions largely govern the action of the former market. However, prices had a range of only about 1 cent last week, with routine news attracting little or no attention.

Closing trades Saturday showed net losses of ¼ to ⅝ cents for the week, with May finishing at 50⅞ cents, July at 53¾ cents, and September at 54½ cents. Range of prices follows:

	May.	July.	Sept.
Monday	50¾-51	53 -53¾	54 -54½
Tuesday	50½-51¼	52½-53¼	54⅝-55
Wednesday	50½-51	52½-52⅞	54⅜-54⅞

Friday	50⅝-50⅞	52½-52⅞	54⅜-54½

New Oats Being Seeded.

Seeding of the new oats crop in parts of the main belt was under way before the development of the last cold wave, and milder weather is expected to result in it being resumed. The bulk of this work is already out of the way in the more southern sections of the country. Little interest was shown in the market during the week with the close Saturday ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower, May ending at 34 cents, July at 34⅜ cents and September at 34½ cents. KELLOGG FOOD WORKERS GIVEN WAGE INCREASE

Battle Creek, Mich., March 25.—[Special.]—W. K. Kellogg, president of the Kellogg company, food manufacturers, announced today the adoption of the highest wage scale ever paid to the company's employes, affecting all classes of labor and the largest number of workers ever employed.

"The new wage scale," said Kellogg, "is the result of the permanent adoption of the six hour work day after three years of operation. Under the six hour shift arrangement we have not reduced any wage scale and the adjustment of the wage scales is now predicated on the new permanent basis of operations. During the previous period of operation under the six hour day we adopted a 12½ per cent wage allowance or increase in hourly rates for all men, without changing the basis upon which bonuses are now figured.

Under the new plan we will increase the previous eight hour basic rate 7½ per cent, or the amount of the wage allowance, plus a minimum increase of 4 per cent in men's wages."

Slow or Quick Inflation? Best Minds Puzzled

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Inflation—slow or sudden?

That is the question that is puzzling the best minds in the financial community these days.

Growing daily is the conviction that with the tremendous increase in the credit base brought about by federal government manipulation rising prices cannot be avoided and that the only question is whether the upturn will be gradual or whether it will come with a jerk.

By now practically every one who is financially minded has come to the conclusion that what the administration seeks in the way of prices is to bring about a reversal of the action of prices since 1929.

Can such a reversal be accomplished? Yes, say most financial experts, but they usually qualify their affirmative answer by saying that once under way skyrocketing prices could not be controled and that the ultimate result would be another collapse with its accompanying business depression.

Everywhere in banking circles the credit situation is regarded as being loaded with inflation dynamite because of the tremendous expansion of the credit base as a result of the reduction of the gold content of the dollar together with the rapid increase in the federal government debt.

Multiplying the number of dollars which may be issued against a given amount of treasury gold has cheapened the dollar by increasing the potential supply of currency. The steady increase in government borrowing has accompanied soaring government expenditures. Government spending provides the temporary stimulus to business and the rising tide of funds in the banks has made borrowing exceptionally cheap and attractive for any one who can demonstrate the ability to repay when the loan matures.

As yet there hasn't been any big increase in bank loans, but such an increase is regarded as inevitable as prices continue to rise as a result of the stimulus applied by the government in cheapening money and spending it. Commercial and industrial borrowers will need additional lines of credit because of increased costs of raw materials and labor and speculative borrowers will demand more bank funds.

Why aren't these developments more accurately reflected by quotations in the stock and commodity markets? Probably largely because of pessimism over the hindrances to speculation contained in the Fletcher-Rayburn bill to regulate stock exchanges and the new grain exchange code drawn up under the jurisdiction of the AAA.

"The most disquieting possibility in the outlook for the government's price raising efforts is not that they will fail but that they will succeed too well.

"Security purchases by the reserve banks and additions to both real and nominal gold holdings resulting from devaluation have combined to produce a reserve base capable of supporting an enormously expanded superstructure of credit. And the borrowing program of the federal government has provided, and will continue to provide, an outlet for surplus funds that may make the creation of such a superstructure a relatively quick development.

"The situation is similar in many respects to that which arose during the world war, when bank reserves increased rapidly as a result of gold imports and of the growth of the federal reserve system, and when the use of the additional reserves was accelerated by the borrowing and spending of the federal government.

"The time may not be far distant when the most serious problem of the administration will not be to produce an advance in prices but to hold the advance within bounds."

But will prices stay up when they get there? What about collecting and paying back the billions that the government is spending to prime the pump?

PUBLIC STAYS ON SIDELINES; STOCKS CREEP

U. S. Control, Labor Fear Halt Trade.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 25.—In spite of the brightening business outlook, the stock market still stands at bay before its twin bogeys—labor unrest and federal regulation. Trading last week dried up to the lowest volume since early in January.

The averages show little change in the week although the tendency in most sessions has been to seek moderately lower levels. There was a brisk rally Tuesday afternoon after President Roosevelt had stepped into the motor strike situation and summoned the leaders of both sides to Washington for a conference and another of some pretensions yesterday when it looked as though the White House efforts would result in a settlement. Otherwise the week has been a monotonous round of give and take by professionals between rounds of speculating on the outcome of the market's problems.

Public on Sidelines.

Brokers say the public is adhering steadfastly to the sidelines and point to the extremely small day to day turnover in proof of their assertions. It is this utter lack of interest rather than any deliberate selling that is bearing the list gradually to lower and lower ground, these observers say.

For a while early in the week it appeared that the broadsides of criticism being leveled at the revised security exchange regulation proposal might have some effect, but commentators now seemed resigned to the worst. One striking evidence of this resignation was provided by the sale of an exchange seat during the week—the first sale, by the way, since the regulation bill made its appearance—at a reduction of $85,000 from the last previous sale.

Will Continue Fight.

However, the brokerage house element continues its fight and the new week will see a widening of the offensive designed to show the congress that such things should not be.

While the final settlement of the motor strike would remove one important problem from the list, Wall street realizes that the labor situation is far from being cleaned up. There is talk of steel and coal strikes and the railroad labor situation continues to be something of a volcano. Comment indicates a widespread belief in speculative circles that the administration is going to have to act soon to control labor as well as capital if recovery is to go on.

Business Is Encouraging.

Business continues to offer encouragement for a resumption of the advance, once the immediate hurdles are taken. Seasonal expansion in trade in recent weeks has been the most vigorous the country has witnessed in three years. One business index, in fact, shows the general level of activity topping last mid-summer's best levels and running closely along with the curve of activity in the spring of 1931.

The latest trade reviews describe distribution of goods in general as the heaviest in three years. Carloadings, electric power consumption, lumber output and other major indices reflect further expansion in heavy industry, although less so than in consumption goods industries.

There are those who insist, however, that Easter and a rush in motor plants and other industries to make hay before threatening strike clouds check their activity distort the current picture somewhat.

Bendix Profit for 1933 Rises to $1,242,891

Net income of Bendix Aviation corporation for the year ended Dec. 31, 1933, was $1,242,891, compared with net loss of $1,601,242 in 1932, according to the pamphlet report issued yesterday. Last year's net income does not include the corporation's share of profits of nonconsolidated foreign and domestic subsidiary and affiliated companies, amounting to $384,547.

Whereas in 1932 a net loss from operations of $1,439,989 was sustained, last year there was a net profit from operations of $1,375,142, according to the report.

Showing Made Despite Early Loss.

"This improved showing in 1933 was accomplished despite a large operating loss incurred in the first three months of the year," points out Vincent Bendix, chairman of the board. "The improvement was the result of increased activity in the automobile industry, reduced overhead, and improved operating efficiency within the corporation."

Selling, administrative, and general expenses in 1933 amounted to $2,735,044, or $989,233 less than in 1932, according to the report. Provision for federal income taxes was $229,028.

Mr. Bendix declared that research activities of the corporation had developed new automotive and aircraft products, which would be announced this year.

Working Capital Higher.

Current assets of the corporation at the end of last year totaled $10,540,875, of which $4,996,162 was in cash, United States government securities, and "securities of prime character with early maturities." The current liabilities amounted to $1,500,796. The net working capital, representing the excess of current assets over current liabilities, was $9,040,079 on Dec. 31, 1933, or 37 per cent higher than at the end of 1932.

"In 1934 the corporation," declares Mr. Bendix, "has added important new customers for its old and new devices. If the volume of sales in the automobile industry in 1934 approximates that of 1933, these new accounts should have a significant effect on our earnings. We look for a like improvement in aviation, both military and commercial."

RFC INTEREST RATE ON BANK STOCK IS CUT TO 4 PCT. FOR 5 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 25.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation will reduce its dividend and interest rates on preferred stock and capital notes in banks and in insurance companies to four per cent for a period of five years beginning April 1, Jesse H. Jones, chairman, announced today. After that period the rate will be boosted to five per cent, Mr. Jones said.

The 4 per cent rate now applies for three years to preferred stock and capital notes which may be retired within three years. The new program will also be applicable to borrowers for self-liquidating projects.

Mr. Jones said that this action was taken in order to remove the incentive to quick payments by the banks, and thus release capital for the recovery program.

The text of his statement in part follows:

"In keeping with the President's views as to lower interest rates and with his approval, the RFC will reduce the dividend and interest rates on preferred stock and capital notes in banks and insurance companies to four per cent for five years from April 1, 1934. The rate after five years will be five per cent. At present a four per cent rate applies for three years to such preferred stock and capital notes as may be retired within that period.

"Believing that this added capital will serve a better purpose and be more helpful in the recovery program if employed by the banks without too great an incentive to repay within so short a period and the government being now able to borrow at such low rates, these dividend and interest rates are definitly fixed at 4 per cent for five years."

Soviets Buy Over 4,000 Tons of Nickel from British

London, March 25.—(AP)—The Sunday Express said today the soviet trading organization in London had bought almost £1,000,000 worth of pure nickel, the biggest metal deal ever made with British firms, consisting of more than 4,000 tons at a price between £200 and £225 ton. The newspaper said an additional contract had been completed whereby the soviet will take 500 tons of nickel sulphate from British concerns.

February Auto Output Breaks 3 Year Record

February automobile production figures for the preceding three years were shattered last month, according to the monthly report on business conditions issued yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Output showed a large expansion over January of this year. Wholesale and retail distribution of automobiles in the middle west also recorded material improvement.

Passenger Output Up 64%.

February production of passenger cars totaled 190,253 units, the bank reported. This represented a 64 per cent expansion over January and was more than double the output in the comparable periods of 1933 and 1932. Compared with February, 1931, the gain amounted to 6 per cent.

Truck production totaled 45,096 units, up 1 per cent from January and representing gains of 193, 93½ and 14 per cent, respectively, over the same months in 1933, 1932 and 1931.

Distribution figures followed production upward in the Chicago reserve district. Wholesale sales showed the more notable increase as new models became available, but substantial expansion was shown in retail distribution.

Sales Volumes Soar.

Compared with January wholesale distribution last month was up 177 per cent, and against February, 1933, a gain of 171.7 per cent was registered. Retail sales were 61 per cent ahead of January and 76 per cent above last year. Sales of used cars were up 3.2 per cent over January this year and 39.3 per cent over February a year ago.

Dealers' stocks at the end of February were 38.8 per cent higher than at the close of January, but only 6.5 per cent above a year ago.

Output of Gold in January in Canada 231,288 Ounces

OTTAWA, Ont., March 25.—(AP)—Production of gold in Canada in January totaled 231,288 ounces compared with 233,436 in the corresponding month of 1933, the Dominion bureau of statistics has reported. Ontario led all other provinces with 167,827 ounces. Receipts of jewelry and scrap at the mint contained 19,059 ounces. The world output of gold in January totaled 2,090,000 ounces, the bureau announced.

Pullman, Inc., Reduces Loss During 1933

Business improvement in the last seven months of 1933 enabled Pullman, Inc., to reduce sharply its loss from the preceding year, although the pickup was not sufficient to erase losses suffered in the first five months.

As a result the net loss amounted to $2,672,864, against a loss of $3,834,725 in 1932. This, coupled with sundry adjustments and $11,460,294 paid in dividends, necessitated a draft on surplus of $14,133,158.

The consolidated balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1933, shows net working assets of $62,958,628, against $64,277,882 at the close of the preceding year. Cash and government securities totaling $35,860,681 represented a decrease of $2,035,243 under the aggregate of similar assets a year earlier.

Trafic Decline Halted.

The report, which is signed by President David A. Crawford, says the year witnessed a termination of the long down trend in rail passenger trafic and the initiation of a campaign designed to stimulate travel through a substantial reduction in travel costs and modernization of passenger facilities.

"The effect of the reduction in fares throughout the south and west will not be known for some time, but there is an expectation by the traveling public of reductions in costs and an evident favorable response thereto," he says.

"Business conditions and the near term outlook for Pullman travel afford a striking contrast with the rapidly receding tide of business and trafic at this time last year. With present conditions favoring further economic betterment during 1934, plus the trafic expansion in prospect this summer from travel to the reopened Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, Pullman trafic and earnings should register improvement for the year."

Equipment Outlook Better.

Discussing manufacturing activities, Mr. Crawford says that replacement programs of railroads should benefit the equipment building industry to a marked degree during the coming decade.

"An encouraging development in 1933 was the increased interest of railroad managements in modernization of facilities. This was shown in a marked expansion of air conditioned cars and a trend toward light weight, streamlined trains designed for low operating costs and high speed," he asserted.

"The long delayed movement for rehabilitation of railroad equipment may get under way before the end of the year. Evidence supporting this belief is found in the fact that equipment orders placed thus far in 1934, aggregating 13,225 freight cars and 195 passenger cars, approximate the total placed during the entire three year period 1931-1933.

"Your company's domestic manufacturing subsidiaries obtained a fair proportion of this business and in addition have orders for four of the new type, high speed, streamlined passenger trains which will furnish a fair backlog of work during the first half of this year."

German Bank Reports Big Loss in Foreign Business

BERLIN, March 25.—A decline in German foreign trade was blamed today by the Deutsche Bank und Disconto Gesellschaft for a drop of 107,000,000 marks—approximately $42,800,000—in its foreign business. The decline reported by the bank was from 288,000,000 marks [$115,200,000] to 181,000,000 marks [$72,400,000]. Disappointment awaits the bank's shareholders who, according to the 1933 annual report, will receive no dividends this year.

STEEL ACTIVITY DROPS 1 POINT TO 49 PER CENT

Rate Holds Despite Strike Trouble.

Despite unsettlement in employer-labor relations in the automobile industry, steel works operations were strongly supported last week, easing only one point to 49 per cent of capacity, reports the magazine Steel.

In Detroit the rate actually improved 7 points to 100 per cent. Plants in New England also expanded operations 3 to 71 and in eastern Pennsylvania one-half to 33.

At Chicago, where rail tonnage insures rolling schedules for several months, output was steady at 43½, at both Buffalo and Birmingham 52, at Youngstown 56, and at Cleveland 82. The rate contracted 2 to 33 in Pittsburgh and 4 to 66 in Wheeling.

Actual Difficulties Few.

While strikes have been threatened in many iron and steel consuming plants, so far in comparatively few have difficulties developed to the point of interrupting the flow of materials, the journal says.

Automobile manufacturers have neither canceled important tonnages nor cut down materially their releases against contracts, and so far there has been only a negligible recession in the output of automobiles in consequence of labor disputes. Uncertainties have exerted their influence chiefly in retarding future commitments.

The review emphasizes that "until the issue in the automobile and related industries has been definitly settled, steel makers view it as a continuing menace to recovery."

Place Hopes in Railroads.

Over the next few weeks steel producers are depending on the railroads to compensate to a great extent for a decline in demand that may come in other consuming lines.

Last week's orders for rails and track fastenings, plus those that will probably be made this week, add over 150,000 tons more to mills' backlogs, according to Steel. Illinois Central has bought 20,000 tons of rails, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific 20,000 tons of rails and 27,000 tons of fastenings. The Erie is ready to award 32,000 tons of rails and 12,000 tons of fastenings, and the New York Central 40,000 tons of rails, besides accessories.

Producers have agreed to extend to Aug. 31 the time for delivery of rails sold before April 15 at $36.37½ per ton.

Structural Awards Heavy.

Awards of structural shapes last week were at the fairly high total of 20,984 tons, practically the same as in the preceding week, but seasonally greater than in recent weeks. Bids are being taken on 12,000 tons of shapes and reinforcing steel for a government dam at Fort Peck, Mont., and on 5,000 tons for a Boulder Dam power house.

Shipments of pig iron so far this month in the lake district and middle west are 35 per cent higher than in the comparable period of February. Coke shipments have also risen. On the seaboard more low phosphorus ore is being imported because of the increase in rail buying.

Though consumption of scrap has held up, uncertainties in the steel market tended to reduce its price. For the first time since November, the magazine's composite has fallen 8 cents to $12.33, a price still $3 higher than when the upward trend started.

DAVIS PREDICTS 40,000,000 ACRE CUT IN FARMS

AAA Head Tells Progress of Crop Regulation.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—Eventual withdrawal of 40,000,000 acres of land from production through corn, wheat, cotton, and tobacco reduction programs was indicated today by Chester C. Davis, agricultural adjustment administrator, in a report to Secretary Wallace.

The report, outlining the government's progress in regulating farm production from May, 1933, to February, 1934, suggested abandonment of the scheme whereby a separate contract is employed for each commodity, and the substitution of control of all regulated farm products through a single association in each county.

"Total farm income from crops in 1933," Davis said, "including rental and benefit payments, is estimated to have been $3,271,000,000, as compared with $2,113,000,000 in 1932, an increase of nearly 55 per cent.

Farm Plan Gets Credit.

"Part of this recovery was undoubtedly due to the adjustment program getting under way. With live stock and live stock products, the production of which for market covers a longer period, it is not possible to make adjustments so rapidly. It should be added that the full results of a number of important projects launched in 1933 have not yet been felt. It is expected they will become increasingly evident during 1934."

Removal of the prospective 40,000,000 acres of land from cultivation, he said, "raises puzzling questions as to regional and commodity competition, rotations, replacement crops, use of labor, and the like."

Although "practicable" plans have been worked out for use of the land in some regions, Davis continued, readjustments are "complicated" by the human problem, especially as to hired laborers and tenants. Retirement of sub-marginal land, he said, will bring even more difficult problems.

A warning was sounded against "high pressure promotion, either by the federal government or by other agencies, of settlement in areas and under conditions which cannot sustain a population on any but very low standard of living levels."

Would Meet World Needs.

"The agricultural adjustment administration," Davis said, "has no thought of preparing for a permanent scarcity. The American population is still increasing, though at a declining rate. Agriculture's goal is the economical production of ample raw materials to supply the nation's needs and to meet the demand for such products as can be sold abroad at remunerative prices, while at the same time avoiding surpluses that destroy the buying power of farm commodities and wreck farmers' standards of living."

Estimated expenditures on existing programs for rental payments and surplus removal during 1933, 1934, and 1935 total $847,176,000, with probable collections placed at $872,595,805. Administrative and other expenses are expected to absorb the excess, Davis said, and the farm administration's budget reckons a deficit of $2,293,966 in November, 1935, when programs now approved will be concluded.

Expenditures through Dec. 31 reached $181,207,519, while collections were $140,401,194. The disparity was explained in the report by the fact that a large part of the farm benefit payments was advanced by the treasury.

Banks and the RFC.

South Bend, Ind., March 23.—Don't you think you would have given a better picture of the banking situation if the article in today's TRIBUNE headed "U. S. Has Strong Grip on Biggest Banks of Nation" had shown that a number of these banks had offset the stock notes sold with notes of the RFC for an equal or larger amount, as shown by the statements of these banks? For example:

MIDDLE WEST RETAIL TRADE GAINS, HELPING CHICAGO WHOLESALING

According to reports from retailers throughout the middle west, current business is running only slightly under that of 1931, materially better than in 1933 and 1932 and is reacting profitably on Chicago wholesaling, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday.

Practically all the city's leading department stores and specialty shops are enjoying substantial buying for Easter, the report said.

In local manufacturing, employment and output continue to improve slightly. Commitments in printing, furniture, leather goods and construction materials, though far below normal, have shown some betterment. The local steel industry is profiting by the heavy buying of cars and rails.

Reports by collection agencies are optimistic. Railroads and street car companies operating in the metropolitan area are in general carrying a much heavier traffic.

Kuhn-Loeb Buys Car Firm Receiver's Notes

New York, March 25.—Purchase by Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of receivers' certificates for $1,000,000 has been announced by Walter A. Bonitz, receiver for Pressed Steel Car company. Bonitz said that the company has about $5,000,000 in orders.

U. S. LAND BANKS WILL GIVE BONDS IN MAKING LOANS

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—Bonds of the Federal Farm Mortgage corporation, instead of cash, will be used beginning tomorrow in the making of farm mortgage loans by the Federal Land banks and the bank commissioner.

The corporation, organized to provide for continuance of farm debt refinancing activities initiated last spring by the farm credit administration, may issue up to 2 billion dollars of its bonds for that purpose.

"The interest and principal payments on these bonds," said W. I. Myers, governor of the farm credit administration, "are guaranteed by the United States, and from the standpoint of the holder, they are the equivalent of government bonds."

Edinburg, Ill., State Bank to Pay 34% of Deposits

Pana, Ill., March 25.—[Special.]—Receiver F. P. Ryan of the Edinburg State bank taken over by the state auditor several months ago announced today that he had obtained a loan of $30,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation with which he will make a payment within the next ten days of 30 per cent to depositors. He said that he will also pay depositors 4 per cent on the stockholders' paid fund. All depositors' checks will total $55,808, Ryan said.

GROUP OF AMERICAN BAR URGES REVISION OF SECURITIES LAW

Washington, March 25.—(AP)—The nations's organized lawyers today added their voices to those of bankers, business men and industrialists who have condemned certain provisions of the "truth in securities" act.

A special committee of the American Bar association proposed 14 amendments of a temporary nature to cure "come of the obvious defects," pending a complete and permanent revision.

The bar association said:

"The act embodies the broadest definitions and uses the most general language, and is extraordinarily complex. As a result, the interpretation of many of its provisions is very vague and uncertain. It imposes drastic liabilities, in essence in terrorem, which are regarded by those made subject to them as unfair and unjustified.

"It radically alters the ordinary established machinery for the distribution of securities. It rides roughshod over legal principles which have been long established in our law."

Characterizing the act as a brake on recovery, the association discarded as not subject to proof one way or another the question of whether the act had stopped the flow of capital.

ILLINOIS TRADE BODY ASSAILS 4 PENDING BILLS

Charge Proposals Are Too Extreme.

Protesting against what it characterized a "wholesale attempt to revolutionize the social order," the Illinois Chamber of Commerce yesterday issued a broadside against several of the administration measures pending in congress which, it asserted, imperil ultimate economic recovery in this country.

The Dill communications bill, Fletcher-Rayburn bill for the control of stock exchanges, Wagner labor disputes bill and the Copeland bill for regulation of food and drug advertising were roundly condemned.

Based on False Premise.

The bills, the chamber asserted, are apparently based on the premise that business on the whole "is dishonest, crooked and inefficient."

Admitting that many abuses have grown up and that leadership has been found wanting in some cases the chamber declared that the premise provides no basis for rebuilding.

"If we are to subscribe to such a doctrine there is no hope for the rehabilitation of business for the simple reason that there is no foundation on which to build," the statement said.

Legislation Too Extreme.

"While we believe," the chamber declared, "in the necessity of certain types of social reform, we believe that these changes may come about more regularly and easily after the country has regained, partially at least, its economic health.

"The type of legislation embodied in the bills under question is too extreme. While there can be no question about the presence of abuses which require elimination and while there can be no question about the necessity for reasonable regulation of business by government, we must avoid the type of legislation which will kill initiative and the power to produce a reasonable profit."

Denver-RioGrande-Western Delays Action on Interest

New York, March 25.—Directors of the Denver, Rio Grande and Western railroad failed to announce any action regarding the interest which became due Feb. 1 on the company's general mortgage 5 per cent bonds, after a four hour conference yesterday. It was stated informally by a member of the board that the directors would meet again next week, at which time an announcement is expected to be made.

CHANGES SMALL ON CURB MARKET IN LAST WEEK

New York, March 25.—(AP)—Uncertainties created by labor troubles made for a nervous Curb market last week. Thinness of the list, due to indifference of traders, caused stocks to be easily responsive to varying news developments. Price changes, however, were relatively small.

Except for a number of brief flurries, dealings were extremely dull. Transfers which averaged around 250,000 for each five hour session were slightly under the total for the previous week.

A sell-off on Monday assumed rather sharp proportions among industrial specialties, although recovery followed. Oils, alcohols, and metals were irregular. Alternate dips and rallies featured Electric Bond and Share, American Gas and Electric, Hiram Walker, Lake Shore and Gulf Oil. Wright Hargreaves maintained a steady pace, but Newmont Mining met light offerings.

FINE PAPERS IN DEMAND.

Reports from middle western sections indicate an improved demand for fine papers. Business in this grade is comparatively slow in the east. The movement of kraft wrapping paper is described as fair.

UNION CARBIDE NET PER SHARE $1.57 LAST YEAR

Improvement Recorded in All Its Lines.

In consequence of an improvement in business which extended to practically all of the products manufactured by the Union Carbide and Carbon corporation—from ferroalloys used in steel manufacturing to flashlight batteries for China and the Far East—net income increased in 1933 to $14,172,927, equal to $1.57 per share of outstanding capital stock, compared with $8,781,426, or 97 cents per share, in 1932.

Last year's net surpassed dividends declared by $5,264,914. During the year surplus was increased from $36,381,724 to $41,605,829. The increase, amounting to $2,390,691, in dollar value of net current assets of foreign subsidiaries, owing to the decline of American currency in foreign exchange, was credited to surplus.

Current Position Strong.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1933, totaled $70,229,925, of which $14,747,331 was in cash, $3,573,691 in marketable securities at market, $12,814,703 in receivables, and $39,094,198 in inventories at the lower of cost or market. Current liabilities amounted to $8,893,575.

"Throughout the year the corporation carried on a continuous and definite research program," declares Jesse J. Ricks, president, in the report. "The patent department, in coöperation with the research bureau, filed 401 patent applications in the United States and foreign countries during the year, and 223 patents were issued to the corporation."

Build New Laboratory.

To extend facilities for research in the metallurgical field the corporation is constructing a new and larger laboratory at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

"New ferroalloys are being developed and improvements in existing ones are constantly being made," says Mr. Ricks. "New applications for alloy steels include the use of corrosion resisting steels for marine work, higher strength and lighter weight steels for railway, aviation, and automotive equipment, heat and corrosion resisting steels in the oil cracking industry, and stainless steels in the brewing, baking, and food industries."

Furthermore, new applications of the oxyacetylene processes and methods have recently been made. Equipment has been perfected for using the oxyacetylene flame in hardening rail ends without removing the rails from their position in the track. The report lists other results of the research organization of the corporation.

Capital Expense $5,891,879.

Paper Industry Outlook Assures Rapid Expansion

New York, March 25.—Paper companies generally have now reached a position which "assures a more rapid rate of expansion," says Dun & Bradstreet. "The new year has started with production as well as prices far above low levels prevailing early in 1933, and all branches are to be benefited further by codes which promise elimination of the price cutting mania which all but destroyed the industry a few years ago."

STABILIZE NOW, EXPERTS WARN GOVERNMENTS

World C. of C. Fears More Deflation.

Washington, D. C., March 25.—(AP)—World governments were warned today by nearly a score of internationally renowned industrialists, bankers and economists that further delay in monetary stabilization might lead to a "new wave of currency instability."

These experts, constituting the monetary committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, made this prediction in a resolution calling upon all governments to utilize the present "propitious opportunity" to stabilize.

The committee includes S. E. Georges Theunis, regent of the Belgian National bank, chairman; Prof. Charles E. Rist, honorary subgovernor of the Bank of France, and Arthur Baldwin, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris.

"It would be idle to pretend," the committee said, "that world conditions have become so stable that all fears of new complications have been definitely eliminated.

Fear More Quitting Standard.

"The improvement in the foreign trade position of individual countries off the gold standard has, in effect, been attained by the tacit acquiescence of the countries still remaining on gold."

The chamber predicted that if non-gold countries sought further advantages, there might be a further departure of gold countries from that standard with the probability of a new world money war.

The resolution did not name countries, but it was pointed out that France was the major nation remaining on gold and that she had had some difficulty in doing so. Other major nations, the United States and England in particular, have attained a de facto stabilization, but that is not regarded as a legal warrant that such stabilization will be maintained.

In fact, the chamber intimated that the contrary might be the case, and forecast the consequent departure from the standard by present gold countries.

See Serious Consequences.

"The chamber has no desire," the report said, "to anticipate the course of events and to picture the outlook as gloomier than it actually is. On the contrary, the chamber firmly holds the view that in some definite aspects the outlook is more promising than it has been since 1929.

"Nevertheless, it is impossible to overlook the fact that a new wave of currency instability, due to the unbandonment of the gold standard by any important country now adhering to it, would in all probability have the following consequences:

"A. A new pressure upon the level of gold prices. . . . The effect of exchange depreciation has been, on balance, a deflationary one.

Sharp Psychic Effect.

"B. So far from the advent of a new era of exchange depreciation assisting revival (of international trade), the chamber believes that nothing would be more fatal than such an eventuality, for it would bring in its train a new harvest of anti-dumping exchange duties, new quota regulation which would prove fatal to the recovery for which all nations of the world are hoping.

"C. Apart altogether from the direct effect to be anticipated in the sphere of foreign trade, the chamber believes it would be disastrous to overlook the possible effect of the contingencies under discussion upon the general state of public feeling. . . . The prospects of a general intensification of the feeling of hostility and ill will produced by such measures and counter measures is one which the chamber regards with profound dismay."

Zonite Products.

Investors' Guide: Will you kindly give me information on Zonite Products? Thank you in advance.—S. C. B.

Answer: Zonite Products corporation was established in 1927. It has since expanded considerably through acquisition of going concerns. In 1933 it created a wholly owned subsidiary, Tower Wines and Spirits corporation, to conduct a liquor importing business. This subsidiary is the exclusive agent for 22 British and continental European wine and liquor companies, as well as the exclusive agent for all Russian wines and spirits imported into the United States.

The main portion of the company's revenues comes from sale of Forhan's toothpaste, Zonite antiseptic and other Zonite preparations, argyrol, larvex, and products of similar nature. The company is a large advertiser, such expenditures being the heaviest cost item.

Net income in 1933 was $372,000, or 45 cents per share, which was about 55 per cent of 1932 net income of $563,000, or 69 cents per share. Net in 1931 was $953,000, before $50,000 loss on foreign exchange, against net income of $751,000 for 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets were $857,000 and current liabilities were $515,000. Working capital was $342,000, a one-third increase over Dec. 31, 1932, working capital of $258,000.

Nothing has been paid on the 822,747 shares of $1 par capital stock since the 15 cent payment of Sept. 10, 1932. The stock is speculative.

See Your Broker.

Investors' Guide: I am writing you for some information in regard to investments, of which I am not entirely familiar. I would appreciate it if you would inform me of the exact procedure in buying stocks and bonds. I have a couple of hundred dollars I would like to invest in some good stock. Just whom to go to when purchasing it is not clear to me. I know of stock brokers, but I presumed these were for the large investors.—W. E. P.

Answer: Stock brokers are just as willing to serve investors who have only a couple of hundred dollars to invest as those who have several thousand. We suggest, first of all, that you select a broker of good reputation. Instruct him as to which stock you wish to buy, the number of shares you want, and the highest price you are willing to pay. You can then leave the rest of the transaction to him. He will execute your order, send you the confirmation, etc.

If you have any doubts concerning the broker with whom you would like to deal it would probably be best to submit his name to us. We shall then be glad to forward you such information concerning his standing as is available.

BOSTON NATIONAL BANK TO DIVORCE AFFILIATE FIRM

New York, March 25.—The First National bank of Boston has nearly completed plans to divorce its affiliate, the First of Boston corporation, as required under the terms of the banking act of 1933, it was reliably reported today.

It is understood that plans call for changing the name of the corporation to the First Boston corporation, under which name the business will be conducted as heretofore, and the election as chairman of the board of John R. Macomber, for many years president of Harris, Forbes & Co. in Boston and later chairman of the Chase-Harris-Forbes corporation.

Allan M. Pope, president of the corporation, will cotinue in that capacity, it is understood, and Harry M. Addinsell, for many years a vice president of Harris, Forbes & Co., will become chairman of the executive committee.

WASTE PAPER DEALERS VOTE TO SUPPORT CODE

The Chicago chapter of the National Association of Waste Material Dealers, Inc., waste paper division, at a meeting at the Hotel Sherman yesterday voted unanimously to support the industry's code, including the provision for increased wages, George Birkenstein, president, announced last night. Some 100 concerns were represented at yesterday's meeting. Mr. Birkenstein said the code affects around 400,000 workers in the industry nationally and around 10,000 in Chicago. The code provides for increases in the minimum wages of 30 per cent for the United States as a whole and 50 per cent for the Chicago district.

Miscellaneous.

MEN

WE WILL IMMEDIATELY EMPLOY FIFTEEN ADDITIONAL MEN AT ONCE. IF YOU WANT FULL TIME WORK, A PERMANENT POSITION AND HAVE GOOD CHARACTER REFERENCES APPLY IN PERSON AT ONCE.

We will take on fifteen additional men who wish to learn to do this work and who can get along on earnings of $125 to $175 per month, in cash commissions, if necessary while studying and practicing. We will train such men free, we will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense. No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of studying and following instructions, if you are one who likes to practice, to learn skill, and judgment in what he does, and if you are willing to work for success, then we will give you a chance.

As soon as the right kind of experience is learned and conscientiously applied earnings increase. For example H. Pratt, who was a laborer has now reached a point in this business where he is able to earn some days this month more than $40 for a single day's work, or almost three times what he was earning in a full week, before he came into this business. The same with Mr. M. T. Jones, who was a theatrical producer before he came into this business has earned more than $40 in one day this month. Another example of earning possibilities in this business is Mr. E. Anderson who was in the piano manufacturing business before he came with us. He has also reached a point in this business of earning more than $40 in one day, which he has done this month. H. Krause, a former painter, is enjoying splendid earnings in this business. He has earned more than $40 in a day. H. Cook, a former insurance salesman, has also earned more than $40 in one day.

A former department store buyer, S. Thomas, joined this business without any experience in this kind of work, has now reached the point where he can also earn $40 in a day.

Some of these incomes are more than equivalent to a full week's earnings in former trades and occupations. John Dahlin now with us well over a year for the first three days this week has earned over $80. He has had weeks of $175 for one week's earnings. These incomes are possible because of our unusual Electrical Unit, which is now enjoying its fifth consecutive record year of sales.

These cash earnings are quoted in order to interest men who are genuinely looking for an opening to connect themselves with a reputable company which offers a commensurately increasing opportunity to earn money. This is steady work and we require steady men. If you really would appreciate the opportunity this position offers, call for a personal interview between the hours of one and five P. M. Monday, March 26th, 9 South Kedzie, Room 320. Apply in person.

UNUSUAL

We will employ three men for important and remunerative sales positions, offering a permanent connection and ideal opportunity.

We are not interested in men seeking a job only; we want the serious-minded, intelligent and ambitious man over 21 years of age, who realizes that it is worth while working for a substantial future and who can, during this period of apprenticeship, satisfy himself with a commission income of approximately $30 a week. Successful men with this electric unit manufacturing company have completed this apprenticeship within eight weeks at the most.

There will be many men who will reply to this advertisement, but you are assured of the courtesy of a personal and private interview. Apply Monday, March 26, at 2:00 p. m. only. Room 215, at 1046 Wilson-av.

MEN—INTERESTED IN GETTING INTO A PERMANENT, HIGHLY PROFITABLE BUSINESS, WITH NO INVESTMENT OR DEPOSIT, WILL BE SELECTED FOR THESE DESIRABLE POSITIONS MONDAY. THIS BUSINESS LEADS WORLDWIDE IN THE ELECTRIC UNIT FIELD WITH 6 LARGE FACTORIES. MEN HERE MAKE CASH COMM. UP TO $5,000.00 A YEAR. THIS UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY REQUIRES IMMEDIATE ACTION. APPLY IN PERSON AT 2 P. M. ONLY MONDAY, MARCH 26, ROOM 401, LAKE-MARION BLDG., LAKE AND MARION-STS., OAK PARK.

MEN.

We have openings for a few selected men who are accustomed to earning better than $40 per week. This work is not easy and requires a man who is alert, active and has a keen desire to get ahead and will apply himself accordingly for such promotion. This electrical appliance has more users than any of the industry and very prospects are fully protected. Your compensation will be based on your ability to follow instructions in the liberal adv comm. A car is necessary. Make application 9 to 12 noon Monday. Employment dept., 7th fl.

MEN

WE NEED MEN IN CHICAGO, BUT CAN'T USE MEN INTERESTED IN A CWA INCOME. WE ARE MORE INTERESTED IN MEN WHO DO NOT ANSWER ADS. YET INSIST ON A JOB THAT PAYS THEM AN INCOME IN EXCESS OF $45 A WEEK.

You will investigate new ideas, new products, patented, as important as pasteurizing of milk, cellophane, filtering of water—offering a permanent and profitable connection for years to come.

Air conditioning units, electrical units, and concealed heating are some of our new products.

We will establish the men selected in a BUSINESS OF THEIR OWN, finance their accounts, consign merchandise, pay the rent, light, heat, stenographer, etc., place them where the business is—pay them weekly adv. comm. and cash bonus—without one cent investment on their part.

This large corporation operates all over the world, and is preparing to expand. WE NEED GOOD MEN, but they must be hard workers—sincere—and have good references. The appeal of one of our products is powerful—beyond your belief—sells itself.
